NAZIS SLOW UP DRIVE; FORTIFY ROROS SECTOR

Troops from Bergen Capture Voss.

BULLETIN.

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, April 29, Monday (AP).—The Norwegian radio announced today that German troops had struck at the railway at Hjerkinn, 20 miles north of Dombas and 80 miles south of Storen. The railroad links vital British bases at Dombas and Storen. If the Germans cut the railway it would isolate the British at Storen, exposed to attack by Germans at Trondheim, 35 miles north. Both the British and Germans are rushing up reinforcements.

(Map on page 6.)

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, April 28 (AP).—Germany's blitzkrieg advance up Norway's eastern valley was reported halted tonight to give a Nazi force from Oslo an opportunity to catch up with the mechanized advance guard before attempting to press onward to the important German-held port of Trondheim on the western coast.

Apparently seeking to consolidate their gains in the Oester [eastern] valley, the Germans were said in Swedish dispatches to be fortifying the Roros sector, 50 miles southeast of Storen, on the Trondheim-Dombas railroad, held by the British.

[The German military communique reported steady progress of reinforcements moving northward toward Trondheim. It was indicated that some resistance was encountered in the Dombas, Tynset, and Roros areas.]

Norwegians Fall Back.

A German attempt to connect their Oslo base with the Nazi-held port of Bergen on the west coast was disclosed in a Norwegian communique which reported that the Norwegians had fallen back in the Nume and Holling valleys to the northwest of Kongsberg and Honefoss, and that the Germans had captured Voss, 50 miles east of Bergen.

The communique also said the Germans continued to bomb communication lines. One plane was reported shot down, three made forced landings and two "uncertain cases" were reported.

The communique said the Norwegians had checked at Kvam the German column advancing from Oslo toward Dombas in the Gudbrands valley. Kvam is about 35 miles southeast of Dombas.

The communique also said a German force apparently pushing west from Gjovik on Lake Mjosa had been checked between Etnedal and southern Aurdal, 40 miles west of Gjovik.

Norwegians Make Stand.

A third report in the communique said Norwegian troops at Alvdal, about 45 miles south of Roros, had stopped a German push toward Foldal, which is on a road connecting with the Storen-Dombas railroad. This report indicated Norwegians still were fighting south of Roros altho the German advance guard was in control of the Roros sector.

There was no report on the German mechanized unit which was said to have braved the dangers of a winding mountain road and dashed 50 miles in less than 24 hours from Tynset to Inset, about 15 miles south of Storen and within striking distance of the Storen-Dombas railroad.

That flanking movement was executed by an offshoot of the German force which sped to Roros. Its success appeared to threaten the British at Storen and at Dombas. Allied troops at Dombas already faced a German column advancing up the Gudbrands valley toward Trondheim.

[The British said their forces had beaten back a German attack in the Gudbrands valley, presumably in the Dombas area.]

Await Help from South.

The Swedish newspaper Allehanda's correspondent wrote from German held Steinkjer, Norwegian town at the head of Trondheim fjord and 50 miles north of Trondheim, that "no new German offensive is expected until German troops from the south contact the Steinkjer army."

Other Swedish dispatches said that German flyers attacking Namsos harbor, about 100 miles north of Trondheim and an allied landing spot, had been driven off by British antiaircraft.

It was added that the British now are established in flying fields and that German air superiority is not as marked as it was during the early phases of the Norwegian campaign.

MOVE INTO LINE FOR NEW DRIVE ON TRONDHEIM

Big Mine Field Laid to Seal Narvik.

LONDON, April 28 (AP).—Many fresh British troops have been landed on the western coast of Norway, it was disclosed semi-officially tonight. At the same time the admiralty announced the laying of a new mine field off Narvik, northern iron ore port. Earlier an official statement said a German attack had been thrown back in south central Norway.

Black areas are held by Germans.

The troops were landed successfully in spite of all the German air force could do, it was asserted. The government controled British Broadcasting corporation quoted a British newspaper correspondent with the allied forces at Namsos as saying "thousands of men have been disembarked and moved unobtrusively to points around the head of Trondheim fjord."

[The German military authorities asserted their bombers had hit two British cruisers with medium weight bombs, had set one transport afire, and struck three others in waters off Norway's west coast yesterday. The burning transport was stranded and the crew took to lifeboats, it was said. Details on page 6.]

The Germans hold Trondheim and also Steinkjer at the head of the fjord. Namsos is about 100 miles north of Trondheim.

The correspondent said that on his way to Namsos he met parties of allied troops moving up the roadway and taking cover whenever the sound of heavy bombers gave warning of more German attempts to machine gun them. He also described Namsos as a town "where there is hardly a street or a house left."

Namsos, however, has not been raided for four days, because anti-aircraft guns and fighting planes now have come into action there, it was said.

The admiralty said the new mines off Narvik had been laid in the broad Vest [West] fjord, between the mainland and the Lofoten Islands, and the approaches which command entry to the port.

Will Release Ships.

The British Broadcasting corporation said presumably the mines at Narvik "may release some of our ships for other tasks."

The Vest fjord area is near one of the three original mine fields, the laying of which was announced on April 8, the day before Germany invaded Denmark and Norway.

A German broadcast picked up in London tonight said two large areas in the Gulf of Finland off the Estonian coast had been designated as danger zones and all German shipping warned not to enter them.

One zone is outside the port of Baltiski, which Russia leased from Estonia last fall. That zone is about 20 miles from east to west and about 8 miles from north to south. The other zone, about 6 miles from east to west and 12 miles from north to south, lies east of Kolga bay, almost opposite Helsingfors, Finland.

The war office reported that British-French-Norwegian forces had thrown back a German attack in the vital Gudbrands valley, the main road from Oslo to Trondheim.

Expect "Big Things Soon."

SOMEWHERE IN NORWAY, April 29.—"Big things are likely to happen soon," in Norway, Maj. Gen Adrian Carton de Wiart, commander in chief of the British northwestern expeditionary force, said in an interview tonight.

Gen. De Wiart admitted that food supplies presented a problem because of the destruction of some depots at Namsos during the recent German bombing raids, but said the situation soon would be remedied.

2 Baby Orangs Draw Record Crowds to Zoo

BY MARCIA WINN.

The Lincoln park zoo had its largest crowd in history yesterday. It tangled up motor traffic and ate the street venders out of peanuts. All because of two baby orang-utans.

To see the orang-utans, flown to Chicago from Camden, N. J., Tuesday in the Tribune plane for the last lap of a long journey from Sumatra, some 10,000 persons streamed into the zoo's monkey house each hour. Many were waiting long before the zoo opened in the morning.

Others Seek Crowds in Vain.

Inside a little gray monkey with a long tail valiantly turned backward overhead flips. Maggie, a plump chimpanzee, made flying leaps from one end of her cage to the other. An albino monkey folded its arms and bowed from the waist. A golden baboon grimaced and danced. Bushman, the mighty gorilla, strode grandly back and forth.

But nobody looked at them.

They looked instead at the two red haired little parvenus who didn't have to do anything to attract attention but wrinkle their old, wistful faces and purse their little round mouths. At one time, while Quin Ryan described their antics over W-G-N, 1,500 persons thronged around their glassed in cages, but the parvenus only showed themselves creatures of callous indifference.

They slept.

She Has a Dainty Reach.

Now and then the little female, whom Director Floyd S. Young describes ecstatically as "that little beauty," would raise herself from her towsack bed, her long tangled hair a red aureole around her wizened face, and reach daintily for a grape. ["O," sighed a woman, "I wish I could take her home and keep her forever."]

Occasionally the little male, described by Director Young as "a tough trick," would hurl himself to the bars and gaze brightly out. Then he would scurry back to a shelf, lie on his back, legs in the air, one hand across his forehead and one hand clutching a small club ["We're training him to be a cop," Director Young said. "He never puts it down."], go to sleep again.

Outside the glass and the ropes, the crowd fought to see them, the

IT'S SPRING AT LAST, AND RICHARD DOES HIS LAWN UP BROWN

When Richard Gorniak stepped out into the bright sunshine and the balmy breezes yesterday, he realized spring had arrived. So he bought $3 worth of rich, black soil from a dealer and set to work spreading it over the front yard of his home at 5841 South Whipple street.

Then something amazing occurred. The rich, black soil caught fire. Flames danced thru its trim furrows, and smelly smoke fumed upward. For the next hour Gorniak played a garden hose on the fire. He put it out, but spoiled the appearance of his yard.

Nobody knew why it happened, but it was suggested there might have been oil in the dirt.

'Birth Certificates' to Be Put on French Cheeses

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, April 28.—French cheeses are to be provided with "birth certificates" telling when and where they were produced, states a decree of the ministry of agriculture. Beginning next month, it will be illegal to stock, transport, or sell cheese that has no identity tag. The national syndicate of cheese manufacturers promoted the tagging to decrease stockage, stop speculation and halt mounting prices.

Town Produces Coal, but Gets None; Mayor Quits

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, April 28.—When a coal producing community is alloted no coal for its own inhabitants, it is high time for the mayor to resign. Such was the reasoning which prompted the mayor of Haubourdin in northern France to give up his job as a protest today. Many Haubourdin families shivered last winter while the coal mined near the town was transported elsewhere.

Six Classes in Slovakia Reported Called to Army

BUCHAREST, Rumania, April 28.—Six classes have been called to the colors in Slovakia and the Germans have moved large detachments into that country, according to an announcement by the Bucharest radio. The railways and state highways have been taken over by German authorities, it also was announced.

Roosevelt Firm Insures Gems of 5-10 Heiress

Los Angeles, Cal., April 28 [Special].—Officials of a Los Angeles insurance firm revealed today that they had handled a deal by which insurance of $2,250,000 on the jewels of the Countess Haugwitz-Reventlow [the former Barbara Hutton, 5 and 10 cent store heiress] had been switched from Lloyds of London to domestic companies.

The firm, Bayly, Martin & Fay, is allied with the Roosevelt & Sargent agency in Boston, of which James Roosevelt, eldest son of the President, was one of the founders. William M. Martin, president of the Los Angeles company, is a partner in Roosevelt & Sargent. The two firms have offices together here.

Deal Originates in New York.

Martin said that as he recalled it, the transaction with the countess originated in the New York offices of Bayly, Martin & Fay. He added that Roosevelt & Sargent sometimes started deals which the local firm handled, but that he was "pretty sure" James Roosevelt had no hand in this matter.

The countess, who is in San Francisco preparing to sail for Honolulu, said thru a secretary that arrangements for the transfer of insurance had been made thru her New York attorney and that she did not know what company got the business.

Roosevelt Retains Interest.

Young Roosevelt, altho now in the movie business in California, retains an interest in Roosevelt & Sargent. His mother, Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, is a director. At the White House it was announced, when she took the post, that she was watching her son's interests.

Since the retirement of the President's son as an active business getter for Roosevelt & Sargent, the firm has written many large insurance policies. In January it was reported to have written 50 per cent of the insurance on nine $675,000 airplaner of Pan-American Airways.

Countess Haugwitz-Reventlow has pending in Denmark a suit for divorce against the count, who is a Dane. This suit has dragged along slowly. Technically the countess, altho American born and heiress to the Woolworth millions, is a Danish citizen. It is reported she is eager to regain her American citizenship.

Gang Roundup Ordered After Fall of Scalise

BY JAMES DOHERTY.

Chicago police have been ordered to pick up on sight 14 of the city's most notorious members of the old Capone syndicate, including the commander in chief, Frank Nitti.

Whether or not any connection between the two incidents existed, the order went out from Chief of Detectives John L. Sullivan soon after George Scalise had been removed from his office of president of the Building Service Employés international union.

Scalise, an ex-convict panderer and an alleged protége of the syndicate, was indicted Friday in New York on charges of conspiracy and extortion in shakedowns aggregating $100,000 from hotel owners and contractors.

Seek Capone Lieutenants.

Detectives admittedly were looking for the most prominent of the men left behind in 1933 by Al Capone to carry on his work. The 14 are wanted for questioning first by State's Attorney Thomas J. Courtney and then by United States Attorney William J. Campbell.

The 14 whose pickup was ordered are:

Frank [The Enforcer] Nitti, successor to Capone and reputed head of the syndicate, now said to be nation-wide in its operations.

Dennis [The Duke] Cooney, long a political power in the 1st ward and operator of brothels, cafés, and gambling houses.

Louis [Little New York] Campagna.

Frank Diamond, brother-in-law of Capone.

James Mundi, once a Cicero gambling house boss but more recently a loop gaming room boss.

Bureau squads went to the homes, clubs, and hangouts of the 14 and found not one of them. Detectives reported they had fled the city to the last man.

Many Have Prison Records.

Deputy United States marshals who had sought the same men for some time past also were unable to find them. In this case it was the first time all three agencies—federal, state and city police—were jointly seeking the men whose names have been on crime records here for two decades. Many of them, including Nitti and Guzick, have served prison sentences for income tax frauds.

Before Capone was sent to prison in 1933 for income tax evasion he controled most of the rackets in Chicago and had begun to acquire control of unions. He had aimed at complete control of the union men in several industries.

Nitti, as Capone's business manager and proxy, is said to have taken the criminal army into many legitimate enterprises, but to have maintained control of gambling, and principally the handbooks in the loop and 1st ward. He lost a few unions and acquired a few others, officials

DEADLINE NEARS IN MILK DRIVER CONTRACT FIGHT

Agreement on Pay Held Unlikely.

BY WILLIAM SHINNICK.

The contract under which more than 4,000 members of the Milk Wagon Drivers' union work will expire at midnight tomorrow. Spokesmen for the union and for the employing milk distributors indicated yesterday that their differences are so great there is no prospect of agreement on a new contract before the deadline.

Ernest S. Ballard.

There is sharp dispute on terms under which the drivers are willing to continue working temporarily. Each side has issued a proposal and each proposal has been rejected by the other side.

The entire union membership has been summoned to meet tomorrow night in Car Men's hall at Van Buren street and Ashland avenue to adopt, in the words of their leaders, "a course of action."

Negotiations Break Down.

Efforts to negotiate a new contract came to an impassé Monday when the union refused to deal with Attorney Ernest S. Ballard, who had been chosen by more than 130 dealers to act as their negotiator. Each side then formulated its temporary demand.

The union said the men would continue to work, beginning Wednesday, under a wage and commission scale substantially like that now in force. The employers demanded a severe wage cut at once and a change in the method of computing commissions.

"Our proposal," said Ballard, "is an attempt by the distributors to get their costs of doing business sufficiently under control to enable them to meet the competition the companies employing low wage nonunion labor."

Union Rejects Proposal.

"The employers' proposal is a threat to cut the basic wage from $48 to $30 for many men," said Henry Weber, union president. "This is arbitrary and drastic. It is not acceptable and we deem it advisable for the whole membership to approve a course of action."

Behind the controversy lie hard economic facts. One of the principal ones is the change of milk buying habits that has occurred in the Chicago area in the last 10 years. In 1929 approximately 85 per cent of the fluid milk supply was marketed thru home delivery service and 15 per cent thru stores.

Now more than 50 per cent is sold at retail thru stores. As a result, the drivers' union, which once had more than 7,000 members, has shrunk to a little more than 4,000. As the home trade dropped off routes were consolidated, the companies trying to keep an arrangement that would give each driver the opportunity to sell a minimum of 1,333 units a week [one unit is a quart or pint of milk, quart of buttermilk, etc.]. For sales over 1,333 units, at present, the driver receives a commission.

Consumption Rises But Little.

There has been little increase in milk consumption in late years. Dr. Raleigh W. Stone, an economist, attributes this to a failing birth rate and to the relative constancy of milk consumption by older folk. He said the amount of milk marketed in Chicago is about the same as it was 10 years ago.

How did the shift to stores occur? Attorney Ballard said the employers using union labor were forced by nonunion competition to go heavily into the store sales.

"The price sale of milk for Chicago consumers is now determined by store prices," he said. "Home delivery no longer is a controlling factor."

New System Adopted.

The nonunion independents grew up in the last eight years, adopting a system of distribution that was said yesterday. The syndicate also owns a few race tracks, the officers said.

Order for Roundup Follows Scalise Ouster.

The immediate cause of the roundup order was said to have been the evasion of subpenas to testify before various federal grand juries which for some months past have been investigating Chicago and nation-wide gambling and the splitup of the millions in illicit profits.

As they watched their partners being "knocked off" by the Campbell and Courtney operations, the 14 men named yesterday vanished, one by one.

It was hinted Campbell wanted them questioned before the grand jury because the syndicate deliberately defied the federal government, prosecutors felt, and set up a new wire race service which caused a number of indictments last week.

On looking over the list of persons to be arrested on sight, detective bureau veterans said this group might be involved in "most anything."

State's attorney's police said there was no present inquiry under way concerning the activities of Scalise, the deposed head of the Building Service Employés' union. Scalise was reported to have been an ally of Nitti.

Nitti Aid to Scalise Reported.

It was said here that Nitti put Scalise into office as head of the union, which has 70,000 members. It was reliably reported Nitti was responsible for keeping Scalise in the union office three months ago, when his ouster was imminent.

Courtney was known to be continuing the investigation of the murder here a year ago of Louis Schiavone, bodyguard for Matt Taylor, president of the Chicago Elevator Operators' union, who was shorn of his power by Scalise.

Courtney was known also to be investigating reported attempts of Scalise to oust William L. McFetridge from his offices as president of the Chicago Flat Janitors' union, president of the Chicago School Janitors' union, and first vice president of the Building Service Employés' union.

McFetridge now seems slated to succeed Scalise as president of the international union. The election will come during a convention in Atlantic City, N. J., which will open May 6. The Chicago delegation will represent a membership of nearly 20,000. James B. Bambrick of New York represents a group nearly as large.

Seek to Scrutinize Records.

Courtney's office has not been called upon as yet by District Attorney Thomas E. Dewey of New York to aid in the Scalise inquiry, according to word yesterday from New York. Dewey's men have appeared here seeking access to the records of the union, but have been denied a look at the records.

The ouster of Scalise was accomplished after his indictment last Friday in New York on the shakedown charges. Dewey and his aids spent months investigating Scalise's finances, and acted when they had evidence which resulted in 52 indictment counts.

The object of the search of Scalise's records here was said to concern large sums of money he withdrew from the union.

The presidency of the union means control of dues of at least $294,000 a year, paid into the international coffers. In addition, if Scalise could control the individual locals—such as those headed by Taylor and McFetridge in Chicago, Bambrick in New York, and Charles Hardy in San Francisco, Cal., he would have millions at his command.

Unions Pay $24,500 Monthly.

The unionists pay a few dollars monthly into their local unions, which in turn pay 35 cents a month for each member into the international. Thus, with 70,000 members at 35 cents each a month, $24,500 each month poured into Scalise's hands from this source alone.

It was known he spent money freely, and when he purchased a 27 room summer home in Ridgfield, Conn., Dewey began an inquiry. Two of Scalise's friends and constant companions—Izzy and Louis Schwartz—came first. Izzy Schwartz is an international representative of Scalise in the east, and Louis is president of local 32-J of the international. They, too, were accused of extorting money from hotel owners and contractors.

The union records, which are said to have been examined by federal agents of the internal revenue department, were said to be wanted by Dewey to confirm reports that Scalise milked the international dry. Scalise headed the international, which is an American Federation of Labor affiliate, for three years, during which the "take" was nearly $900,000. Today the treasury contains less than $100,000, it was reported, and Scalise is to be called upon to explain where the $800,000 went.

Undecided on Records.

McFetridge said yesterday he did not know what disposition would be made of the records. When an attempt was made in New York to subpena them Scalise's attorney said Paul David of Chicago had them. David is secretary treasurer of the union. He, McFetridge, Thomas Burke, Gus Van Heck, and Miss Elizabeth Grady comprised the executive board which suspended Scalise pending his trial.

Scalise's notification yesterday that he did not intend to be a candidate for the union presidency seemed locally, to pave the way for McFetridge's election. As things go, one of the unionists said, the job seems to belong to McFetridge by right of inheritance if not by right of succession.

Fugitives

Below are four men who were among those sought by police last night on orders of State's Attorney Thomas J. Courtney.

ACCORD UNLIKELY AS MILK DRIVER PACTS NEAR END

Union Contract Deadline Is Tomorrow Night.

new. A typical company would purchase, handle, and bottle milk, then sell it to vendors who carried it to stores, from which it was sold at retail.

The integrated company with union help carried the milk to the buyer's doorstep. The independent sold his product in bottles at his plant. The vendor's work was to carry it to the retailer who sold it. Estimates from both union and employing sources indicate the average vendor gets from the retailer only three-quarters of a cent to 1 cent more than he paid the dairy. The retailer, in turn, added a penny.

Thus, if milk could be sold by the nonunion dairy at 6½ cents a quart, the added cost in reaching the consumer was 2 cents. Dr. Stone and others have estimated that the big companies employing union labor pay 4 cents in labor for home delivery of a quart. This difference, Ballard has insisted, must be narrowed.

The union employing companies, to keep their volume, had to join in the race for the store business. They had to meet the prices charged by the nonunion companies for their milk. The differences between home delivery and store delivery retail prices, only 1 cent a quart 10 years ago, widened. Now the delivered price is 13 cents a quart and the store retail price 8½ cents.

Ballard, who calls the present store quotations "milk war prices," said:

Ballard Tells of Parleys.

"Union dealers are convinced that if delivery wage costs cannot be cut they will be faced with alternatives—further suspension and consolidation of delivery routes or adoption of a different system of distribution."

As to the controversy over himself as negotiator, Ballard said that representatives of the Inside Dairy Workers' union, whose contract also expires soon, were conferring with him on a friendly basis and that progress toward a contract agreement with them was being made.

Peter Hoban, recording secretary of the drivers' union, said the dealers are adopting the wrong attitude toward store sales.

"That system means suicide for them," he said. "What they should have is more home delivery. They can get it by establishing the old 1 cent difference between store and home sales.

"The milk wagon driver isn't overpaid now, and he works 70 to 77 hours a week. On the average he loses $6 a week thru bad debts and poor collections, so his real base pay is $42. We want to keep up employment and a decent standard of living. The dealers want to pull both down.

"We have proposed that we will organize the vendors who now are nonunion. That is our job and we will have the help of many powerful unions in carrying it thru. That will put all delivery services on an equal basis. After that it will be the companies' task to merchandise so that the home delivery business comes back. They must create to favor store sales—for their good as well as ours."

Hoban said there was no objection to Ballard sitting in on the contract negotiations as an adviser, but that some one more experienced in the milk business should negotiate, "preferably the dealers, with whom we always negotiated before."

Ballard's retort was that he had plenty of technical experts, including a dealer committee, always with him.

PLAN TO SPEED HOME BUILDING IS BLOCKED BY N. Y. BRICKLAYERS

New York, April 28 [Special].—The campaign of the American Federation of Labor to boom small home construction by setting up a uniform wage standard for all classes of skilled workers has struck a snag.

New York bricklayers, it was learned today, have refused to accept any reduction in their present hourly pay rate of $1.90.

A. F. of L. officials decided at a meeting here a month ago to attempt to lower the wage scales and equalize all building crafts. Present scales of pay range from $11 to $14 a day. After the meeting 19 unions began negotiating with contractors for a flat $9 a day scale.

ROOSEVELT GETS SET FOR BIGGEST SHOW OF CAREER

Tour Designed to 'Black Out' G. O. P. Sessions.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 28.—President Roosevelt, returning from Warm Springs today, squared away for the staging of the greatest political spectacle of his career.

When the curtain rises upon this drama next month the great showman, reputedly the cleverest politician who ever has occupied the White House, will be seen setting forth upon a tour of western states. The finale, on the eve of the Democratic national convention in July, will disclose Mr. Roosevelt breaking the news to the multitude that he will or will not run for a third term.

But first he has to get rid of congress by the middle of June at the latest in order to absent himself from Washington for the length of time necessary to give the great spectacle an effective staging.

Two Forces in His Favor.

Working in favor of the President in this undertaking are the universal desires of members of congress to get home and start mending their political fences and the fact that he is not pressing for legislation embodying further social and economic innovations. In fact, throughout this congress, control of which the New Deal lost in the conservative reaction of 1938, the President has confined his fighting to a rear guard action to conserve New Deal legislation already in force.

Working against the President in his effort to get rid of congress expeditiously is the popular demand for legislation curbing the class discrimination and autocratic excesses of New Deal agencies.

The regular appropriation bills will be disposed of in time for an early June adjournment. The administration then will exert pressure to throw overboard any annoying measures remaining on the calendar.

Pressure on Hatch Bill.

Thus the plot is to prevent the Hatch purity in politics bill, passed by the senate, from coming to a vote in the house where it would be certain of passage. Mr. Roosevelt would sign it, without enthusiasm. This measure would put a crimp in Democratic state machines thriving on federal handouts.

The house has passed the Logan-Walter bill designed to relieve victims of New Deal dictatorship by making the regulations and orders of the alphabetical agencies appealable to the courts. The President is against this measure and is expected to veto it if the administration fails to sidetrack it in the senate.

The house is about to pass a bill modifying the wage-hour act. The administration will endeavor to stop the amendments in the senate. The senate, likewise, is being relied upon to stifle any amendment of the Wagner labor relations act objectionable to the President.

Many Stops Planned.

Once congress is out of the way the President will embark upon the sort of enterprise that is incense to his nostrils. He will journey in a special train thru more than 30 states, stopping for breakfasts, luncheons, dinners, receptions, and dedications wherever opportunity offers for large gatherings and demonstrations of acclaim to the President.

The plan is to stretch this series of Roosevelt rallies thru the period of the Republican national convention, which meets at Philadelphia on June 24, the purpose being to attract newspaper headlines rivaling, if not overshadowing, those accorded the doings of the Republicans.

Viewed as Master Stroke.

To the extent to which the President in this manner succeeds in blanketing the Republican convention he will create the impression of the insignificance in the public regard of the Republican acts of nominating a presidential ticket and adopting a national platform when compared with his own activities.

By his admirers this scheme is regarded as unsurpassed in sheer cunning by any of the masterly political strokes for which Mr. Roosevelt is renowned.

On the eve of the Democratic national convention the Roosevelt popularity demonstrations will constitute a build-up for the grand finale of the movement to draft the President for a third term.

Burglar Trapped

CHINESE CLAIM DRIVE PERILS JAP HOLD ON NANKING

HONGKONG, April 29, Monday (AP).—Heavy fighting in eastern central China, with Chinese troops said to have inflicted 5,000 casualties in Shansi province and to have captured a town near the treaty port of Wuhu, was reported today in Chinese news dispatches.

One report said Chinese troops forced their way to points southeast and southwest of Wuhu, 50 miles above Nanking on the Yangtze river, which itself was said to have been threatened. Several Japanese supply columns assertedly were intercepted near Wuhu and quantities of arms and ammunition seized. The Chinese were said to have recaptured Nanling, 27 miles south of Wuhu, last Friday.

A belated Central News Agency [Chinese] dispatch also said that a Japanese munitions transport was blown up last Wednesday by a floating Chinese mine while sailing down the Yangtze near Anking, Japanese occupied capital of Anhwei province. The transport sank almost immediately and only one Japanese sailor survived, the dispatch said.

Bridgetender Rescues Man Who Tries Suicide

A well dressed man about 25 years old, who had been drinking, jumped into the north branch of the Chicago river at the Fullerton avenue bridge last night. He was rescued by Joseph O'Malley, the bridgetender, revived by Inhalator Squad 10, and taken to the Alexian Brothers hospital. He refused to give his name.

POLICE BULLETS ROUT HUMAN FLY BURGLAR ON ROOF

Theater Crowd Sees Drama on South Side.

A human fly burglar who climbed 15 feet up the walls of an airshaft in an attempt to escape from police was trapped early yesterday on the roof of a two flat building at 6308 Lowe avenue. Twenty shots were fired before the burglar surrendered. He was unwounded.

The prisoner is Russell Faragoi, 25 years old, who has a five year record in crime. Sergt. Joseph Morrison of the detective bureau had been looking for Faragoi since burglars were frightened away six months ago from a machine shop at 7509 Racine avenue.

Car Traced to Burglar.

In their haste to escape from a police squad, they left their automobile behind. Ownership of the machine was traced to Faragoi. The car never was claimed and has been taken to Navy pier to be sold at the police auction of unclaimed goods.

Sergt. Morrison said he and his men almost caught up with Faragoi three months ago. They were chasing him in the neighborhood of Union avenue and 66th street when he vanished into an areaway. They learned later that he had gone into the home of Mrs. Lorraine McEvoy at 6631 Union avenue. He pleaded with her to hide him from some hoodlums he said were going to beat him because he had run into their automobile.

Saturday night Sergt. Morrison was informed that Faragoi was at the Lowe avenue address, where a woman friend lived on the second floor. The sergeant posted his men around the building, then went into the flat. He found no trace of his quarry.

Policeman Climbs Phone Pole.

When a thoro search of the second floor, first floor, and basement disclosed no trace of Faragoi, Policeman Howard Hurley shinnied up a telephone pole to the roof of a nearby building. From there he saw Faragoi cowering on the top of the flat building. The burglar was clad only in underwear.

"Stand up and raise your hands!" the policeman ordered. Faragoi didn't move. Hurley began firing in the general direction of the burglar to frighten him. Sergt. Morrison also fired several shots into the air. Faragoi finally straightened and put up his hands. Then he got down thru a trap door in the porch roof.

Sergt. Morrison then learned the secret of the burglar's ascent to the roof.

Crawls Up Airshaft.

Faragoi had entered the airshaft from a hall window and scrunched painfully to the top by bracing his feet against one wall and his back against the other.

In 1935 Faragoi was one of three men seized in the holdup slaying of Mrs. Veronica De Cadestecker, 65, owner of an East Moline, Ill., tavern. Faragoi turned state's evidence and escaped a sentence. In the same year three policemen at the Burnside station were stripped of their stars on charges they were in league with a gang of robbers of which Faragoi was a member.

CHINESE KIDNAPERS CAPTURE 6 GERMANS; HOLD 2 FOR RANSOM

PEKING, April 29, Monday (AP).—Lueder Haesloop, manager here for a German export company, and another German named Lanners are in the hands of Chinese bandits. They and four other Germans were captured 15 miles west of here yesterday morning. A Japanese army detachment is pursuing the bandits.

The Chinese were dressed as peasants but claimed a connection with the Chinese 8th route army. They released four of the captives after saying they were chiefly interested in ransom.

W-G-N SYMPHONIC HOUR INTRODUCED AT STUDIO PARTY

Association of Commerce Members Are Guests.

BY EDWARD BARRY.

In the gray Gothic studio building on North Michigan avenue, the only structure in the country devoted entirely to broadcasting, W-G-N and THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE held open house last night for members of the Chicago Association of Commerce and their families and guests.

The occasion was the first of a series of invitation affairs designed to strengthen still further W-G-N's ties with the community by honoring the great civic organizations and public welfare workers of the Chicago district—the army, the navy, the postoffice, the police department, the fire department, and prominent educators.

Nearly 600 members of the Association of Commerce were present last night. Among the members and guests who took part in the program or were seen in the audience studio were Oscar G. Mayer, president of the association, Mr. and Mrs. Frank J. Loesch, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Kirk, Mrs. John Alden Carpenter, and Mrs. Kellogg Fairbank.

Symphonic Hour Introduced.

To entertain its guests, THE TRIBUNE presented for the first time a feature called the W-G-N Symphonic hour. It featured Marion Claire, soprano; Michael Wilkomirski, violinist; the augmented W-G-N Concert orchestra, and the W-G-N chorus. Henry Weber, musical director of W-G-N and artistic director of the Chicago Opera company, conducted. The new program is intended to raise the standards of radio by presenting the best in music competently performed by outstanding artists.

Last night the studio audience as well as listeners to W-G-N and the coast-to-coast network of the Mutual Broadcasting system heard something quite out of the ordinary. Instead of the worn Victor Herbert tunes which have been pouring out of loud speakers since radio began, they were offered seldom performed pieces of Schubert, a John Alden Carpenter song, and an excerpt from the "Capriccio Espagnole" of Rimsky-Korsakoff. This does not mean, however, that the program was uncompromisingly "high brow." There were such things as the "Caprice Viennois" of Kreisler, the "Artist's Life" waltz of Strauss, and the folk song, "Believe Me If All Those Endearing Young Charms."

Audience Shows Enjoyment.

Other reminders of the fact that this was a radio program intended for maximum public appeal, rather than a concert performed merely for the few, were found in the character of the arrangements and the use of a signature melody. Miss Claire sang Schubert's "Ave Maria" with chimes and a choral and orchestral background. The signature was the first theme of the last movement of Brahm's first symphony.

The audience enjoyed the program greatly, and awarded many a salvo to the performers.

Mr. Loesch, former president of the Chicago crime commission, spoke briefly, expressing himself as proud to be the first speaker on this new type of broadcast.

Stresses Value to Community.

He stressed the value to the community of the various civic organizations which are to be honored in this series of programs, thanked THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE for making its facilities available for such a purpose, and congratulated the musicians on the quality of their performance.

After the radio broadcast, there were additional short studio talks by Mr. Mayer and Col. Robert R. McCormick, editor and publisher of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE. Col. McCormick referred to Mr. Loesch as "the first citizen of Chicago."

These invitation affairs and the W-G-N Symphonic hour are to be regular features. Another highly important series of broadcasts starts next Thursday night when THE TRIBUNE presents the first of a series of streamlined operettas to be known as "The Chicago Theater of the Air."

BURGLARS FIGHT PISTOL BATTLE WITH POLICEMEN

Three hoodlums and two policemen from the Jefferson Park station, exchanged pistol shots at close range outside a poultry shop at 3810 North Cicero avenue early today. The trio escaped. Police believe one was wounded.

The men were trapped in the store by Policemen Edward Dempkowski, Elter Gardani, and Marion Rybackwicz. While Dempkowski went to the rear his partners waited in front.

youngest pair of orang-utans in captivity in this country. Little boys crawled between and beneath the legs of adults. Large mamas pushed little children out of their path of vision. A policeman, worried about the crush, tried to relieve it, gave up in despair. "It's an impossibility," he sighed.

Children, advancing to the microphone, suggested various names for the anonymous couple. One plump little girl suggested "Rangie" and "Tangie." One wanted to call the female "Scarlett O'Hara," the male "Mr. Long Tail." Others suggested "Monkey Doodle," "Funny Face," "Little Orphan Annie," and "Goofy."

But the little male continued to twirl his toes in the air, and the baby female to roll sleepily over on her towsack.

"If you ask me," Sergt. Harold Jacob of the Lincoln park police commented, "I'd say every one in Chicago was here. And only two kids lost. I don't know how to account for it."

Director Young estimated the crowd as at least 100,000. "Tremendous," he said. "After 3 o'clock, the people could hardly get in at all."

Robert J. Dunham, president of the park board, expressed his gratification at the great drawing card the little orang-utans turned out to be.

George T. Donoghue, superintendent of the Chicago parks, also was highly enthusiastic. "The people came in droves," he said. "They swamped the zoo."

LEGISLATORS SET OUT FOR A FIGHT AT SPRINGFIELD

Most members of the Illinois legislature will entrain today for Springfield for the special session which opens tomorrow against a background of Gov. Henry Horner's long illness and the efforts of Lieut. Gov. John Stelle to act as governor.

Senator Harold G. Ward of Chicago, Mayor Kelly's legislative spokesman, has canvassed the city Democrats to make certain they will be on hand.

No Democratic caucus or meeting has been scheduled as yet.

While the subjects in the Horner call are not likely to produce much partisan fighting, the machine Democrats fear the Republicans will aid the Stelle-Adamowski-Barrett group in the factional battle. An investigation of Gov. Horner's condition to determine whether he is able to continue as governor is expected to get G. O. P. support.

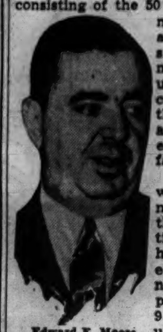
G.O.P. TO MAKE ITS COUNTY MEETING A FAMILY REUNION

Primary Winners and Losers Invited.

BY PARKE BROWN.

The Republican county convention—consisting of the 50 ward committeemen from Chicago and the 30 township committeemen from the suburbs within the county — meets this afternoon and may be turned into a sort of family reunion.



Edward F. Moore.

Chairman Edward F. Moore announced yesterday that the invitation to be present has been extended not only to the nominees in the primary of April 9 but also to the unsuccessful contenders on that occasion. He said he hoped that many of them will be present.

True Harmony Indicated.

He adopted the reunion idea because all the indications pointed to harmonious proceedings in the organization of the new committee. With Dwight H. Green, the nominee for governor, requesting it, everything has been arranged for the election of John T. Dempsey [33d] as the new chairman to succeed Moore.

In order to dispose of some questions not yet settled Moore has called a caucus at 1 p. m. which will allow ample time for the completion of a harmony program before the actual convention at 3 o'clock. Both gatherings will be held in the Crystal room of the Hotel Sherman.

There are to be seven vice chairmen. The post of vice chairman at large was awarded last Friday night by a representative conference of committeemen to Patrick Sheridan Smith. Each of the five recognized political areas of the city, the north, northwest, west, southwest; and south sections, is to name one vice chairman, and another will be named by the suburbs.

One Question Unsettled.

The one question unsettled is the secretaryship of the committee. Robert C. Rohn [19th], the present secretary, was defeated in the primary. There are three candidates to succeed him, Charles Fleck [45th] is backed by the north side group, George M. Fisher [18th] is supported by the south siders, and the suburbs want to elect the veteran William Busse [Elk Grove].

Six new members of the committee will make their bows to their associates and, unless some friend tips them off, may deliver speeches on how the business of the organization should be conducted. They are Harry L. Timm [10th], Harry A. Carlson [19th], Louis J. Meyers [29th], C. Herman Johnson [40th], Samuel L. Workman [42d], and Emerson C. Whitney [48th]. Timm, Carlson, Workman, and Whitney were Green candidates.

Mrs. Thomas E. Dewey, wife of the Republican presidential candidate, arrived in Chicago yesterday hungry and in a gay mood.

"What do you want me to do?" she asked a news photographer as she emerged fresh and immaculate in navy and white from her train in the North Western station. "Talk? Laugh? Pretend that I don't want breakfast?"

Mrs. Dewey was on her way home to New York, from the west, to see her two small boys. She had left her campaigning husband behind her in Colorado Springs, Colo., ready to swing out for Kansas.

She went quickly from train to cab with her traveling companion, Mrs. Carl T. Hogan of New York, and Mr. Dewey's cousin, Leonard C. Reid, at whose home at 4810 Ellis avenue they spent a few hours between trains.

G. O. P. VOTE NEAR PRE-ROOSEVELT SIZE IN 16TH DIST.

Republicans Gain 24% in Peoria Area.

Peoria, Ill., April 28 [Special].—While the 16th congressional district and Peoria county in particular failed to carry on the full Republican trend indicated in Illinois in the spring primary, the returns showed some improvement in G. O. P. prospects for next November.

Tazewell and Marshall counties showed substantial increases in Republican sentiment. Stark and Bureau counties promised a return to the figures of the pre-Roosevelt era. Putnam county, one of the smallest in the state in area, cast a Republican vote smaller than it cast in 1938 and only slightly bigger than its total in 1936.

Gain of 24.2 Per Cent Shown.

As a whole the district, because of its smaller counties and in spite of the increased Democratic strength in Peoria since the reopening of the distilleries here, swung further toward Republicanism. The total Republican vote was only 240 more than the district cast in 1936 but it was 8,305 votes or 24.2 per cent larger than the G. O. P. recorded in 1938.

Thomas E. Dewey, the only entrant for the presidential preference vote, received 37,002 votes. In 1936 there were two candidates in the corresponding test of sentiment. The late Senator William E. Borah received 21,305 votes and Frank Knox, 13,500, a total of 34,805. In 1932, when there was no strong entrant in Illinois, there were only 15,217 votes cast for president.

The six candidates for national convention delegates received a total of 62,832 votes, compared to 47,877 in the corresponding election in 1936 and to 51,328 recorded in the same contest in 1932.

Dewey Tops Vote Getters.

Thomas E. Dewey, president	37,002
Everett M. Dirksen, congressman	34,606
B. C. Heacock, national delegate	20,122
Dr. W. C. Steele, national delegate	15,505
Wayland Brooks, United States senator	21,766
Dwight F. Green, governor	27,947
Hugh W. Cross, lieutenant governor	14,268
Justus L. Johnson, secretary of state	13,178
Arthur C. Lueder, state auditor	3,082
Warren Wright, state treasurer	15,669
George F. Barrett, attorney general	9,359
W. G. Stratton, congressman at large	14,391
Stephen A. Day, congressman at large	11,601

The vote on the congressional nomination, 41,102 fell considerably below the figures for 1932 and 1936, which were 51,600 and 57,911, respectively.

This analysis of the primary result was compiled by representatives of THE TRIBUNE from the official county canvasses.

The Mid-Season Furniture market will open today in the Merchandise mart. More than 1,600 furniture buyers are expected to attend the week-long show.

DEWEY ILLNESS FORCES CHANGE IN TOUR PLANS

Colorado Springs, Colo., April 28 (AP).—Thomas E. Dewey, ordered to bed for two days because of a slight illness, postponed his departure for Wichita, Kas., tonight.

The candidate for the Republican presidential nomination is suffering from an upset stomach and fever. On advice of physicians, he stayed in bed today and will remain there tomorrow. Tentative plans call for depature of the Dewey party Thursday.

Dewey's talk at Wichita, scheduled for tomorrow night, has been postponed tentatively to Friday. His appearance at Marshalltown, Ia., set for Tuesday, probably will be on Saturday. The tentative schedule changes call for Dewey's arrival in Chicago next Sunday for a conference with his supporters and departure for New York Sunday night.

Marshall Field & Company
presents here each day observations intended to be of value to those it seeks to serve.

HERE'S ONE I CAN'T ANSWER!

By CALEB

"WHY DOES your company publish this daily newspaper message of yours—which, while it occupies paid space just like a commercial advertisement, does not read like an advertisement at all?"

This natural question is asked with sufficient frequency in personal talks and occasionally by mail to merit a candid answer. The best answer I know, however, was supplied some months ago by a reader who happened to be present when I was addressing a business men's group.

"The Caleb column," he volunteered, "is to my mind constructive because it is the only public contact you make in print that is a human, personal, non-selling contact." (The italics were in his voice.) "Your advertising must, of business necessity, describe, display and endeavor to sell merchandise; whereas in your daily 'printed talk' you can indulge in interesting conversation about things in general. It is friend-making conversation which causes one to think of your store as having a personality."

The definition pleased me, because it was both discriminating and concise. And I am hopeful that, in appraising these messages as "friend-making conversation," he truly expressed the majority opinion of Caleb's unknown readership . . . for only in that case is the column's intent being realized.

Appearing though it does in separate bits of monologue that at no time require more than two minutes' reading—the aggregate amount of this day-to-day conversation already in print is startling. Today's two-minute chat, for example, is No. 1408. One thousand four hundred and eight "observations intended to be of value" represent, in total, some 636,600 words—or the equivalent of more than six full length novels. And cover a variety of subjects that the Caleb Office lists under ninety-three different headings.

Surveying this far landscape of traversed topics and ideas, I sit back in my chair, at moments, and wonder! There is no yardstick available by which to measure our unseen audience. Readers can exist, and be pleased, and still we would not know it. "Would they," I have continued wondering, "actually write and tell me—if I were to ask in this space whether they followed the Caleb column regularly, and enjoyed it?"

It is an unusual favor to ask. It means, to busy people, the bother of sitting down and writing a letter to someone whom most of them have never seen. But the question often intrudes—and I often feel the wish that many who have never expressed themselves on this point would be kind enough to help me answer it.

GERMANS CLAIM BOMBERS STRIKE SIX BRITISH SHIPS

Two Cruisers and Four Transports Damaged.

BERLIN, April 28 (AP).—Successful new blows against the allies' land and sea forces in Norway were reported by Germany today while pleased Nazis surveyed the effects of their newest white book.

German bombers were said officially to have hit two British cruisers with medium weight bombs, to have set one transport afire and struck three others—six ships in all—in waters off the middle Norwegian west coast today.

The burning transport was stranded and the crew took to lifeboats, this announcement said. How severely the other ships were damaged was not stated.

The high command reported steady progress of German reënforcements moving northward toward Trondheim, potentially the key to the war in Norway.

Acknowledge Resistance.

The communique acknowledged, however, that German forces were meeting some resistance in their advance north and northwest from Oslo. Altho it did not specify where, the heaviest fighting apparently was in the Dombas, Tynset, and Roros areas of central Norway.

These are in the Gudbrands valley and Oester valley, parallel paths slicing Norway diagonally from Oslo to the Atlantic seaboard.

German advices said armored mobile units and warplanes covering their motorcade were disrupting British, French, and Norwegian communications in the valleys and that defense positions were being broken up in the Bergen and Stavanger districts on the coast.

[In London a war office communique on Norwegian operations said a German attack in the Gudbrands valley had been repulsed and that German air activity had failed to prevent debarkations of allied troops in Norway.]

The British ships reported hit today were in addition to those recorded by Germany as victims of her air attack yesterday—a cruiser struck amidships off Narvik, another put out of action near Andalsnes, three transports sunk and four others damaged.

British Harassed Constantly.

Today's high command communique, reporting action of yesterday, described the British as constantly harassed both on the fighting fronts and at their bases in Norway. Other official reports enlarged on that picture.

The communique said German troops were highly successful and were continuing their rapid advance, bolstered by inceasing air attack.

Captives in the Stavanger district, it reported, rose to 241 officers and 2,921 men, including numerous British flyers, and seized war material included 22 cannon and 267 machine guns. Other sources said most of them were from the Leicestershires, including their commander, and from the Sherwood Foresters.

Mentioned in White Paper.

These are the two units mentioned by the White paper yesterday as slated to take part in the alleged British expedition to Norway.

DNB, official news agency, reported continued strengthening of German troops in Norway and declared the allies were threatened by additions to the Nazis' motorized units.

In addition to the high command's figures, DNB listed 10,000 rifles and pistols and several million rounds of ammunition as captured in the Stavanger district. It declared Nazi forces had routed the Norwegian 3d division in that sector by encircling tactics. It said the maneuver was necessitated by relatively weak numbers of Germans against Norwegians in strong, staggered positions.

Says Losses Small.

The agency described the German losses as small despite admitted strong resistance by the Norwegians.

Low flying German warplanes inland, DNB reported, surprised allied infantry in the Dombas area, southeast of Andalsnes, and carried out "especially numerous attacks" on railroad lines there.

"Countless prisoners were taken," it was asserted.

The agency said the attacks, sudden and heavy, were concentrated on roads previously made hazardous by the destruction of bridges. DNB was unable to identify the nationality of allied forces in this zone, but the propaganda ministry "assumed" they "were both British and Norwegian."

The aerial attacks on the important Andalsnes-Dombas railroad, DNB's report continued, derailed two transport trains, and set another afire.

At Kors, it said, a munitions dump was exploded, and at Andalsnes, Lesje, Altval, and Dombas, buildings and stations were burned and tracks ripped apart.

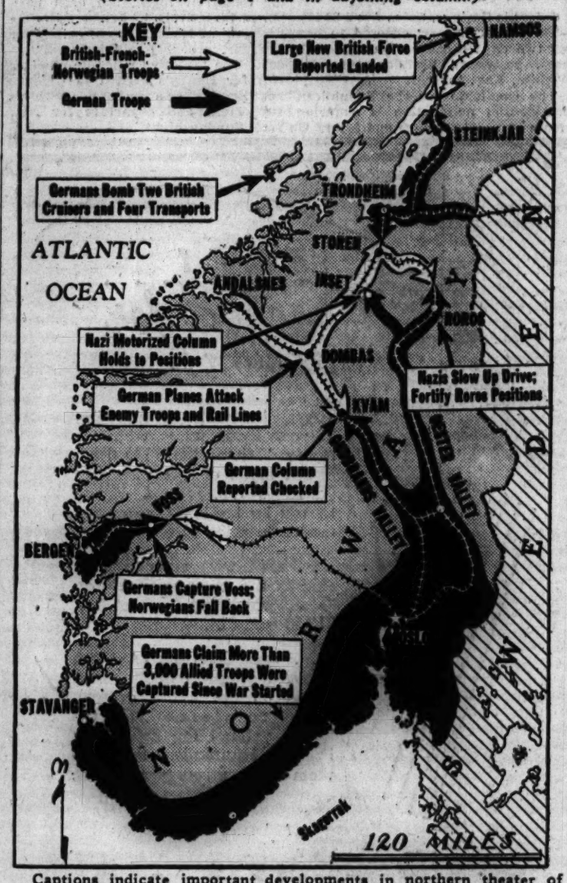
Both in the yards and in open country railroad cars were blasted from the rails, it said, picturing British debarkation points as scenes of devastation with loading cranes broken and warehouses demolished.

The press, meanwhile, elaborated on yesterday's white paper in an effort to convince doubters of its contention that Germany marched into Norway just ahead of a British expeditionary force for which orders already had been prepared.

"Wherever there already was considerable doubt regarding the honesty of the British policy of 'democracy and liberty,' almost complete enlightenment now has occurred," the newspaper Der Montag commented.

Day's Developments in Norway

(Stories on page 1 and in adjoining column.)



Captions indicate important developments in northern theater of European war. Areas in black are held by the Germans, those in white by the British, French, and Norwegian forces.

WAR TO LAST TILL NAZIS ARE OUT, NORWAY WARNS

SOMEWHERE IN NORWAY, April 28 (AP).—The Norwegian government today issued a statement declaring the "war shall last until the usurpers have been hurled out of the country and Norway again is free."

Thanking the British, French, and Polish governments for their aid, the statement said that "together these governments are fighting against tyranny which violates international law and seeks to subdue small nations.

"The Norwegian government is convinced from its own experience that if the German government now states that it is at war with Norway, Germany will not for that reason conduct the war in accordance with international law."

Jugo-Slavs to Fire on Nazi and Italian Air Poachers

BELGRADE, Jugo-Slavia, April 28.—Jugo-Slavia today notified Italy, Germany, and Hungary that, owing to frequent violations of her frontiers by airplanes, orders have been given to military authorities to fire on any further poachers.

NAZIS SUFFER LOSS IN FIGHT NEAR VOSGES

PARIS, April 28 (AP).—The British-French high command's communique tonight said of action on the western front:

"Nothing to report except some artillery fire and a local encounter west of the Vosges [mountains], during the course of which we inflicted losses on the enemy."

The morning communique said there was patrol and artillery activity at various points.

A COMPLETE LIE, IS NORSE RETORT TO NAZI CHARGES

Invasion Was Planned for Months, Hambro Says.

STOCKHOLM, April 28 (AP).—Carl J. Hambro, president of the Norwegian parliament, countering German assertions that Britain and France had plotted an invasion of Norway and were forestalled by Germany's action, declared tonight that "the opposite is absolutely proven."

"There is also proof that Germany made, several months previous to the invasion, detailed preparations for such an occupation of Norway," he added.

The German whaler, Jon Wilhelm, which arrived at Narvik with the German commander and troops, left Stettin, Germany, at least seven days before the invasion. Hambro declared, and was seen north of Narvik flying the American flag.

Knew of German Intentions.

"We would have been in a far better situation today if the English had prepared landing parties, and still better if the allies' espionage system had been working in Norway," he asserted.

"It is not comforting to have to admit that the Norwegian legation in Berlin had proof of the German intention of invading Norway one week before the invasion took place. The German authorities, however, assured the Norwegian legation that the intention was not to attack Norway.

"The fact that no English warships were in Norwegian harbors at the time of the invasion is the best proof that the English had no intention of invading Norway.

"The British navy was tragically absent when the German transports landed."

Admits Great Handicaps.

For all that, said Hambro, the war in Norway "is not nearly started and it can last a long time."

Admitting that there were great handicaps to be overcome, he declared:

"I am confident that not a single German will finally be left in Norway except as a prisoner.

"It must be remembered that the attack took us completely by surprise and there was a natural nervous inefficiency. At the same time, there is no use in underestimating German efficiency and their careful plans."

That the Germans may have found some documents Hambro declared he could not deny, but said this involved "the question of reading their own meanings into something, which is always possible."

Adding another example of German preparations, Hambro observed, "typical of the German plans for invasion was the fact that the German consul at Narvik was a former submarine commander."

Flyer Who Saved Czech Planes from Nazis Is Dead

PARIS, April 28 (AP).—Frantizek Novak, 38 years old, Czech air ace who organized a flight of Czech aviators with their planes to Poland while the Germans were occupying Czecho-Slovakia in March, 1939, died yesterday at the American hospital after a long illness. After flying to Poland, he came to France and instructed Czech flyers attached to the French army.

RUSSIANS CLAIM NORSE WAR KEEPS ITALY ON GUARD

Anxious Over Balkans' Fate, Says Press.

MOSCOW, April 28 (AP).—The newspaper Trud said today events in Scandinavia have "compelled Italy to stand on guard and therefore the Italians are playing such a significant rôle in the Mediterranean trying to avoid war."

Italian circles were not alarmed over the fate of Norway, it said, but over possible "expansion of the war arena and moreover the possibility of this expansion in the direct neighborhood of Italy.

Balkans Make Italy Anxious.

"The Scandinavian peninsula interests Italy slightly but quite different is the question of whether, after Scandinavia, the Balkan states will not be a theater of war events. This has made Italy anxious."

Trud's article said Germany could not take a number of warplanes and ships from the central war front to the Mediterranean and therefore Italy, if she should fight with Germany, would have to battle both on land and sea against superior British and French forces.

Another newspaper poked fun at the new alignments in Europe which made Turkey, an enemy of Britain and France in the world war, a friend now.

Recalls Dardanelles Fight.

The newspaper Komsomolskaya Pravda, organ of the Communist Youth league, reviewed the 25th anniversary of the attempt by British and French forces to storm the Dardanelles during the world war and wrote sarcastically of what it said was the perplexity of the governor of Istanbul on whether to decree a day of mourning.

The Paper said the governor ordered no observance of the date because of Turkey's mutual assistance pacts with Britain and France but that thousands of Turks held mourning ceremonies.

One Turk was said to have read a statement from a tombstone blaming Woodrow Wilson, world war President of the United States, for the raid on the Turkish straits.

Hindsight and Foresight

By HOLGAR J. JOHNSON
President, Institute of Life Insurance

RELAX. I haven't anything to sell you. But I spent enough years being a life insurance agent to know that there's something in human nature which makes nearly all of us put up our guards when a salesman appears.

When a man goes in to buy a package of cigarettes, he not only knows exactly what he wants, but speaks right out about it. The same man, wanting to buy a new car, will walk into a showroom and indignantly deny that he has the faintest interest in automobiles. The salesman just grins and waits and pretty soon the old car is appraised and the man is telling his friends that he planned to buy this new car all along!

Now our same man realizes, even though no one has told him so, that he needs some life insurance. Let him alone and he'd never buy it. He knows this about himself and about his fellows. He looks with scorn on a man who leaves his family unprotected.

Yet, unless some agent persuades him to DO SOMETHING, he will probably rock along putting off his own insurance program.

Oh, well, we have clergymen to tell us to be good when we already know we should be. We pay traffic cops to keep ourselves from breaking rules we know are right. And we approve of life insurance agents on the same basis, I suppose. We have to assign someone the job of teaching us thrift and foresight!

Most of us are like the old farmer who said he didn't need anybody to teach him how to be a better farmer; he needed someone to make him be as good a farmer as he already knew how to be!

NOTE: In this regular Monday column, paid for at advertising rates, the Institute of Life Insurance has asked its president to discuss questions of interest to life insurance policyholders. Inquiries may be addressed to 60 East 42nd Street, New York City.

WAR INEVITABLE, BE READY, ITALY'S ARMY IS WARNED

Order Will Come, Editor of Ciano's Paper Says.

ROME, April 28 (AP).—Giovanni Ansaldo, in his third declaration of the kind in as many weeks, said today it is "impossible for a country like Italy to remain indefinitely out of a conflict" like the present war.

Ansaldo, editor of Foreign Minister Count Galeazzo Ciano's Il Telegrafo of Leghorn, spoke in a weekly broadcast to Italian troops. He said his remark on the inevitability of war was the meaning of speeches in the chamber of fasces and guilds last week by Count Dino Grandi, the chamber's president, and Guido Buffarini-Guidi, undersecretary of the interior.

Buffarini-Guidi two days ago said none of the "remaining oases of peace" could be certain of escaping "contamination"; Grandi said yesterday "the Fascist empire is not, and knows it is not, on the edge of this conflict of peoples."

"It is up to us more than anything to be ready for the order which will come," Ansaldo told the troops.

Wishes Germany Success.

He indicated where Italy's war sympathies lie by saying: "We formulate all our wishes for the success of German arms and join with Germany in saluting German soldiers who have fallen on Norwegian soil."

An equally authoritative Fascist, Virginio Gayda, charged the British and French with having circulated rumors of German and Italian threats of aggression against other countries in order to spread the war.

He said in his La Voce d'Italia that an anti-Italian manifesto which appeared in Jugo-Slavia was an indication of this. He referred to a report on Friday from Lubiana, Jugo-Slavia, that Italian and German consuls there had protested to the governor of Lubiana province against circulation of a leaflet demanding the cession to Jugo-Slavia of territories held by Italy and Germany.

Widening of War Opposed.

Gayda, who often speaks Premier Mussolini's mind, declared it would be a mistake to make any move that would aid alleged British-French plans to widen the war.

He appraised as important but not surprising the "revelations" yesterday of Germany's foreign minister, Joachim von Ribbentrop, who charged Britain and France with long standing plans to occupy Norway.

Norway's weak reaction to the British violation of her neutrality in mining her waters on April 8, Gayda said, "automatically legitimized the German" invasion.

Gayda contended that the French and British are trying more than ever to spread the war to other countries to save themselves and their territories as much as possible.

Prince Philip of Hesse, husband of Princess Mafalda of Italy, arrived in Rome today. Chancellor Adolf Hitler of Germany occasionally uses him as the bearer of confidential messages to Premier Mussolini. His last previous visit was just a few days before Hitler and Mussolini held their conference at the Brenner pass.

Trade Parley Hints at More Irish War Aid for Britain

LONDON, April 28 (AP).—British today saw signs of increased Irish aid for Britain's war effort. It was announced that two representatives of the Dublin government, Dr. James Ryan, minister of agriculture, and Sean Lemass, minister of supply, will come to London on Tuesday to discuss trade problems with Britain.

RUMANIA POSTS GUARDS TO BLOCK INTERNAL COUP

Acts as It Bars Plan for Danube Patrol.

BY SAM BREWER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BUCHAREST, Rumania, April 28.—Rumanian authorities today posted guards over key communication centers as protection against any "fifth column" attacks from within. The precautions were taken after Rumania rejected a Hungarian suggestion that all powers bordering the Danube river form a joint patrol of its waters.

Picked detachments from guard regiments took up sentry duty with fixed bayonets at telephone, telegraph, and radio stations in Bucharest, and detachments guarding the oil fields were strengthened.

This was Easter Sunday as observed by the Orthodox churches, but army officers who had expected leaves were ordered to remain at their posts. Members of the cabinet were understood to have instructions to remain within easy reach of the capital.

Nazis Seek River Patrol.

The Hungarian proposal for a joint patrol of the Danube, supposedly inspired by Germany, was made three days ago. Since Germany is the only major power bordering the Danube such a plan would have given her the controling interest in the patrol and nullified an agreement made recently at Belgrade, Jugo-Slavia, for each power to protect its sovereignty by patroling its section of the river.

Germany twice asked Rumania and other Danube powers to let her help police the river and twice was rebuffed. She said she wanted the privilege as a safeguard against any attempt by Britain and France to sabotage river traffic. Rumania, Bulgaria, Hungary, and Jugo-Slavia formed the Belgrade agreement.

King at Hunting Lodge.

King Carol remained at his hunting lodge at Lapushna in Transylvania. Italian reports that Field Marshal Hermann Wilhelm Goering of Germany was visiting him there seemed to have no foundation in fact.

A "mysterious" airplane from Berlin, whose expected arrival caused a flutter last night, arrived today. It brought white books issued by Germany in defense of its course in Norway.

BELGIANS WATCH 24 HOURS A DAY FOR AIR INVADER

Protect Strategic Points and Big Cities.

BY ALEX SMALL.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BRUSSELS, Belgium, April 28.—A special corps of antiaviation defense men has been constituted by Belgium. It stays constantly on the alert at all strategic points in the country and at posts assigned for the defense of big cities.

The corps is said to be abundantly provided with antiaircraft artillery. One of its weapons is a new rapid fire gun of Belgian manufacture of 40 millimeters caliber. There are other guns of larger caliber, including a 75.

This ground defense is considered especially important to enable Belgium to preserve its neutrality. The skies of Belgium, now that the weather has become sometimes bright and sunny, are being constantly invaded by the military airplanes of both belligerent sides. Such invasions, if allowed to go unnoticed, would sooner or later, Belgians fear, give one side or the other a pretext for saying they were not neutral.

Fire at Every Foreign Plane.

A standing order has been issued, therefore, to all of Belgium's antiaircraft ground defenses to go into action as soon as any airplane of the belligerent powers is sighted. By impartially harassing all fighters in this way, the Belgians hope to convince them that they must do their fighting elsewhere, or if they are returning to their bases, that another route is safer.

Regarding the possibility of the destruction of Brussels by mass bombing, Belgian military experts are skeptical. On the assumption that a bomb of 250 kilograms [about 650 pounds] is effective over an area of 300 square meters [about 3,220 square feet], and that the average bomber does not carry a load of more than 1,000 kilograms [about 2,204 pounds], the experts calculate it would take thousands of bombers to destroy Brussels or even a considerable portion of it.

Older Men Organized.

If bombers should come over the capital, an officer of the defense ministry said, the authorities want the civilian population to go quietly to cellars or shelter trenches and to avoid running about the streets.

Confidence of the Belgians is based on the thoroness of defense preparations made since last September, as well as in the number and quality of their soldiers. They have around the country a wall that they think would be as effective as the Maginot line or the German west wall. They have the men to use the fortifications, adequate both in quantity and training. They have the weapons necessary to the defensive efficiency both of the fortifications and of the men. Finally, they have worked out a coordinated scheme of tactics intended to supplement the coverage of the defense lines and to turn any swift invasion into disaster for the enemy.

Water can be a defender as good as an army. This principle has been followed in building the Belgian line of defense in the north and northeast along the Dutch border. The Albert canal, parallel to the border, has been completed and will be the main element of defense by flooding. Herein the Belgians will be helped by the numerous streams of the region, the marshy nature of the ground, and the nearness of the sea.

Military experts here believe the Belgian army made an error in 1914 in taking little advantage of the possibility of flooding. They intend not to repeat the mistake.

ITALY WILL STAND WITH GERMANY, NAZI AID SAYS

BERLIN, April 29, Monday (AP).—Germany and Italy have a common enemy in France, Nazi Labor Leader Robert Ley declared today in an address to German youth from a Cologne machine factory.

Ley described the powers of the Rome-Berlin axis as "nations without living space" and as for Italy's position he asked:

"What legal right have the French on Corsica?"

[Corsica is an insular department of the French republic and it has figured in Italian clamor at various times for concessions from France.]

Defining Italy's natural "living space" as the Mediterranean area, Ley asked, "What rights have the English on Malta and other islands in this sea?"

Ley declared that Germany and Italy would stand firmly together to the "victorious end" when "the English dragon will be vanquished."

BRITONS ASSAIL BLUNDERING IN CONDUCT OF WAR

Expect Angry Criticism in Parliament.

BY LARRY RUE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, April 28.—When parliament meets this week angry criticism of the war leadership is expected.

Members of parliament last week showed concern over developments in Norway and questions for the government to answer have been prepared. They concern:

1. Equipment of the British expeditionary force in Norway.

2. The guilt, if any, which can be attributed to the British intelligence service for failing on the very day that mine fields were laid in Norwegian territorial waters to discover German operations preparatory to making landings.

3. Had the Finnish expeditionary forces been disbanded before the German occupation of Norway?

4. What countermeasures has the government taken in view of the heavy German reinforcements in the Norwegian territory.

5. How far has Winston Churchill, chief war leader and first lord of the admiralty, fulfilled his promise of April 12 when he assured the house of commons that "all German ships in the Skagerrak and Kattegat will be sunk day and night."

Charges Blundering.

David Lloyd George, prime minister during the world war, is expected to take part in the criticism. In the Sunday Pictorial, Lloyd George charged that the government is blundering. He said:

"The war office communique does not conceal the fact that the Germans are driving the allied outposts from position after position on the road to Trondheim nor does its explanations hide the fact that the allied flying columns were ill equipped for the task entrusted to them."

This, however, cannot be said to be the majority opinion as the tendency of the press is to justify the Norwegian operations on the ground that they had to be undertaken immediately and before proper preparations could have been made for two reasons:

FIRST, to show the Norwegians that the British really were coming to their aid and thus strengthen their morale and resistance; and SECOND, to hinder as much as possible German consolidation of their positions.

Caution Advised.

The Sunday Express cautioned the public against exaggerating the importance of the alleged setbacks in Norway, saying they are not important in large scale operations and recalling that in a single day's battle of the Somme the British suffered 37,000 casualties.

The paper urged the nation to preserve its sense of proportion, saying:

"We have become overelated by good news and overdepressed by bad news."

Newspapers have been clamoring for news, whether good or bad, insisting that the British can take what has come but reticence of the admiralty and war office is creating a lack of confidence.

Prospects for any radical changes in the government resulting from the criticism are not regarded any too hopefully. Peter Howard, political writer, deplored the alleged fact that "parliamentary benches on both sides of the house are packed with mediocrities."

FRENCH DRILLERS DISCOVER OIL IN PYRENEES AREA

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, April 28.—Will the Pyrenees region be transformed into something resembling the Texas oil fields? That was the question asked today by many persons when they learned that an oil well had been brought in at St. Gaudens, near Toulouse.

Arrow locates St. Gaudens.

The well is producing daily almost 1,000 barrels of crude oil said to be of unusually high grade. The oil was found at a depth of 9,600 feet after eight months of drilling.

The national office of combustible liquids, a governmental organization, has been prospecting for years for oil and gas in the Pyrenees and in other regions of France. Additional wells will be drilled near St. Gaudens.

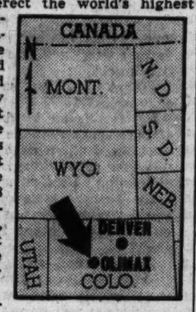
NEW OBSERVATORY TO MAKE ARTIFICIAL ECLIPSES OF THE SUN

Cambridge, Mass., April 28 (AP).—Plans to erect the world's highest astronomical observatory were announced by Harvard university today. It will be erected this summer at an altitude of 11,318 feet, in Climax, Colo., at Fremont pass in the Rocky mountains.



Arrow locates site of proposed observatory.

The observatory will contain a new solar instrument called the coronagraph. It is a special type of telescope which creates artificial eclipses by means of screens for masking out the sun itself. This will allow scientists to study solar prominences and the halolike corona which hitherto have been observable only during total eclipses.

Harvard Astrophysicist Donald H. Menzel said the device would permit the forecasting of widespread electrical storms, such as that which crippled the world's communication services on Easter Sunday. He explained there is a direct relation between upheavals in the sun's corona and the occurrence of magnetic storms on earth.

GERMANS RATION TRAVEL ON TRAIN JUST LIKE FOOD

Beer, Too, Is Harder to Get Nowadays.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, April 28.—Germany, in addition to restricting the purchase of food, clothes, coal, soap, and raw materials, now is rationing railroad tickets for Whitsuntide trips. She also is preparing to ration beer.

Between May 9 and May 14 travelers must obtain special admission cards if they want to use express and fast trains. No permits will be issued to travel on Whitsunday. Persons attempting to travel without the permits on the other specified days will be liable to punishment.

While the national traveling urge is being curbed, the Germans find it is becoming increasingly difficult to buy beer in the customary amounts. Many saloons which formerly sold it for home consumption now have stopped this practice, since they receive barely enough to take care of their regular customers.

Sharply Curtailed.

The manufacture of dark beer has been sharply curtailed and saloons and restaurants receive only a small percentage of their former allotments.

In Berlin and other cities saloonkeepers are threatening to close for a few days each week because of the shortage. On meatless days their trade is especially dull.

In Nazi circles, which show interest in "near beer" and nonalcoholic drinks, of which Adolf Hitler approves, there is serious talk of introducing one "nonalcoholic day a week." Old beer drinkers scoff, saying that this is scarcely necessary since the alcoholic content of beer has decreased steadily in recent months. Liquor is difficult to buy.

Wine Growers Are Gloomy.

In the days before the Nazis attained power, wine growers were among the most enthusiastic supporters of the movement because they were assured that measures would be taken to improve their economic position. In the early years of the Nazi régime special campaigns were arranged to increase the consumption of wine, but now the wine growers are steeped in gloom.

They need sugar for their wines, and sugar is rationed. The wine growers believe that after the hard winter just ended the new grape crop probably will be extra sour and will require an especially big portion of sugar.

U. S. WAR DANGER FOUND IN TROOP TRANSPORT PLAN

Roosevelt Is Menace to Peace, Says Tinkham.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 28.—Charging that the administration has completed plans for the transportation of troops abroad Representative George H. Tinkham [R., Mass.] said today that President Roosevelt and Secretary of State Cordell Hull, if they remain in office, will get the country into war.

"Startling new evidence has come to light this last week of the war intentions of the present administration," said Mr. Tinkham. "It is convincing proof that continuance in public office of President Roosevelt and Secretary of State Hull means war for the United States.

Witness Reveals Plans.

"Testimony at an interstate commerce commission hearing in New York last week disclosed that plans had been formulated by the administration for the transportation of troops overseas via the port of New York. The witness, the chairman of the general committee of port traffic of the Association of American Railroads, a man of high probity, in discussing questions of congestion in New York harbor, said:

"'Plans at present are set up for the possible transportation of troops.'

Deception Is Charged.

"This disclosure, taken in conjunction with the fact that legislation for the conscription of man power, for the conscription of business and wealth, for the imposition of confiscatory taxes, and for censorship and espionage, already has been drafted and is embodied in bills pending in the congress, can in no way be reconciled with the repeated assertions of President Roosevelt and Secretary Hull that American participation in the European war is not contemplated.

"It is a complete contradiction of such assertions. It proves such assertions to be mendacious and intended to deceive the american people. The American people should be made aware of their danger and be made to realize that those now in charge of our government are bent on war. In order to avoid war, they must remove from leadership President Roosevelt and Secretary Hull."

Crew of 28 Quit Norse Ship as Gasoline Cargo Blazes

Charleston, S. C., April 29, Monday (AP).—The Norwegian tanker Willy and its cargo of aviation gasoline for Europe were ablaze early today in the Cooper river. The crew of 28 abandoned the ship, half of them in a lifeboat. The rest were aboard the coast guard vessel Agassiz. Another coast guard boat was searching for the lifeboat. The tanker took on the gasoline in Corpus Christi, Tex., and put in here for repairs to a hole in the hull.

HOME FOLK TACKLE FRANCE'S FOOD AND RATIONING PROBLEMS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, April 28.—Unless something unusual happens on the international checkerboard, political France will give most of its attention to local matters for the next fortnight. Beginning tomorrow, departmental councils will hold their annual sessions in more than 80 provincial cities. Their deliberations will reveal what the country is thinking. Senators and deputies have left Paris to attend these meetings.

The debates will deal with such problems as the high cost of living, family allowances, food restrictions, social insurance, the lack of farm laborers, rationing cards, and unemployment.

Decisions of the councils have such weight that they have been known to decide indirectly the fate of cabinets.

French Talk Too Much, Author Says; Urges Curb

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, April 28.—A "conversation card" should be instituted in France by the side of the food and coal cards soon to be issued, according to Georges Duhamel, French author, member of the national academy and until recently French radio czar. "People are talking too much, entirely too much," he declared, and since the government is restricting meat, gasoline, bread, and other things, he insisted that a limitation on the amount of talking done in France would benefit all.

LISTS LESSONS U. S. LEARNS IN EUROPEAN WARS

Army Air Chief Tells of Value of Planes.

Indianapolis, Ind., April 28 [Special].—Maj. Gen. H. H. Arnold, chief of the army air corps, in an address here tonight declared that America is learning valuable lessons from the European war without cost in material or men.

Gen. Arnold spoke at a dinner given by Raymond J. Kelly of Detroit, national commander of the American Legion, in celebration of the Legion's eighth aerial round up of memberships.

Moves Into Third Dimension.

It was pointed out by Gen. Arnold that in all tests to date air power has demonstrated that "warfare has truly moved into the third dimension; that no longer can an army or navy operate successfully without the coöperation of air forces, nor can sea and land battles be won without the protecting shadow of an effective air force."

Gen. Arnold said that the best and only defense against hostile aircraft is a superior air force, "has been proven conclusively in the European theaters of war. Out of the air battles abroad have come some lessons which fortunately have reached us in time without cost in men and materials."

Lessons Learned from War.

Gen. Arnold then listed lessons learned from Europe as:

1. Need for leak-proof fuel tanks.
2. Need for armor on vital parts of fighting planes.
3. Armaments must be changed.
4. The .30 caliber machine gun is too small; .50 caliber is needed.
5. Bombers are easy prey to fighters unless they carry tail guns.
6. Bombers need longer flying range.

Revise Tactical Theories.

Gen. Arnold said the European war had proved the need for revision of tactical theories that:

Planes should not engage in piecemeal attacks; small formations should not enter hostile territory in daylight hours; bombs of the proper type for the destruction of the objectives must be carried; training of combat crews is as important as superior planes, and that air forces operating with mechanized force can set the tempo of a battle at a speed and power never before dreamed of.

Virtually all of the 300 millions dollars appropriated by congress for expansion of the air corps has been spent or obligated, Gen. Arnold said. By June 30, 1941, he added the air corps will have 3,000 airplanes of the latest type; 4,500 officers and 45,000 men. About 200 pilots are being trained every six weeks.

105,000 Skilled Men Employed.

An idea of the expansion of the airplane and engine industry is shown by Gen. Arnold's report that 105,000 skilled men now are employed as against 45,000 a year ago. Twenty-three of 43 plants in the country are working on military orders and that productive capacity now is estimated at 17,500 planes a year.

Engine makers are turning out 16,000 engines a year now and next year will be able to supply 25,000 or more than 1,000 horse power.

IF YOU ALREADY HAVE YOUR CLOCK SET UP, FORGET IT

This is a good time to remember that your boss set his clock ahead an hour yesterday and you probably forgot. Otherwise you'll be one of those persons who arrives an hour late for work to find every one else in the place snickering at you. It's very embarrassing.

Daylight saving time, which went into effect yesterday for the 23d year, will save Chicagoans 154 hours of daylight between now and Sept. 29, when clocks are moved back again.

Suburban trains will operate on the daylight time, but thru trains, planes and bus companies, in most cases, continue on standard time. The change affects all of Cook and Lake counties and many parts of Kane and Will counties.

Harold Stassen of Minnesota, temporary chairman of the Republican national convention, arrived in the capital tonight for meetings with congressional party leaders, beginning with a luncheon tomorrow. Friends of Stassen, who will deliver the keynote address at the Philadelphia convention, said they understood the governor desired to get suggestions from all groups within the party as a guide in preparing his address. He plans to start back for St. Paul tomorrow night.

SET UP CENTRAL UNIT TO ENFORCE NEUTRALITY LAW

Washington, D. C., April 28 (AP).—The justice department announced today that henceforth it would exert centralized control over arrests or prosecutions for violations of neutrality laws, with an eye to civil liberties as well as national defense.

A new division—the neutrality laws unit—will take over the work, Attorney General Robert H. Jackson said, and will have responsibility for control of all prospective action growing out of violations or charges of violations of laws relating to neutrality, foreign enlistments, treason, sedition, espionage, sabotage, or kindred offenses.

Larence M. C. Smith, associate counsel in the preparation of investment studies of the Securities and Exchange commission, was named head of the new unit. Smith, a native of Pennsylvania, will take office May 15.

AUTO ROLLS OVER TWICE; DRIVER ESCAPES INJURY

William Rollo Jr., 29 years old, escaped injury yesterday when his automobile hit a safety island at North and Grand avenues and rolled over twice. Rollo, a salesman, lives at 1436 Astor street.

Eight young persons were injured, several seriously, in a head-on collision in U. S. route 12, four miles east of Michigan City, Ind. They were Kenneth Bird, 25; Jack Hooker, 24; Miss Anna Jappe, 19, and Miss Bonnie Bernard, 20, all of Grand Rapids, Mich., and Marshall Biggs, 22; Arthur Heinhold, 23; Francis H. Spencer, 21, and Henry Glissman, 25, all of or near Valparaiso, Ind. Bird, Miss Jappe, Heinhold, and Glissman were injured seriously. Biggs and Bird were driving the two cars.

The state highway division reported yesterday that Illinois vehicle fatalities continued to rise for the first three months of the year and reached a total of 511 on April 1.

Up to 4 p. m. yesterday 276 persons had been killed in auto accidents in Cook county since Jan. 1. Of these, 209 were killed in Chicago, where 6,569 were injured in the same period.

ASSAILS SCHOOLS' FAILURE TO TEACH TRUE DEMOCRACY

A charge of failure to recognize or teach the differences between democracy and the theories of communism and fascism was leveled against America's public schools and colleges yesterday by Noble W. Lee, associate dean of John Marshall Law school.

Lee spoke at the 17th annual convention of the Illinois Reserve Officers' association at Fort Sheridan.

"Communism is not democratic and was never intended to be," Lee told the 300 reserve officers at the meeting. "It is the doctrine of government by the class conscious minority of the proletariat, rather than by all the people.

"Nazism and fascism are essentially the same as communism."

Lieut. Col. Leal W. Reese, Taylorville lawyer and commanding officer of the 567th Field Artillery Reserve regiment, was elected president of the Illinois department of the association at the meeting. Other new officers are Maj. Arthur L. Johnson, Downers Grove, vice president; Capt. James C. Hamilton, Chicago, secretary, and Capt. A. A. Mozley, Maywood, treasurer.

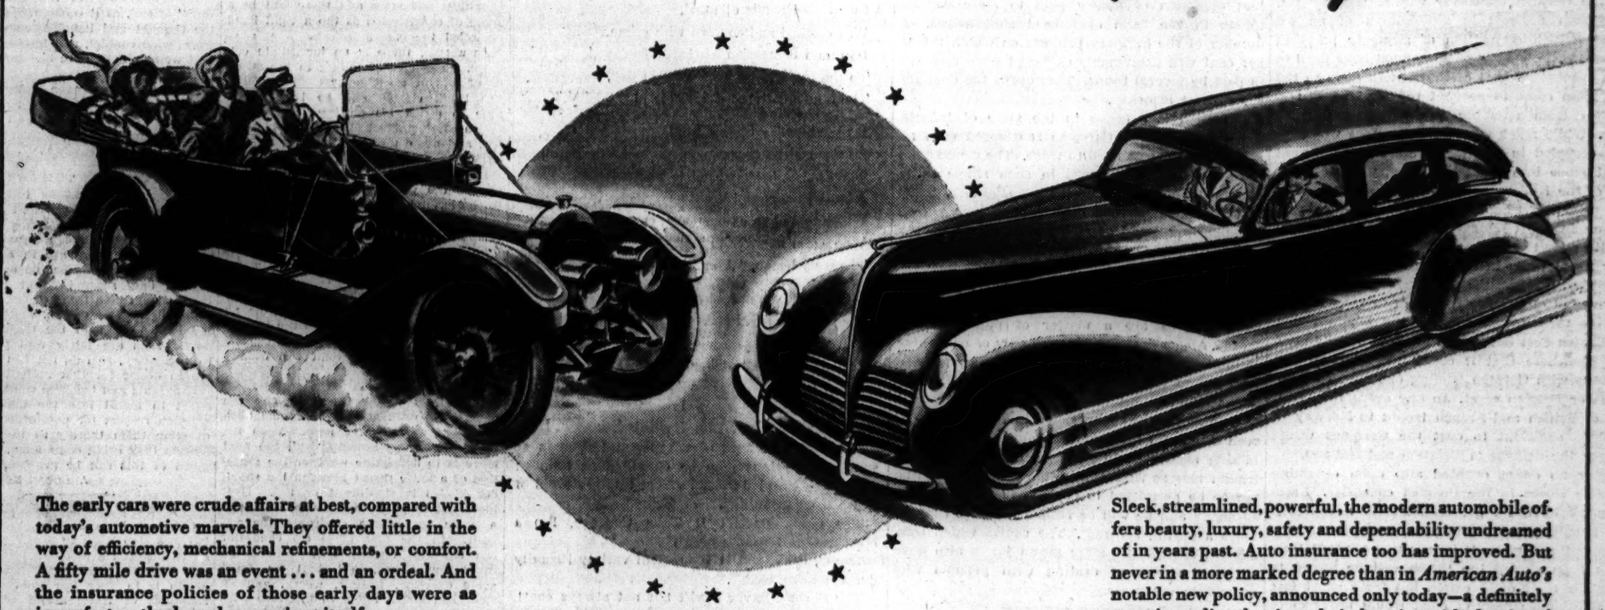
ADVERTISE IN THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE

YESTERDAY....and Today!



The early cars were crude affairs at best, compared with today's automotive marvels. They offered little in the way of efficiency, mechanical refinements, or comfort. A fifty mile drive was an event... and an ordeal. And the insurance policies of those early days were as imperfect as the horseless carriage itself.

Sleek, streamlined, powerful, the modern automobile offers beauty, luxury, safety and dependability undreamed of in years past. Auto insurance too has improved. But never in a more marked degree than in American Auto's notable new policy, announced only today—a definitely superior policy that is truly in keeping with the times!

Now, at Last...A Better Kind of INSURANCE for Today's Better Cars!

AMERICAN AUTO Issues a New Improved Auto Policy Stripped of Outmoded Restrictions and Exclusions—to Give Car Owners More Protection for Their Money!

AUTOMOBILE INSURANCE has undergone an evolution no less remarkable than that of the automobile itself. In contrast as striking as the two automobiles pictured above, American Auto's new policy is the last word in progressive departure from early-day policies—lengthy, technically worded documents which dealt largely with circumstances under which losses would not be covered!

Today American Auto, the oldest and largest insurers of automobiles exclusively, offers you a truly superior insurance protection and service under this newest, thoroughly liberalized policy—available only through American Auto Agents and Brokers.

Antiquated exclusions of the conventional standard policy have been eliminated. The longstanding exclusion relating to claims for damage to property in the care or control of the insured has been modified for your greater protection. No longer a qualification regarding age of drivers. No longer the outworn restrictions as to demonstrating, testing, racing or speed tests. No longer the exclusion as to carrying passengers for a charge, except as a public livery conveyance.

Coverage now extends to the entire continent of North America and all territorial possessions of the United States. No longer is your policy voided by use of a trailer, even a house trailer, in connection with your private passenger car. When you buy a new car you now have thirty days to notify the Company instead of only ten. Yet these are only a few examples of the broader protection the new American Auto policy offers you at no extra cost!

Remember, too, that with American Auto the deserving car owner does not have to wait a year for a possible "dividend" or "reward." You get your full saving in advance.

Call your American Auto Agent or Broker today, and ask him about this new broader coverage for automobile owners.

BALANCE SHEET OF WAR IN THE NORTH.

The attack upon Norway and Denmark opened a new phase in the European war. What it portends is a matter about which there are many opinions, amateur and professional. A dispatch to THE TRIBUNE from Washington the other day attempted to summarize the judgments of our army's strategists.

They saw a number of reasons to support the view that the German move in Norway was essentially a feint. One was the comparatively small number of German troops involved; not more than 75,000 and probably fewer if the information received in this country is at all correct. Significance was attached to the fact that this relatively small force was entrusted not to an army commander, as might have been expected if the purpose of the Germans was to subdue and hold the entire country, but rather to a man of lower rank, Gen. Nikolaus von Falkenhorst, a corps leader.

If the German maneuver was merely a feint, undertaken perhaps in anticipation of an expected British occupation of strategic ports in Norway, Hitler's main purpose must have been to pin a substantial part of the British navy to the Norwegian coast to prevent reënforcements and supplies from reaching the invading German army. While much of the British fleet was thus fully occupied in northern waters the Germans might move into the Balkans or, with the support of the Italians and perhaps the Russians as well, might start operations in the Mediterranean region. In the circumstances the British might find it difficult or perhaps impossible to reënforce their naval units in either theater. If the Germans should follow the Scandinavian stroke with an invasion of the low countries in force with a view to turning the flank of the Maginot line, the British fleet might find itself so heavily occupied elsewhere that it could not interfere successfully with German landing operations on the Dutch or Belgian coast. In any event the diversion of British and French troops to Norway in numbers sufficient to oust the Germans would hamper the defense in Belgium and Holland.

Hitler no doubt counted also upon obtaining valuable stores in the invaded countries. From Denmark he could get immediately a considerable supply of dairy and pork products, as well as poultry and eggs. It is true that without feedstuffs from abroad the Danes will be forced to slaughter their dairy cattle, but for a short war the additional supply of meat would prove more than a little helpful to the Germans in counteracting the blockade. Both invaded countries appear to have had substantial stores of gasoline, lubricants, and metals of which the Germans stand in great need. The invasion placed these materials in German possession, tho whether they will be able to transport the booty obtained in Norway remains to be seen.

Other advantages which Hitler must have foreseen were the use of Norwegian and Danish shipyards for construction and repair and the use of ports and air fields in Scandinavia for operations against the British Isles and overseas supply lines.

Against these gains certain disadvantages for Germany must be listed. Two more countries in addition to Czecho-Slovakia and Poland must now be policed by German troops. If Britain and France succeed in driving the Germans from Norway the sea and air bases in Scandinavia will then be turned against the Germans and, in addition, they will suffer a considerable loss of prestige. German access to the Swedish iron deposits thru Narvik has been prevented. Finally, the occupation of Denmark has provided Hitler's enemies with a new point from which to attack him.

In the main the American army analysts appear to believe that Hitler's position has been strengthened if he intends to launch war on a grand scale thru Holland and Belgium. Unless that is his purpose the disadvantages of the Scandinavian adventure about cancel out any advantages likely to accrue from it.

So far as the British fleet is concerned the opinion is that it can continue to maintain the blockade. If the anchorages in Scotland are menaced by the German air force based on Norway the fleet can be transferred to western Ireland or even to Iceland without serious impairment of its efficiency.

THE STOCK MARKET.

Stock prices now are less than 10 per cent higher than at the outbreak of the war eight months ago. Since the first of the year the fluctuation has been within a remarkably narrow range, never more than five points below nor five points above last Saturday's close. The spread between the high and low has been less than in the first four months of any year since 1923.

The stalemate has developed from the difficulty of seeing what lies ahead for business. This has kept persons of means both from liquidating and from investing their funds more fully. At times there have been news developments which have been construed as bullish. Stocks then have risen for a few days, but before the advance had gone more than a few points there has been an increase in offerings, usually credited to British and French account. On the other hand, large concessions in price have not been insisted upon by buyers, with earnings reports as favorable as they have been. And so the market has oscillated for a third of a year, five points above and five points below the Dow-Jones industrial average of $148.

In the absence of strong convictions about the immediate future of business and profits the volume of transactions has been the smallest in years. However, even in the restricted trade, several trends are observable. The market is proally. News reports of British and French military gains send the market up. German successes send it down.

The market is anti-Roosevelt. Election returns from Wisconsin, Nebraska, and Illinois, indicating the waning popularity of the President, produced a brisk rally, and market commentators are in agreement that a great rise in stocks would follow a definite statement from Mr. Roosevelt that he would refuse to break the two term tradition.

More than anything else the market appears to be anti-war. War babies have sold for as little as six times earnings, compared with the 12 or 15 multiplier suggested in Mr. Raskob's celebrated pronouncement. The market is repeatedly demonstrating that investors do not like war and won't bid up for an opportunity to make money out of it.

CARROZZO'S 10 PER CENT.

The way to deal with Mike Carrozzo, the gangster who uses Chicago street laborers' unions as a club to levy tribute on all the paving business done in this area, is with police squads and indictments.

THE TRIBUNE has printed statements by Chicago paving contractors that the successful bidder on any paving job in this vicinity receives a visit from a representative of Carrozzo, who collects 10 per cent of the contract price. That is called insurance. It is collected on an "or else" basis. The contractor who did not pay would be so harassed by Carrozzo strikes that he would be broken and driven out of business.

It is estimated that this form of extortion has yielded Carrozzo and his associates, known and hidden, $2,500,000 in the last four years. Federal investigators, who are reported to be looking into Carrozzo's income tax, are no doubt tracing these payments to discover whether the recipients paid tax on them.

While the income tax is a valuable weapon against gangsters, there are more direct and effective methods of punishing crime than prosecution for failure to split the proceeds with the collector of internal revenue. Against Carrozzo, if the contractors' stories are true, these more direct methods seem to be available to both the United States district attorney in Chicago and the state's attorney of Cook county.

The statute punishing a conspiracy to defraud the United States is very broad in its language. Courts have held that it applies even to fraudulent diversion of money paid to state governments in the form of federal subventions. A number of the highway projects on which the 10 per cent was presumably collected were financed in part by federal funds. That opens the door for the district attorney.

Extortion is a crime in the state of Illinois. The payments that Carrozzo is charged with receiving will not be hard to trace. The contractors have to keep their books in such shape as to stand scrutiny by income tax investigators. Some of them say that they have paid income tax on the money instead of charging it off as a business expense, and have openly listed the payments on their own books as graft.

The names of the successful bidders on state, county, city, and park district paving jobs in the Chicago area are a matter of public record. State's Attorney Courtney need only consult these records to know whose books to subpena and take before the Cook county grand jury.

The latest report is that word has come from Carrozzo's fortified farm down in Indiana that as soon as that gangster finds out who has been talking about the 10 per cent rakeoff, that contractor may as well shut up his office. He will no longer be permitted to pay his 10 per cent "insurance" and he will be ruined the next time he takes a paving contract. The courts which commission federal and state grand juries also have adequate means of dealing with persons who intimidate witnesses.

THE PORTS AWAIT THE A. E. F.

The curtain was lifted for a moment, then as quickly dropped, at a hearing conducted by the Interstate Commerce commission Tuesday in New York on congestion of New York harbor. The witness was George C. Randall, head of the port traffic committee of the Association of American Railroads. John J. Hickey, counsel for the state of New Jersey, was examining him.

Mr. Hickey asked if the world war harbor jams were not caused by the embarkation at New York of 2,000,000 American soldiers for France. The exchange then proceeded:

Mr. Randall: "Plans at present are set up——"

Mr. Hickey: "——for the possible transportation of troops?"

Mr. Randall: "Yes."

That was all. It was enough.

Editorial of the Day

RETURN FROM UTOPIA.

[Baltimore Sun.]

Late last February a band of nineteen Americans set out in the yacht Spindrift from Miami, heading for East Caicos Island, an uninhabited spot in the British West Indies, where they intended to establish a new life. Before sailing, their leader, a Mr. Richard C. Irvine, of California, said:

> All we are looking for is security for ourselves and our children.

At that time The Evening Sun, a notorious sourpuss, observed that while a tropical island is a lovely dream, the reality is apt to prove a sorry mess of boils, ground itch, ringworm, sunstroke, and mosquitos. We said that, and then passed on to more immediate matters. But yesterday East Caicos Island got into the news again. Or rather, Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Lawrence did. They were members of Mr. Irvine's little band, and they were back, thank God, in good old Miami.

"What happened?" asked their friends.

"The place was overrun with wild jackasses," the Lawrences said. "Was that sun hot? And those mosquitoes! You have no idea."

We forbear to extend this into a homiletic text; we simply pass the word along to others who may have had the lovely dream and are feeling pretty desperate about the weather and all. Somehow, we suspect that every Utopia has its 'skeeters and jackasses.

VIKINGS ON BOOK SHELVES.

We read the war news from Norway, and then begin to paw at the Scandinavian wing of our book shelves, for no reason except to see what we've got. Over in the drama section is Papa Ibsen, complete works and letters, and stray plays by Bjornson and Strindberg. . . . Here is a handful of sagas in English—Heimskringla, Laedala, Grettir the Strong, Burnt Njal, Gisli. . . . Brochures: "Icelandic Sagas," by Craigie, "The Vikings," by Mawrer. . . . "History of the Scandinavian Literatures," based on a work by Giovanni Bach, a stodgy compendium of scholarship.

"A History of the Vikings," by T. D. Kendrick, published in 1930. Now we are getting something with meat in it. This is one of the few volumes in English that cover the Viking voyages, conquests and colonizations from Constantinople to Wineland. It is a sound, copious, and readable treatment of a complex subject, and we view it with respect. Does anybody want to know anything about the rampaging Norsemen, Danes, and Swedes of the dark and middle ages? Ask us, and we'll find it in this book in less than a minute.

In the fiction section we locate a few superior items: "The Long Journey," a historical fantasy in three volumes by Johannes V. Jensen. . . . "Giants in the Earth," by O. E. Rolvaag [American locale]. . . . "I See a Wondrous Land," by Gudmundur Kamban. This last is a fine fictional treatment of the various Icelandic voyages to America.

And here is a book off the beaten path: "The Kensington Stone," by Hjalmar Holand. It deals with a stone bearing a runic inscription that was found in the roots of a tree in Minnesota in 1898. If not a forgery this stone proves that a party of Scandinavians came into that region by way of Hudson's bay and the Nelson and Red rivers in 1362. Many scholars have been skeptical, but anyway, it's a good story. The inscription reads:

Eight Goths and twenty-two Norwegians on exploration journey from Wineland over the west. We had camp by two skerries one day's journey north from this stone. We were out and fished one day. After we came home, found 10 men red with blood and dead. Ave Maria save us from evil. Have 10 of our party by the sea to look after our ships 14 days' journey from this island. Year 1362.

Mr. Holand sincerely believes in the Kensington stone, and presents a vast amount of evidence to support it. To us, a mere amateur, the inscription seems too skilfully incised.

BOTTLE IN AN ALLEY.

The empty bottle in the alley lay,
Its liquid topaz drained away.
Its jade-green neck, so lately clasped
By petaled hands of pearl,
Was cracked and covered with grime.
Its proud Hungarian label still displayed
To the challenging brightness of day,
The mud-splattered words, "le plus qualité."

Down the alley blew a wind
Adorned with filthy papers.
The broken, battered bottle snagged
A fluttering, sordid headline
Which told of an ex-marquise, countess, princess,
Who again was free to marry.
The story began, "A well known lady of quality."

The once much sought-after bottle
That lived a royal night
Surveyed the muddy alley,
And suddenly felt at home.

A Philosopher Finds Himself Framed.

In rare romantic mood I did squire a damsel to Le Petit Gourmet, and there blush prettily to discover a ditty of mine* on the wall, framed between lights! My identity being betrayed, I did manage to escape unscathed from sundry awestruck young females by coy and debonair behavior, but still be perplexed as to the rejoinder which should have been made to inquiry as to how long I have been employed by THE TRIBUNE.

A BOY NAMED BOBBY.

"It doesn't hurt!" he'd bravely say,
And turn his face the other way
To hide the fiercely welling tears
Which come so fast at seven years;
He took his bumps without dismay
As just a routine part of play
That happened nearly every day—
"It doesn't hurt!"

"It doesn't hurt!" We weep. We pray.
It hurts so terribly today
To miss his smile that conquered tears,
His boyish heart that knew no fears.
Dear God, thru endless years of gray,
Give us his courage, that we may
For his brave sake find heart to say,
"It doesn't hurt!"

Streets That Run in All Directions.

The problem about the Chicago streets that run north, south, east, and west [April 16] doesn't seem to bother the contributors. G. A. R. and Owen of Lill were first under the wire with Sheridan and Marquette roads. Owen, moreover, comes up with a curiosity—Circle avenue, in the Norwood Park district, which lives up to its name and looks like a race track.

CHEST PAIN AND BREATHLESSNESS.

SHORTNESS of breath and difficulty in breathing are two different conditions. Almost any one will puff and blow after indulgence in a type of exertion to which he is unaccustomed. Carrying a few shovelfuls of dirt about the garden may be just enough to bring on the feeling that one cannot get quite enough air. Those who have exercised vigorously in youth and who gradually become occupants of chairs [arm or swivel] may be shortwinded on climbing stairs, hurrying along the street, or even while engaged in a heated argument.

Such manifestations are usually of little significance, as gradual retraining in both lifting and walking will be followed by their disappearance. However, should the embarrassment increase when activity is resumed, we may well look to the power of the heart muscle. Then it is that short and frequent rest periods will be of great value.

Irregular or "dropped" beats often startle the patient. If the one who is apprehensive, who is always taking his pulse, will keep it up long enough, he will be able to detect an absent contraction. Whereupon he visits his physician in real trepidation. More often than not the structure will show no indication of disease. The X-ray will reveal that the "pump" is of normal size, there is good response to effort, and the electrocardiogram discloses no damage. The individual then may be reassured with confidence that there is nothing to worry about. There is no ground for the fear that an occasional dropped beat means cardiac disease—later. It doesn't. The chances are that a small amount of "apprehension or some nerve racking episode is responsible.

But should pain in the chest and shortness of breath come like a "bolt from the blue" there is but one thing to do and that is to stop and keep quiet—at least for a few moments—as the paroxysm may fade away. But if it persists as tho a red hot poker had been thrust down the spine or thru the breast—the thing to do is to reach the nearest hospital or one's home without delay. Sometimes the discomfort will spread to the shoulders and arms and there will be a sense of constriction as tho a tight band encircled the chest.

As a rule, there is no immediate collapse, no danger of falling in the street or of loss of consciousness. The victim can think clearly and he is perfectly able to direct his destiny. He should find a comfortable bed, send for his doctor, and make up his mind that he may be in for a six weeks' stay.

In what is called thrombosis—wherein one of the vessels supplying nutriment to the heart becomes plugged—the medical attendant will undoubtedly give morphine, possibly repeating the dose every four to six hours. The reason this is advised is because the pain is continuous and there may be little cessation for 24 hours or longer. Inhaling oxygen may tide over what otherwise would be an anxious time. Under its influence breathing becomes easy, cyanosis [blueness] disappears, and the patient will usually fall asleep.

If distress vanishes quickly one can resume his walk and go about his business—but at a slower pace. With the tasks of the day accomplished, the next move is to determine whether the sensation of a knife thrust between the shoulder blades is significant or not. If it turns out to be an early sign of angina a clear cut course confronts the patient. In the first place his counselor can tell him frankly that there is no cause for alarm, but that he must avoid exertion, fatigue, worry, and all emotional strain likely to interfere with the circulation. There is rarely the slightest need for continement to bed, altho a careful physical check-up is always wise to determine what relief may be given the pumping organ.

Thousands of alert men and women are living today altho the trouble started many years ago. Victory over the malady can be expected with a more rational program of work and play and the giving up of many annoying and perplexing duties.

LUNG COLLAPSE.

H. L. writes: What causes a lung to collapse? Does one have to have tuberculosis? What is the treatment?

REPLY.

Lung collapse [pneumothorax] is brought about intentionally as a part of the management of pulmonary tuberculosis. The object is to place the inflamed tissues at rest. Clean air is introduced into the pleural space, causing the lung to shrink. No treatment of this condition is necessary other than rest as the air absorbs gradually and the air cells expand. Collapse may occur spontaneously in the presence of disease.

LOCKJAW.

J. D. writes: What effect has injections against lockjaw? How long does protection last?

REPLY.

Every one who sustains a deep, penetrating wound, or a laceration wherein dirt is ground into the skin, should receive the benefit of tetanus serum as a precaution against lockjaw. Sometimes the injections are repeated. The protection will last for two or three months.

HAY FEVER "SHOTS."

T. C. writes: Would hay fever injections given to a pregnant woman harm the child?

NOT A WORLD WAR.

Chicago, April 26.—Why use the term "world war" in speaking or writing of the present conflict over in Europe? It is not at all a world war as was the case in 1914-'18, when the world was largely involved, but solely a "European war."

The psychology of the term "world war" is bad, as it constantly pictures in the thought and imagination of readers world-wide conflict, and implies to many that we as a nation are involved or ought to be.

Let it be termed "the European war" and thus localize it there and help to keep our country out of it. I note that quite a number of leading papers so designate it. F. D. HOPKINS.

TULIPS IN THE PARK.

Chicago, April 24.—As tulip time is just around the corner, can't something be done to protect the tulips from vandals? I live in Logan Square and as soon as the flowers are in bloom they are picked—by children, no doubt—leaving an ugly scarred flower bed where there should be a thing of beauty for all to admire. The officers stationed here are kept busy with the traffic and the flower beds are fairly well surrounded by shrubbery, so I do not feel the police are to blame for this vandalism.

If parents and teachers would make an effort to instill into the minds of the children respect for public property and questior them thoroly as to where the flowers they bring come from, I am sure much of this can be avoided.

MENINGITIS OVERCOME.

Chicago, April 21.—Kindly permit an expression of sincere gratitude to the authorities and physicians of the contagious ward of the Cook county hospital. These men, acting under the Great Physician, returned our young daughter, Charlene Vokal, to us in perfect condition after an attack of cerebrospinal meningitis. Their unceasing efforts, their great skill, and their genuine interest in the case meant so much in the recovery of our child! These men and their associates are truly working in the public interest; many thanks to them and to men of their caliber.

THE ARTS OF PEACE.

Evanston, Ill., April 26.—When I first glanced at your photograph in today's TRIBUNE of buoys being hoisted to the deck of a coast guard tender at Port Huron, Mich., I thought: More mines for the war. Then I saw that they were not mines designed to drag ships to the bottom, but buoys to warn ships in danger and prolong their life. War and peace! What a contrast! E. R. Z.

MORNING MEDICINE.

Chicago, April 24.—Good morning, fellow New Dealer. Be sure and have your headache powder ready. Now go to your mail box and get your—you guessed it—your tax bill for your little home. Look it over carefully. Now take your headache powder. This is the tax bill you asked for, remember, when you voted for His Honor. BERNARD F.

POSTAL SERVICE.

Chicago, Ill., April 26.—Recently a correspondent, R. M. S., gave the postoffice a pat on the back saying that it is the most modern, adept, efficient, and economical in the world. Now I would not presume to question the truth of his statements about his own experiences with the mails, but would like to make the following assertions:

It is not so long ago that I had occasion to complain about letters taking four days to come to Chicago from two points in Wisconsin, and the department's reply to me took two days to travel from downtown to my address on the north side. About four or five weeks ago I sent a package by railway express and within an hour mailed a letter to the same address in San Diego, Cal. They both arrived the same day but the package was delivered several hours ahead of the mail.

If our postoffice is so economical how is it that a big loss is shown every year, and if the use of the mail is economical why do we have to pay 5 cents for letters to certain foreign countries and those same countries can mail to us for 3 cents? HARRY FOLWELL.

WAR AS A POLITICAL ISSUE.

Chicago, April 26.—With our domestic affairs as they are, it will be most unfortunate if the fall election is to be decided on the issue of participation in the European war or a war with Japan. War should never have been a major issue in the coming election. Indeed, it should not have been an issue at all. By this time the minds of Americans should have been so free from any thought of getting into a European war that it simply wouldn't be discussed as a possibility. And they would have been just that ha there been in the White House a patriotic, American-minded President instead of one who has used every means and every subterfuge to scare the people into the belief that eventual participation is inevitable. Let us hope that the next four years will give us a President whose patriotism is greater than his love of adulation and social aggrandizement.

JAMES E. REMINGTON.

SHE LIKES DEWEY.

Chicago, April 22.—Mr. Thomas E. Dewey may be a glamor boy, but the thing that has made me see him and want to vote for him is his ability to speak the truth with simple words and to arrange these truthful facts logically and clearly.

A child of 15 could read one of Mr. Dewey's speeches and understand easily what the New Deal has done and will do if given a chance.

Even if he is not nominated he will have crystallized our ideas and we shall see more clearly what we must do. We shall move toward those polls with intelligence. CHICAGOAN.

FROM A DOG OWNER.

Chicago, April 24.—Unless the city ordinance for keeping all dogs on leash is enforced I will not continue to contribute $3 license fee for my dog to be chewed up by unlicensed mongrels that roam the streets. MRS. D. A. CHRYSLER.

SENT TO THE CLEANER.

Chicago, April 23.—I wish to thank the altruistic person who, last Sunday, in behalf of the motorists of Illinois, went out of his way to remove a mud puddle from the corner of Harlem and 39th street—— on to me. AL VAITIS.

B died before said property was paid for without having a will. A marries C, also before the said property is paid, C having contributed money in paying bills toward said property. 3. Are B's children heirs to part of the property and just [4] what is C's equity in same?

1. We could visualize the facts better if you had indicated which was husband and which was wife.

2. We assume that title was taken in A's name. We also assume that B did not contribute to the purchase price.

3. No, assuming that you mean B's children who are not also A's children. In general, stepchildren do not inherit from a stepparent.

4. The effect of C's contribution would depend in part on whether C is the husband or wife.

CATCH BASIN CLEANING.

Chicago, April 24 [Friend of the People].—Kindly inform me as to what can be done. Catch basins were cleaned and the debris was left on the street. Autos passing thru spattered all of the debris on sidewalk, also on my porch. I notified police, also precinct captain. I tried to clean it with water. Became very nauseated. People were forced to walk on street, which was very dangerous for pedestrians. Afraid a heavy rain will do more damage. This sewer was cleaned on Saturday a. m. The debris is still there at 2:30 p. m. Monday. S. M.

Please be advised that the dirt complained of is the result of the cleaning of catch basins in that territory which have not been cleaned in a number of years. This is a WPA project and in order to keep the streets properly drained this dirt must be removed from the catch basins and that they are attempting to do. It is true the residents may be inconvenienced for a few days but the lasting results are worth the inconvenience caused. The dirt has been removed.

THOMAS D. GARRY,
Superintendent of Sewers.

TODAY IN HISTORY

April 29, 1818

Alexander II. of Russia, noted for his emancipation of the serfs, born. In addition to bettering the condition of the peasants, Alexander instituted many other reforms, including reorganization of the army and navy and judicial administration and procedure and establishment of local self-government. His reforms, however, pleased neither the conservatives nor the radicals, and he was killed by a nihilist bomb in 1881.

WAGE-HOUR LAW LOGROLLING GOES INTO FULL SWING

Start 3 Corner Trades to Stave Off Revision.

Washington, D. C., April 28 (AP)—Opponents of major changes in the wage-hour law today engaged in intensive maneuvering aimed at swinging enough farm votes to their side to assure defeat of the Barden amendments in tomorrow's house vote.

Informed leaders said strategy centered around three-sided trading among city and farm state members. They sized up the situation this way:

If farm congressmen support urban votes against the Barden or other major amendments, city members will return the favor Tuesday by helping put across increased farm appropriations.

In that event, sponsors of more money for relief will expect the support of rural representatives in a week or two when the 1941 WPA appropriation bill comes up.

Key to Tenor of Session.

"If the Barden amendments go in, look out for fireworks the rest of the session," one highly placed Democrat said. "If they are defeated, the situation will be much simpler and each side will get what it wants."

The Barden amendments would exempt a large group of operations involving processing of farm products from both the maximum 42 hour week and the minimum 30 cents an hour standards. The house labor committee is sponsoring another bill which would exempt these activities from the hour provisions for limited periods of the year.

Both sets of amendments would exempt certain while collar workers and employment in Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands.

The question of farm appropriations will come up in the house again Tuesday because of failure of a senate-house committee to compromise differences in the bills passed by the two bodies.

Disagree on Main Items.

The senate and house conferees agreed on items totaling about $615,000,000 but disagreed on three big items on which the house will vote separately. They are $212,000,000 for parity payments, $85,000,000 to increase funds for surplus commodity removal and $50,000,000 for farm tenant loans. None of these items was in the original house bill.

While the house debates the proposed wage-hour changes, the senate will turn to consideration of legislation clarifying the power of President Roosevelt to freeze assets of Danish and Norwegian nationals in the United States. Little controversy is expected over the bill itself, but Republicans have proposed an amendment to repeal the emergency monetary powers granted to President Roosevelt in 1933. Administration leaders said there would be no difficulty in defeating the amendment, but considerable debate is expected.

FUNERAL TODAY FOR THE STAGE'S 'GEORGIA PEACH'

Los Angeles, Cal., April 28 [Special].—Funeral services for Mrs. Winona Winter Sper, wife of Norman Sper, sports analyst, will be held tomorrow at St. Thomas Episcopal church in Hollywood. Cremation will follow at Hollywood cemetery.

Mrs. Sper was 50 years old. She was born in Atlanta, Ga., the daughter of Banks Winter, who composed the famous love song, "White Wings," and was one of the original blackface minstrels of this country.

She started a stage career at the age of 6. Later, known as the Georgia Peach, she starred on Broadway and in Chicago for several years. She won fame in "The Girl of the Golden West," and later played opposite John Barrymore in it on the screen. Twenty-five years ago she was known as "the most beautiful girl on the stage." She retired from the stage when she married.

Feeder Steers Arrive.

April 28, 1940.

NINETY-NINE Hereford feeder steers were brought to the Du Page county farm last week and put in a small pasture near the manager's home, where they can be watched carefully for about 10 days to see if any develop shipping fever or other trouble. All appear healthy and in good condition.

The steers averaged 499 pounds when weighed at Union Stockyards in Chicago and cost $11 a hundred. They had just been shipped from Oklahoma, where they were grazed this spring on fields of winter wheat. Their average weight when loaded for shipment in Oklahoma was 567 pounds. Cattlemen say the shrinkage of 68 pounds each is not unusual since cattle taken off green wheat pasture shrink much more in shipping than after they have been pastured on grass.

Good Grades Are High.

Younger and lighter steers were ordered, but the commission company that bought them was unable to get the smaller animals of suitable quality. Commission men say feeder cattle are scarce in the western range country and good ones are high in price. Some feeder cattle are said to be selling at $11 a hundred pounds at the ranches, bringing them to $12 a hundred or more here.

Altho the manager thinks $11 a hundred is a high price to pay for feeders when there is no way of predicting what the cattle market will be at selling time, he hopes to come out on the steers by putting on cheap gains from pasture during the summer. The steers are thin now and he thinks they should make good gains provided there are sufficient rains this summer to keep the pastures growing well. Grass has been slow in starting this spring because of the continued cool weather.

A little oats and legume hay will be fed the steers while they are on pasture, at least until the grass is greener. They also may be given small amounts of cottonseed meal. The object will be to get all the gain possible before the steers go into the feed lot and do it with a minimum of feed other than pasture.

Good Gains Expected.

Experienced cattle feeders say that steers grazed on wheat in the spring usually do well here on grass pasture during the summer. It is a different story, these men say, when steers are brought into the corn belt from the ranges in the Texas panhandle. Such cattle are fine for putting directly into feed lots, but seldom make good gains on pasture in this region.

Seven new feed bunks with hay racks mounted on top were built for feeding the steers while they are in the pastures. The bunks are approximately 10 feet long, 3 feet wide, and 8 inches deep. The height to the top of the bunk is 30 inches, making it possible to use them for calves on pasture or for larger steers in the feed lot.

TETRAZZINI, WHO THRILLED WORLD WITH SONGS, DIES

Succumbs After Long Illness in Milan.

MILAN, Italy, April 28 (AP).—Mme. Luisa Tetrazzini, celebrated Italian soprano, who long thrilled opera lovers all over the world, died this morning. She would have been 66 years old on June 29.

Mme. Tetrazzini.

Death occurred in a hospital after a long illness complicated by grippe. For several days Mme. Tetrazzini had been unable to take nourishment other than occasional sips of champagne.

DAUGHTER OF A TAILOR.

Mme. Tetrazzini was born in Florence, Italy, on June 29, 1874. She was the daughter of a military tailor and was working for him when it first was realized that she had a fine voice. She did her first studying with her sister, Eva, a dramatic soprano, and continued it under Contrucci and Ceccherini in Florence.

She made her debut in 1890, singing the part of Inez in L'Africaine at the Teatro Pagliano in Florence. Appearing as a substitute she had only short notice of her assignment, but she carried it out successfully. Not long afterwards she went to Buenos Aires, where she remained several years.

Tetrazzini then returned to Europe, where she appeared in a number of Italian cities and in Berlin. In 1905 she joined a company that went to Mexico City, and later was heard in San Francisco. Her reception there was so warm that she was invited to appear at Covent Garden, in London, where she made her English debut in November, 1907.

In 1908 she made her first New York appearance at the Manhattan Opera house. She remained with the Manhattan Opera company until 1910.

Returns for Tour.

Tetrazzini made her first appearance with the Chicago Opera company in the Auditorium theater on Nov. 3, 1911. The opera was "Rigoletto," her rôle Gilda.

After that she joined the Metropolitan Opera company and toured the country with it and with the Boston Opera company.

During the world war Mme. Tetrazzini sang in Italy for war charities, and in 1922 made what was called a farewell appearance in this country. She returned, however, in 1931 for another tour, her final one.

Mme. Tetrazzini is survived by a sister, Signora Elvira Martucci, and a niece, Marta Martucci, a soprano at La Scala Opera house in Milan.

Correct Constipation Before—Not After!

An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of emergency relief. Why let yourself suffer those dull lifeless days because of constipation, why bring on the need for emergency medicines, when there may be a far better way? That way is to KEEP regular by getting at the cause of the trouble.

If it's common constipation, due to lack of "bulk" in the diet, a pleasant, nutritious, ready-to-eat cereal—Kellogg's All-Bran—goes straight to the cause by supplying the "bulk" you need.

Eat this crunchy toasted cereal regularly, drink plenty of water, and see if you don't forget all about constipation. All-Bran is made by Kellogg's in Battle Creek. If your condition is chronic, it is wise to consult a physician.

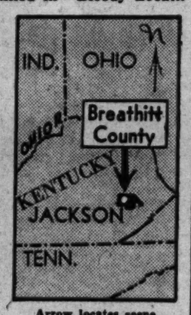
TWO MORE KILLED ON BREATHITT'S BATTLE GROUND

Jailer and Turnkey Die in Kentucky Hostilities.

Jackson, Ky., April 28 (AP).—Two men were killed in "Bloody Breathitt" county today, one from ambush.



Arrow locates scene of Kentucky killings.

County Jailer William Combs, 41 years old, was shot down as he struggled to enter the home of an uncle on the outskirts of Jackson, while a jail turnkey, Bent Sizemore, 25, was killed by a bullet in his back as he hurried to the scene.

Four men named by Police Chief A. S. Sizemore as suspects in the two killings were placed in the Winchester jail in Clark county a few hours later.

Clark County Jailer Omer Booth identified the four as Rudell Combs, Boone Combs and Peter Combs, all brothers-in-law, and Arthur Lee. The Combses were said by Chief Sizemore to be distant kinsmen of the slain Breathitt county jailer.

Two Charged with Murder.

Jailer Booth said Rudell and Boone Combs, taken to Winchester for safekeeping by Jackson officers, were charged with murder in commitment papers signed by Circuit Judge Chester A. Bach of Breathitt county.

Pete Combs and Arthur Lee were arrested in a Winchester restaurant, Booth said, and placed in jail without charge at the request of Jackson authorities.

Chief Sizemore gave this account of today's events leading to the shootings:

Jailer Combs and his wife had driven to the home of their uncle, Gus Combs, just outside the city limits. As they got out of their automobile three men began firing at them.

Mrs. Combs managed to enter the house, but the door slammed shut, locking out the jailer. He then ran around the house and fell dead of five bullet wounds in his back and side while trying to enter the rear door.

The jailer apparently tried to draw his own gun, but it was shot out of his hand before he could fire.

Bent Sizemore, the turnkey, was at the jail here when he heard of the shooting. He set out immediately for the scene, and encountered the killers on the way. He was killed by a single shot in the back.

Recalls Campaign Killing.

Jailer Combs was Breathitt county chairman for Senator Alben W. Barkley in the Barkley-Chandler Democratic senatorial campaign of 1938. The jailer was one of two men indicted on murder charges in a pre-primary gun battle on Aug. 4, 1938, in which former Sheriff Lee Combs, no relation, was killed. Sheriff Walter Deaton and Lewis Combs, brother of Lee Combs and county chairman for A. B. Chandler, were wounded.

Barkley won that primary struggle but Chandler later became a United States senator by appointment.

Chief Sizemore traced the subsequent slaying of Lewis Combs on Jackson street to the enmity incurred in the 1938 primary campaign.

Lewis Combs was shot to death last Feb. 24 and Fred Deaton, a deputy sheriff and son of Sheriff Deaton, was wounded. Fred Deaton later was indicted on a murder charge.

Killings Not Unusual.

Wilson Deaton, another son of Sheriff Deaton, was shot and killed March 16 while intervening in a roadside quarrel among four men. His slaying apparently had no connection, however, with the original primary campaign quarrel.

Breathitt county has been notorious for its feuds for nearly three-quarters of a century. The kingpin of the Breathitt county feudists was James Hargis, killed by his son, Beech Hargis, in 1908. Three of James Hargis' brothers were killed in the feud before he was slain because of a severe beating he had administered his son.

The Hargis clan came to its feuding prominence as an outgrowth of the more famous Hatfield-McCoy feud, which kept Kentucky and West Virginia mountain undertakers busy for more than 20 years.

TEST YOUR HORSE SENSE

BY DR. GEORGE W. CRANE.

Select the answer which you consider best. The last problem counts five points. Then look for the correct answers on page 25.

1. A "water moccasin" refers to an Indian Boot Sawmill Overshoe Snake
2. Brisket of beef comes from the Breast Loin Shoulder Flank
3. A pigeon house is usually called a Coop Aquarium Cote Fold
4. A "hiss" is typical of a Dove Goose Crow Chicken
5. A boar is the male of the Buffalo Hog Horse Mule
6. Today I'll reveal Houdini's secret of holding his breath more than four minutes. Follow the instructions below:

[a] Without preliminary deep breathing, inhale a single deep breath. Hold it as long as possible. Record the time.

[b] After resting a few minutes, rapidly inhale and exhale deeply for at least 12 times. Then hold the last deep breath as long as possible. Record the time. It should be at least 20 to 40 seconds longer than in [a]. If so, you are entitled to 2 points on your score.

[c] Rest awhile; then rapidly inhale and exhale deeply for at least 12 times. Hold the last deep breath as long as possible. Pinch your nostrils shut, so you have a closed air system. When you begin to feel oxygen hunger, belch and then swallow. Keep repeating this process, which stirs up the air in the lungs and taps the aircap in the stomach, holding as much as a normal breath of fresh air. If your time here doubles your time in [a] you deserve 3 more points.

Score yourself as follows: 0-2, poor; 3-6, average; 7-8, superior; 9-10, very superior. [Note—The last question counts five points.]

SWISS ASSEMBLE TO TELL LEADERS WHAT THEY WANT

STANS, Switzerland, April 28 (AP).—Tens of thousands of Swiss mountaineer voters met in the Alpine capitals of four Swiss cantons today to fulfill their duties as electors under one of the world's most ancient forms of democracy—the Landsgemeinden, or open air parliament.

Gen. Henri Guisan and his staff, together with 10,000 peasants and husky villagers, stood in the square at Trogen, in Exterior Appenzell canton, watching a parliament where the voters took a direct part in legislation.

Wield Real Power.

Here at Stans, the capital of Nidwalden canton, 2,500 voters, carrying the traditional sword or modern bayonet to show they had reached manhood and therefore were entitled to vote, settled local issues in a two hour meeting.

They not only were fulfilling a tradition, but were wielding real power with their shouted "Ja's" and "Nay's." Each of the Swiss cantons has more power than the American states, and today's meetings brought together voters of the four cantons.

By the spoken vote or by raised hands each group elected its "landammann" or governor and other officers of the cantonal governments.

Open with a Prayer.

They settled local issues, approved budgets, and decreed what the cantonal delegates to the national council and the states council [equivalent to the United States house of representatives and senate] should say on national issues.

Each parliament opened with a prayer and followed with the oath of the Landsgemeinden, one that has been handed down thru the 649 years since William Tell.

Job Hunting? Be Groomed Well and in Simple Taste

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

[Copyright: 1940: News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

Shortly any number of young women will be on the job-seeking march. No small proportion of its success will rest with the young woman's appearance, particularly when a man is the judge, which is the point we stress today.

In the majority of instances, it will be a masculine employer who will meet and interview the applicant. His decision about the girl's appearance will be important.

A man takes one at face value and he is a conservative soul when it comes to the office "front" which a fair employé has come to be judged. There is pride in the man's soul about this "front," an impersonal business pride it is, let it be understood, but pride in the smart appearance of employés as well as in their abilities.

So it is well when applying makeup, when choosing a dress for the job search, when deciding on a coiffure to ask one's self whether it is the sort of thing a man would like. The efficient business man, for example, would see in an applicant's ensemble minus fuss and nonessentials a nicer "front" than in one dripping fuss and feathers. "Simple" is the word a man uses to describe his taste in clothes. To the masculine mind this means an ensemble that isn't distracting, too striking, or too noticeable. Hair that is very dressy doesn't register nearly as well as the more casual, but neater, coiffure.

And you all know how men feel about makeup. Use it, and with their approval as long as it is done to leave them slightly in doubt as to whether you use it or not. They like eyebrows, too, that are eyebrows, cleanly arched but not too thinly drawn. In other words, those criticisms that a girl's dad and her brothers make should serve as a cue to masculine taste generally, to employer taste particularly.

Paulist Choir Sings Works of 2 in Audience

BY CECIL SMITH.

Before their usual capacity audience in Orchestra hall, the Paulist choristers, conducted by the Rev. Eugene O'Malley, sang their 36th annual spring concert. The program was dedicated to the Most Rev. Samuel A. Stritch, archbishop of Chicago. A distinguished guest was the Rev. William Joseph Finn, returned from New York to hear the 1940 membership of the choir he founded in 1904. In his honor Father O'Malley directed the choir in Father Finn's own brilliant "Alleluia! Haec Dies."

Another celebrity in the audience was Dr. Felix Borowski, distinguished Chicago musical historian, critic, and composer. Two of his choral compositions were included in the program. The première of "O Softly Singing Lute" revealed Dr. Borowski's command of a warmly expressive vein of chromatic harmony, leading to a final cadence of outstanding beauty. "Winter and Spring," a merry bit of airy, swift-moving fantasy, brought the composer to his feet to acknowledge the audience's appreciation.

The choir sang well thruout the afternoon, excelling, perhaps, in the 16th and 17th century polyphonic music in the early part. A group of three liturgical pieces was especially well devised, contrasting the madrigalian and somewhat secular verve of the German Hans Leo Hassler in the Kyrie from the "Missa Secunda"; the intensely emotionalized melody of the Spaniard Tomas Luis da Vittoria in a "Tantum Ergo"; and an unwonted dramatic calculation in the "Super Flumina Babylonis," by the Roman Giovanni Pierluigi da Palestrina. The diversity of the music of this period was further illustrated by Orlando Gibbons' famous madrigal, "The Silver Swan," and a witty chanson by Orlando di Lasso, translated as "Farmer, What's That in Your Bag?"

Mildred Dilling, one of the few first rate concert harpists in the country, played with her accustomed aristocracy and command in the Woman's Club theater. The program included two movements from Mozart's double concerto in C major, in which Miss Dilling was joined by her sister, Charlene Dilling Brewer, violinist, and Arpad Sandor, pianist.

The experiment was not too happy. In the first place the concerto was written for flute and harp, not for violin and harp. The change in instrumental texture was not an improvement. Furthermore, Mrs. Brewer's playing is not on the professional level of her sister's. Mr. Sandor, evidently intent upon causing no disturbance in a rather tentative performance, did not sound like himself at all.

Miss Dilling's solo music was largely drawn from French sources, and included attractive works by Fauré, Tournier, de Severac, and Ravel.

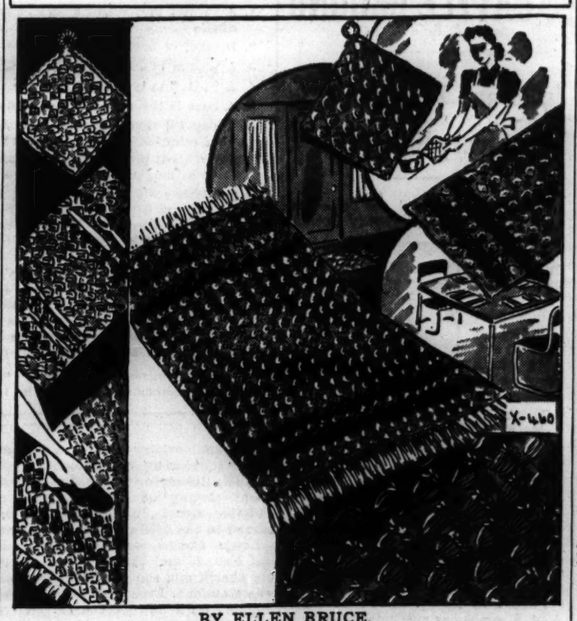
Crocheted House Accessories



BY ELLEN BRUCE.

A crocheted rug, pot holders, and matching rectangular place mats, done in the beautiful but durable shell design, create a beautiful set for the kitchen of the young bride-to-be. Yellow and white is a popular kitchen color scheme. Boilproof carpet warp in one of the shades of yellow, combined with white, cream, or ivory, and crocheted with two threads, produces a curiously mottled effect which will not show soil. The rug and place mats have two stripes of solid yellow at each end, but the pot holder is made of the two colors with a plain yellow ring.

For instructions in crocheting the pot holders, rug, and place mats in the shell stitch, No. X-460, send 10 cents in stamps or coin to the Needlework Bureau, Chicago Tribune, 220 Fifth avenue, New York City.

THRU THE LOOKING GLASS

There's a new and clever presentation in the corsage line—a combination perfumed corsage and a matching satin sachet inclosed in a scented transparent acetate case. The flowers are realistic copies of the natural blooms and are scented with the perfume of the real flowers. You can wear an ever-fresh gardenia, a pink carnation, a scarlet geranium, wistaria, or a lacy white lilac.

On the stem of the corsage is a small satin sachet case carrying the fragrance of the flower to which it is fastened. It has a small loop at one end that will slip over clothes hangers or can be tossed into dresser drawers, hatboxes, or into the linen closet. The case, a transparent cylinder, is also scented and only waits to have gloves or handkerchiefs slipped inside to impart its particular fragrance. When the flowers lose some of their perfume it can be renewed by slipping them back into the case for a few hours.

It's really an elegant package. Wide satin ribbon matching the color of the flower inside, swirls around the case, slips thru narrow slits that hold it firm, and ties in a graceful bow on top.

This corsage will never wilt on your shoulder. And you might put a pin in it for a Mother's day gift.

FLORENCE MURDOCH.

Lily Pons and Kostelanetz Pack Theater

BY EDWARD BARRY.

Lily Pons and Andre Kostelanetz, the man and wife team which drew to Grant park last summer the largest concert audience in Chicago's history, appeared at the Civic Opera house yesterday in a benefit for the Margaret Etter créche. The pair's potent drawing power was demonstrated once again for, altho the seats were anything but cheap, every one in the house was sold and it was necessary to put chairs in the orchestra pit to take care of the overflow.

Miss Pons sang one lyrical and several coloratura songs. Mr. Kostelanetz conducted a 68 piece orchestra in accompaniments for Miss Pons and in three purely instrumental pieces.

Looking as fragile and lovely as ever, and displaying the same genius for arresting and Valentinelike costumes, Miss Pons got off to a nice start with one of her inevitable bird songs—"Lo, Here the Gentle Lark." She followed it with the "Una Voce Poco Fa" from "The Barber of Seville" and the "Bell Song" from "Lakme."

Quite her best work of the afternoon was the "Mad Scene" from "Lucia di Lammermoor." Here that wonderfully delicate, clouded silver voice of hers brought out the pathos of the piece so movingly that the outmoded music seemed to take on fresh new life. That was a radiant moment when the slow three-four melody began and when Lucia, in the person of Miss Pons, managed to lose herself in the imagined bliss of her never to be celebrated marriage with Edgar.

Among Miss Pons' encores were "Little Star" and an arrangement of the "Blue Danube" waltz. All thru the afternoon the singer's attractive personality and her unaffected eagerness to please kept her audience with her.

Mr. Kostelanetz conducted Debussy's prelude to "An Afternoon of a Faun" and Tschaikowsky's overture-fantasy, "Romeo and Juliet," with great attention to subtle inflection. He took little or no advantage of the latter piece's opportunities for moderately big sonorities. His other offering was the overture to Weber's "Der Frieschutz."

Miss Pons, who makes one or more appearances with the Chicago Opera company every year, listened with her husband to a rehearsal of the new opera chorus Saturday afternoon. Both marveled at the quality displayed and predicted that this would become one of the great opera choruses.

Smart Tweeds and Suedes Go to the Country

BY REA SEEGER.

Urban sophisticates faced with a spell of warmth and sunshine heed the call of the wild, rush to the country in a mad scramble to listen to the birds or the bullfrog chorus. Dressed to the teeth for town with smart spring clothes, dull classics in soft wool, thick silk crêpe, crisp taffetas and hats that provoked the speculative masculine audience into jeers or tears, these same people turn out in the swankiest of tweeds and suedes to bask in exhilarating country atmosphere.

Come spring, the trek from town brings out the clever check suits and topcoats, with green and soft gray this year leading the parade. The smoothest and softest of suede outfits are in leaf green. The younger set pull on the new rather startling long knitted wool stockings in red, green, brown, and gray.

Flared short skirts are particularly smart in Oxford gray wool, and the sweaters go on forever in contrasts, in pastels and in smart monotones.

Designed for the invigorating air of the fields and country roads and to guarantee a good impression on the station welcomers are the trim tailored suits in somewhat bold checks and plaids. Such casuals have a relaxed, easygoing air attributable to good color combinations, plenty of action plaits and bloused backlines in the jackets, with the snappy looking skirt. Between the superlative cut and fashioning, the precise tailored outlines and the details, they are the last word in swank.

Topcoats, those obliging wardrobe pieces, add the final touch—from the camel's hair smoothies, the honey beige fleecy woolens, to the wild orgies of blazing colors in spellbinding checks, plaids, and diagonal stripes. Of course, you can go bucolic, in last year's pet suit, you can create a mild furor by wearing slacks, but the first pilgrimage out of town should be in a creditable state of fashion.

Misquoted Titles.

A popular diversion is thinking up questions for Information, Please. Dr. Philip Miller of the University of Chicago has a set of excellent questions he never has sent in. Dr. Mortimer Adler, author of How to Read a Book, has sent in a question he feels sure has been rejected. Wonder how many readers know the right answers?

What are the correct titles of the four books popularly known as:

"Alice in Wonderland" [Lewis Carroll].

"Don Quixote" [Cervantes].

"The Sentimental Journey" [Sterne].

"Tom Jones" [Fielding].

Correct answers at the bottom of the column.

Mr. Adler on Reading Books.

Mr. Adler gave a short talk to book buyers before he began autographing books at a department store Saturday. The educational process is the elevation of one mind by another, he told his listeners, and the great minds of the European tradition exist in the great books they have written. These great educational sources are open to us, but the trouble is that we don't know how to read, he added.

"If real competence in reading were the standard, not one of the boys who get a B. A. degree would receive it," added Dr. Adler.

The two great fallacies about reading: [1] That speed in reading is important. [2] That quantity matters.

"There is nothing right or wrong about reading quickly or slowly," he said. "Being well read doesn't mean having read a lot of books. It means having read a few good books well."

Dr. Adler's description of being well read brought to mind a late well loved Chicagoan whom his description fitted, Kellogg Fairbank. The late Mr. Fairbank was a man who took time to read a book, but when he had done so, the contents were his. Years after he had absorbed a book, he could discuss it as if he had put it down that day. We had marveled at Mr. Fairbank's memory. It was only after reading Mr. Adler's How to Read a Book that we realized the secret was that Mr. Fairbank had known how to read.

Violating the Blackout.

A current tale concerns the family of glow worms that lived on the English coast. The mother cautioned her children about observing the blackout, but one evening when her son Jimmy wanted to go over to visit a neighbor, Milly Glow Worm, she gave him permission.

"All right, if you don't light up," she cautioned him.

She had finished the supper dishes and was putting the glasses away on the shelf when, looking out of the window she saw a little light going on and off, on and off.

"Jimmy, come right in," she called peremptorily. When he appeared she scolded him for his carelessness.

"But Milly's an awfully attractive girl," explained Jimmy, "and besides, mama, when you got to glow, you got to glow."

Correct Titles:

The Sentimental Journey Through France and Italy.

Arthur Meeker Granddaughter to Make Debut

BY JUDITH CASS.

BEFORE Mrs. Horace Gray left for her home in San Francisco last week she and her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Meeker, completed plans for a party they will give in December to introduce to Chicago society the Meekers' granddaughter, Miss Joan Gray. Dr. and Mrs. Gray and Mr. and Mrs. Meeker will give a dinner-dance for her on Dec. 26.

The party undoubtedly will be one of the outstanding debutante affairs of the winter, for Mr. and Mrs. Meeker are noted hosts. Miss Gray will have a warm welcome in Chicago from her family's wide circle of friends. One of her brothers, Arthur Meeker Gray, is engaged in business here and is looking forward to beauing about a debutante sister.

Elizabeth Buchen Engaged to Wed Albert F. Winston.

The guests who assembled yesterday at Mr. and Mrs. Walther Buchen's house in Winnetka for a cocktail party that Miss Elizabeth Head Buchen was giving for Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Boyd Jones [Nancy Brown] were surprised to find that it was an announcement party. The youthful hostess' engagement to Albert F. Winston, son of Mr. and Mrs. James H. Winston of Evanston, was made known.

Miss Buchen and her sister, Esther, now Mrs. Rene Blanc-Roos of Bryn Mawr, Pa., made their debuts in 1935. Miss Buchen is a graduate of the North Shore Country Day school and Pine Manor college. Mr. Winston, whose sister, Virginia, is president of the Chicago Junior league, is a graduate of the Deerfield academy, Amherst college, and the Yale university law school. The wedding will take place in the autumn.

Mrs. Spencer Hammond to Wed W. D. Behnke.

Further romantic news of interest comes from Mrs. Charles Spencer Williamson of Pasadena, Cal., who gave a supper party last week-end to announce the engagement of her daughter, Mrs. Spencer Hammond, to William David Behnke. Mr. Behnke is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred R. Behnke of Los Angeles.

Mrs. Hammond's father was the late Dr. Williamson of Chicago. Mrs. Hammond is an alumna of the Chicago Latin School for Girls and of the University of Chicago. Mr. Behnke is a graduate of Yale and studied law at King's college, Cambridge university, England.

At a reception in their home in Short Hills, N. J., yesterday afternoon Mr. and Mrs. Ralph M. Neumann, formerly of Highland Park, announced the engagement of their daughter, Jane Lucille, to James N. Robertson, son of Mr. and Mrs. James B. Robertson of Darby, Pa.

Miss Neumann attended the Roycemore school in Evanston, Northwestern university, and Connecticut College for Women. Later she studied at the Art Students' league in New York. Mr. Robertson is a graduate of Mercersburg academy, Princeton university, and the University of Pennsylvania law school. He is practicing law in Chester, Pa.

Children's Home Board Starts Tea Series Today.

Members of the women's board of the Illinois Children's Home and Aid society are to give a series of teas at the Steuben Glass exhibition of crystal, the proceeds of which benefit the society. The first of the teas will be given today with Mrs. Chauncey McCormick as hostess. Assisting her will be Mrs. Donald McPherson, Mrs. Walter B. Wolf, Mrs. James M. Hopkins, and Mrs. Howell B. Erminger Jr. Miss Lillian Gish has promised to attend the party.

Mrs. John Alden Carpenter will plan a tea for Thursday, and Mrs. Charles B. Goodspeed and Mrs. Potter Palmer will take later dates upon which to be hostesses. The admission fee is 25 cents except on Wednesdays and Saturdays, which are free days.

A refrigerator, a stove, several sets of twins' clothes, some suitable for bridesmaids' frocks; 500 pairs of new shoes, and lots of evening gowns are included in the new and second hand goods that will go on sale today at 210 West Monroe street. The Kenwood and north side centers of the Infant Welfare society are in charge of the sale, which will continue thru Wednesday. As the Chicago Junior league no longer has rummage sales, many of its members have contributed to the Infant Welfare. Doors will open at 8:30 o'clock in the morning and close at 4:30 all three days.

Gala Concert to Close Cordon Season Thursday.

The Cordon will close its season with a gala concert, "From the Sublime to the Ridiculous," on Thursday evening. The sublime part of the program will be given by the Swedish Glee club, directed by Harry Carlson, and Hans Menzer, violinist. The ridiculous part—and every one who has heard it before at the Musicians' Club of Women or the Arts club will testify to how screamingly funny it is—will be a performance of "Jack and Jill."

In this Marie Zendt will sing the Italian version; Eva Horadesky, the German; Frances Coates Grace and Elaine de Sellem, as Pelleas and Melisande would sing it; Marjorie Morgan, in oratorio style; Lola Fletcher, in Schubert style, and Louise Hattstedt Winter, as a night club singer would present it.

The William Scott Bonds, Mrs. Charles B. Goodspeed, Mrs. Charles H. Swift, Phyllis Fergus Hoyt, Mme. Edith Mason, the James Shakmans, and Princess Rostislav are among those who have made reservations for the gala party.

Rear Admiral and Mrs. William Carleton Watts of the Great Lakes Naval Training station will hold their last at home of the season on Wednesday. The parties will be resumed on the first Wednesday of each month in August, and meanwhile the commandant and his wife will be glad to welcome their friends on any afternoon when they are at their quarters.

Usher for Fashion Show

Good Morning!

Buck Benny hies him to the lone prair-ie in this number. But it's not so vurr' lone, nor is the going there his idea. Nope.

There he is, all set in a sumptuous New York apartment, planning to spend the summer working on a radio show, when Phil Harris horns in. Phil has a lady friend in Reno getting a divorce and he thinks that he and Benny—and, of course, Rochester—should vacation there, and work, also, if there be need.

But Mr. Benny is adamant until a sister singing act collides with him. Literally. That is, one of the sisters of the act does. Her taxi and his car driven—if you can call it such—by Rochester, come together. Mr. Benny is very, very angry until he sees the face in the car window. Then he forgets all else. That face must not go out of his life. . . . He pursues the lady, who thinks him a bold, bad flirt. . . . She's mad on that score, but madder because she fears the accident may have made her late for an appointment—an audition at the very broadcasting station where Jack holds out. . . . Now, guess——?

Sure! He runs into her there, auditioning with her sisters. . . . They are the Cameron sisters and they hail from the west. . . . And they want to go BACK west. . . . And Phil wants to go west. And Rochester, who has gone completely overboard for the Cameron girls' high stepping maid, Josephine, is virtually hysterical to follow his dusky Chloe thru swamp or fire or Indian wars if need be.

Let's make a long story short. They go west. And Benny pretends to be a big ranch owner. And gets found out. BUT he inadvertently acquits himself to such gallant account that—well, what do YOU think? DOES our story have a happy ending?

As is so often the case, Rochester—with Mr. Benny's admiring aid—almost steals the show from Mr. Benny. Audiences love him. This time he dances, sings a bit, borrows the boss' dress suit, and does some pretty able courting. His Josephine can sing and dance, too. Mighty pretty Negro girl!

Mr. Benny is, as always, happy and at ease. He enjoys himself and you enjoy him. . . . Ellen Drew is a bit insipid and you can have Phil Harris. Other members of the cast I liked.

You hear Mary Livingstone's voice and Fred Allen is there in spirit, so to speak—Mr. Benny's spirit—tho not in person.

Settings are smart, photography is splendid, and the director does a neat job. . . . A small bear, Carmichael, is a considerable asset to the scheme of things.

See you soon.

Looking at Hollywood

By Ed Sullivan

Bagdad-on-the-Potomac

Washington, D. C., April 28.—I've just been backstage to renew an old friendship with Alfred Lunt and Lynn Fontanne and to congratulate them on the rave reviews they won in Robert E. Sherwood's new play, "There Shall Be No Night." Carol Frink, Nelson B. Bell, Don Craig, and other local critics tossed hats in the air over this tense drama of a Finnish family, staged shortly after the soviet Russians invaded the tiny country. Playgoers crowded the house for every showing.

"I think," Lynn Fontanne told me backstage, "that this is the best thing that Bob Sherwood ever has done." Lunt, garbed in his olive green stage uniform nodded: "No hysteria to it. It just builds and builds until the final impact" . . . I suggested that perhaps this was the play that Sherwood had been groping for in "Idiot's Delight," a protest against war that never achieved full utterance because Sherwood lost himself and his plot in a labyrinth of stage devices. "No, his political attitude has been changed completely," said Lynn. "The things that have happened in Europe have given him a new political emotional viewpoint." Lunt said: "Certainly it is the finest script we have had in a long time. It has meat on the bones."

What Lunt and Fontanne say about the play is characteristically modest, but the local critics go far beyond that. The Washington sentinels of the drama, I gather, will march in a body on Broadway if "There Shall Be No Night" doesn't win the New York Drama Critic Circle award, the Pulitzer prize and every other plaque and citation that is supposed to denote the year's finest production.

To accomplish this the Lunt-Sherwood opus will have to overshadow "Life with Father." That is quite an assignment, but the critics who compose their essays under the shadow of Washington monument say that this is exactly what will happen.

Thus will come to pass a queer duel of friendships. Russell Crouse, one of the potent contributors to "Life with Father," once handled the Lunts when he was public relations counsel of the Theater Guild. Between them is the closest attachment of respect and affection. They all will be unhappy at the whim that poses their shows as main candidates for the Pulitzer prize of 1940.

Of all the personages of the legitimate theater, no couple ever has done so much for it or won so fine a place in the loyalties of their associates as Alfred Lunt and Lynn Fontanne. Their talent explains their contributions to the legitimate stage, but it is their personal characteristics that explain their grip on loyalties and affections of stagehands, critics, performers, box office men, autograph hounds, and all the other thousands of people who make up the theatrical pattern.

These two, Lunt and Fontanne, are splendid individuals. Oddly enough, those who don't know them and who have been awed by their prestige, always are shocked when they learn that they are easily approached. Lunt, for instance, disarms you immediately by his passion for vaudeville. Between shows, and on the afternoons when he isn't playing matinées, you'll find him sitting in the mezzanine sections of any theater which offers a vaudeville bill. He knows as much about vaudeville performers as Variety or Billboard.

"There Shall Be No Night" has had people standing in line at the National theater, and this is not the sort of town which enjoys standing in line. When "Gone With the Wind" had its gala première here, only three-quarters of the house was filled. The rest had been scared away by the talk of standees. For the Lunts however, Washington stood in line and didn't resent it. The last time any such thing happened was years ago when David Warfield played in "The Music Master" at the local Belasco theater. Warfield set every attendance record for the national capital and veteran waiters at the Occidental restaurant here still tell of the furor that Warfield created on that memorable trip.

Marry My Daughter

By Alice Duer Miller

(Copyright: 1940: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.)

SYNOPSIS.

Millicent's mother dreams of marrying her lovely daughter off to some one like Dick Shard, who is kind, distinguished and rich. Dick lives in New York, but had visited in Millicent Dunham's home in the midwest when her father worked for his firm. After her father died, Dick gave Mrs. Dunham a job and on her visit to New York he takes her to dinner and the theater with his friends, Constance and Aleck Stewart. She realizes Dick is in love with Constance. After the theater Mrs. Dunham sees Dick about to be hit by a car and in an effort to save his life she is killed. While dying she makes Dick promise to marry Millicent. Too in love with Constance, he is determined to keep his promise to Mrs. Dunham and goes to see Millicent and asks her to marry him.

INSTALMENT VII.

FATHERLY ADVICE.

Roy went on passionately and the more he talked to Millicent about the dangers and disadvantages of metropolitan life, the more agreeable it sounded to her. She hadn't thought of this side of the question at all—she had only thought that Shard was a stranger to her, and a girl really couldn't marry a total stranger.

But as Ellerman talked she saw this other aspect—she would become part of that crowded gayety she read about in the papers—she might even see her own photograph, incredibly well dressed—Mrs. Richard Shard at the first night of the opera. . . . How her mother would have loved that. But of course these were only imaginings—and imaginings contrary to the fact. She came back from them and smiled at her companion.

"Of course not, but I'd like to punch his head for having the nerve to suggest it."

"He was only trying to be kind."

"Kind. Kind to himself—a girl like you . . ."

Rose, to whom Milly told the news when they were getting ready for supper that evening, took something of the same view. Of course he was in love with Milly.

"He didn't say a word about love, Rose."

"Well, he wouldn't—on account of your mother. It doesn't seem the moment to make love to a girl. But why else should he ask you?"

"I thought it might be a sort of gratitude."

"Gratitude? Nonsense. He's in love with you."

Of course there was no denying, considering past experience that this was a possibility, but Millicent protested: "Don't be silly, Rose, he's only seen me once."

"Now you know better than that. Who was saying only last week that the only really romantic love was love at first sight. How many times had I seen Jack before I knew that he was the only boy in the world for me. I remember that first day when you told me how you broke in on breakfast in your new wrapper and he told your mother that you looked like an angel or something. I said to myself then—another victim. And those orchids! My . . . some orchids those were. You know, Milly, you're just the sort of girl older men go daffy about."

"Well, it doesn't matter because I couldn't even consider it."

"It might be fun if you could get a trip to New York out of it, and then change your mind."

Heartbroken as she was, Milly couldn't help giggling faintly at this immoral suggestion. Then Mrs. Ogden's voice was heard calling them down to supper.

"Aren't you going to wait for Pop?" Rose asked.

"No," said Mrs. Ogden, "I think your father likes to have his meals late. He's never been on time once since I married him . . ." She went on in this vein until Rose interrupted her.

"It doesn't matter to him—he doesn't have any of the trouble. I'm the one. I've served not three meals a day but six ever since I was married—you'd think I ran a boarding house . . ."

The girls dropped their eyes to their plates, waiting for the tirade to be over. No, Millicent thought, she couldn't stay here. It was probably regarded as the doctor's fault that she had come at all.

Dr. Ogden came in later than usual and his wife said: "I suppose this was one of your charity patients—I notice they're the most inconsiderate—and of course the most numerous of your cases."

No one could have been sure that he even heard her. He gave his attention to the excellent food she was setting before him, only now and then glancing at Millicent under his brows. He was a handsome man of rather a Roman type—a fine large nose, a high forehead with two circles of dark hair coming forward over his ears. Milly thought him, as he was, much the greatest man she had ever known—wise and good and marvelously patient.

As soon as supper was over he asked her to go to his office with him—he had some business to discuss with her.

Millicent and Rose both loved the office, which was also a scholar's library—shelves of old brown books—not only medical books but classical poets and English memoirs. Dr. Ogden was a great reader—another of his wife's complaints against him.

She sat down in a shabby black leather chair by the open fire. The room was beautiful—so unlike the rest of the house, which had a hard, clean, creamed-colored ugliness.

The doctor stood on the hearth rug lighting his pipe. "It wasn't a patient that made me late for supper, Milly," he said. "I was talking to Shard at the hotel."

Her heart began to beat. "O, Dr. John, did he tell you that he asked me to marry him this afternoon?"

"That was what we were talking about."

She looked at him, but you never could tell by looking at Dr. Ogden what he was thinking about. "Wasn't it the queerest thing, Dr. John. I couldn't believe my ears."

"But what did you think?"

"Why, I never thought of it at all—not for an instant—at least, I mean, I haven't thought of anything else, but only because it seems so awfully queer."

He smiled. It touched him that she should think it so inexplicable. He had watched her grow up and felt for her that deep, protective, romantic love which high-minded men describe as paternal when it is directed to the daughter of one of their friends.

"It doesn't seem so queer to me, Milly. He is a lonely man, a bachelor with a lot of money he can't spend. He sees you, a lovely girl, in distress—distress for which he is in a way responsible—he wants to guard you—he wants to give you everything he has—and that, let me tell you, is a lot. Quixotic, yes, but not so very hard to understand."

"But he's so much older than I am."

"To me he seems quite a boy, Milly."

"Oh, he doesn't, Dr. John. He has gray in his hair."

There was a long pause, and then a sort of wail burst from Milly. "You're not advising me to say yes, are you?"

"No," he answered promptly, and then less positively, "No—certainly not if there is some one else."

"There isn't any one else—not really." She hesitated, surprised to find that the stature of other candidates had slightly shrunk in her estimation. "But I don't much want to be married at all—certainly not to him. Why, I don't know anything about him—he may be a villain."

Dr. Ogden laughed. "He certainly isn't that. No, he's a fine young man—your father used to talk of him when he was working for him—very serious and hard working . . ." He stopped, aware that he was not painting an alluring picture.

Millicent's large blue eyes grew suddenly dark with the intensity of her emotion. "Dr. John," she said, "you are advising me to do it."

"I am telling you it would be a wise thing to do—but you want romance, I suppose."

"I should want to love the man I married."

Mothers Slow to Recognize Gifted Child

By GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

[Copyright: 1940: News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

"Dear Mrs. Bevans:

"Some time ago you wrote in your column about the gifted child. It has been my feeling that every parent thinks that his child is gifted, so I have been slow to admit to myself that my boy is above average. However, his behavior, together with your article, has convinced me that he is at least near the top brackets of the 'normal' child. How much encouragement should one give such a child? How much should a parent try to keep such a child's interest centered on lines usually accepted for his age level?

"Our boy is 4 years and 6 months old. At this time he can tell time as close as five minutes; he gets out the typewriter and amuses himself putting words together to form short sentences; he learned his numbers with very little help, from street signs and the speedometer, so that now he counts and recognizes numbers to a hundred. He uses a calendar so that he associates the days of the week with the numbers and months. He considers it play to write the months on his blackboard. The other day I asked his father some 'brain teasers' which began with a simple problem: How many boxes are there if one big box contains two little boxes and in each small box there is another? The boy heard me and answered with hardly any hesitation. What is a good program for a physically and mentally active child of this age?"

Indeed, this little boy is definitely a brilliant child, and his mother should not have been loath to admit it. Contrary to the popular belief, Dr. Leta Hollingworth's studies have shown that mothers of gifted children usually are the last ones to suspect that they are mentally superior.

Unfortunately, educators and educational programs have scarcely scratched the surface of this problem of providing in school for the gifted child. Those who are mentally below normal have been widely planned for, as is right, but from the gifted group come our leaders, our thinkers, our creators in many fields of endeavor. As a civilized people our vaunted educational system should seek them out, or at least recognize them, and give them an education that provides every chance for full development, this for their own sakes and for the sake of the world in which they live and which so badly needs them.

This subject will be continued tomorrow.

By Evelyn Holmes

April 29, 1940.

In the combination of 2 and 9 we have a resulting master number, 11. Here ideals are important and so the vocation chosen needs to be one where imagination and universal service to mankind are essential factors. As a go-between in disputes or as an inspirational adviser, these people shine. They don't like to work under pressure and are moody and emotional, so straight commercial jobs are too routine or too restricting. They should avoid drifting from one occupation to another and should discipline their inspiration gifts along practical lines.

This year is a little jittery for those with this birthday. There is need for patience.

Remember how, as a child, you hammered away at hard shelled black walnuts by the hour, just to satisfy your craving for the rich, oily meats within those black shells? And how you picked them out laboriously to make half a cupful to that mother could use them in fudge?

These days we just go to the food store, not just any food store, of course, for only a few of them sell black walnuts, and we buy the nuts already shelled and picked over. How much easier it has become to make black walnut fudge, divinity, and desserts! We can buy a realistic black walnut flavoring so that even when we're minus the nuts we can enjoy the taste of them.

Black walnut divinity is, in our estimation, queen of all homemade candies. The arrival of the electric mixer in the modern kitchen has made it one of the easiest candies to make, instead of one of the most difficult. Once upon a time, when beating had to be done by hand, divinity required the right arms of half the family, in turn.

Black Walnut Divinity.
[Eight Inch Square Panful.]

2 cups white sugar
½ cup light corn sirup
½ cup hot water
¼ teaspoon salt
2 egg whites
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 cup broken black walnut meats

Combine sugar, corn sirup, and hot water in a sauce pan and stir over low heat until sugar dissolves. Bring to a boil and boil without stirring to 248 degrees, or until the sirup forms a very firm ball in cold water. Wipe sugar crystals away from the sides of the pan with a damp cloth wrapped around a fork, and pour the sirup in a thin stream over the egg whites, which have been beaten with the salt until stiff, but not dry. Beat constantly during pouring, preferably with an electric mixer. Beat until candy thickens and begins to lose its gloss. Add vanilla and nuts and spread in a buttered pan. When firm cut into squares.

Divinity may be dropped onto a greased pan or waxed paper by spoonfuls.

Black walnuts make cornstarch pudding delicious, especially if it's a maple, butterscotch, or caramel cornstarch pudding. They add richness and flavor to cream pies, to sweet muffins, cupcakes, and cookies.

They are such an oily nut that when they are used in cake one must be sure that the cake recipe is not already rich in fat. Here's a simple black walnut flavored cake which may be made with any kind of nut, but which is most delicious with the walnuts.

Black Walnut Cake.
[Eight Inch Square Pan.]

¼ cup butter, creamed
2 eggs
1¼ cups sifted cake flour
1½ teaspoons baking powder
½ cup milk
½ teaspoon vanilla
½ teaspoon black walnut extract
½ cup broken nuts, preferably black walnuts

Cream butter and sugar together until light. Beat in eggs. Sift flour and baking powder together and add alternately with milk, beating batter smooth after each addition. Add flavoring and fold in nuts. Pour into greased cake pan and bake at 350 degrees. Frost with caramel icing.

Radio Broadcasts in Chicago Today

Today's Features

ON W-G-N.
[Central Daylight Saving Time.]

Two new script shows, several program changes, an interview with Stanley Fields, movie "gangster" star, and the audience studio program, Romance in Rhythm, are on the W-G-N and Mutual network schedule today.

Arline Blackburn.

Linda's First Love and The Editor's Daughter, the new serials, will be heard Monday thru Friday at 10:45 a. m. and 11 a. m., respectively. The first, starring Arline Blackburn as Linda Crockett, is the story of a girl and her struggles in providing for her step-son, her invalid foster-father, and her mother. The second show features Joan Banks as Mary Foster, daughter of a country newspaper publisher, who has two loves but has been deeply hurt by both.

The programs that shift to new hours are Arthur Godfrey, moving from 8:30 a. m. Monday, Wednesday, and Friday to 9 a. m. the same days; Bachelor's Children, usually heard Monday thru Friday at 10:15 a. m., will be heard at 10:30 a. m. the same days, and Who Knows?, the dramatic series formerly scheduled Saturdays at 7:30 p. m., will shift to Monday at 10 p. m.

Stanley Fields will be interviewed at 11:15 a. m. when he will appear as guest on Quin Ryan's News Commentary. Fields is appearing at the State-Lake theater.

The Romance In Rhythm show, directed by Harold Stokes from W-G-N's main audience studio, will offer a half hour of hit tunes at 9:30 p. m. Vocalists will be Lawrence Salerno, Edna O'Dell, the Four Shades of Blue, and the W-G-N chorus. Miss O'Dell will sing for her solo "You, You Darling," and will join the chorus in "I Walk With Music." Salerno will sing "Make Love With A Guitar," and with the chorus will do "Gwine to Hebbin."

According to CULBERTSON

[Copyright: 1940: By Ely Culbertson.]

The term "double dummy" is used by all experienced bridge players to mean "as if the hands of all four players were exposed." Needless to say, certain problems of play [and even of bidding] become infinitely easier when the positions of key cards and suit distributions are known. Indeed, it is fair to say that some problems are virtually impossible of fulfillment except on a double dummy basis. Nevertheless, the term is used entirely too freely—that is, often we hear a player defend himself from a criticism with the following sort of remark: "O, that [winning] line of play would have been pure double dummy." Sometimes this is a sound alibi; at other times it has no basis in fact. Take a hand such as today's, for example. The East player, on being told that he could have defeated the three no trump contract, disdainfully snorted: "Double dummy!" Actually, however, a master player in his position could not have used that argument.

The bidding:

North	East	South	West
1 diamond	Pass	3 no trump	Pass
3 no trump	Pass	Pass	Pass

West properly opened the top of his interior sequence, namely, the heart 10. East went up with the king which, of course, held the trick, and returned the heart jack. Declarer, correctly analyzing that there was nothing to be gained by covering, and hoping against hope that West had started with a long suit headed by the ace, refused to cover the jack and, after that, the defense was "up the creek." East could make no return that would even faintly embarrass declarer. His actual choice of a club was as good as any. Declarer's ten spot held, the diamond ace cashed, and the diamond finesse was taken and lost to East's queen. Now, since East was out of hearts, declarer could claim his contract with four diamonds, three clubs, and two spades.

East lost no time in pointing out to declarer "how disgustingly lucky" he had been in finding the heart suit blocked. South, an amiable and not too expert player, cheerfully agreed. A kibitzer, however, with that fiendishness so characteristic of all kibitzers, took it upon himself to put East in his place. "South was lucky, all right," he said, "but part of his luck was in having you on defense. If you had put up the heart jack instead of the king on the first trick, he would not have reached first base."

And, as will be seen by a close study of the cards, the kibitzer was right! If East had played the heart jack, declarer never could have visualized the true situation and, since there was a good chance that he would be able to run the diamond suit without loss, would have been forced to accept his heart queen at the first trick. As the cards lay, of course, refusal to take this queen would have insured the contract, but this refusal would have been sheer double dummy in that South would have to risk another heart lead thru the queen which, for all he could tell, would let West run off the entire heart suit.

From the defensive point of view, however, the play of the heart jack would not have been double dummy. East had stoppers in every suit. It was a virtual certainty that West had nothing outside of the heart suit. If South had both the ace and queen of hearts, it did not matter which heart East played; if South had the ace without the queen, it also probably would not matter, because on the play of the king South would hold up the ace until East was exhausted of hearts. The one chance for the defenders was that declarer had only the heart queen; if this were true, it was vital for East to make a play that would force out that card immediately, that is, which would not permit a holdup play.

Some different touches for that new or modernized home are: A wide oak floor in a living and dining room, trimmed with an 18 inch border of black maple. . . . A black asphalt floor in a den. . . . A brick floor in an entrance hall. . . . And a sod roof for those who love growing things. These sod roofs, with grass and flowers on them, can be watertight and snug—and, properly constructed, do their part in keeping out the summer heat.

BIMELECH AND PICTOR ARRIVE FOR THE DERBY

Who'll Run Second Burning Question.

BY HOWARD BARRY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Louisville, Ky., April 28.—Edward R. Bradley's Bimelech and W. L. Brann's Pictor arrived today ready to take up final preparations for the Kentucky Derby, which will be run Saturday at Churchill Downs. Dit, owned by Arnold Hanger, is expected from New York tomorrow to complete the trio of winners of the most important preliminary events.

The undefeated Bimelech won Keeneland's Blue Grass stakes, Pictor led the field home in the Chesapeake at Havre de Grace, and Dit conquered his rivals in the Wood Memorial at Jamaica.

Bimelech was vanned over from Idle Hour farm this morning and Pictor arrived by train from Havre de Grace. Harold A. Clark's Royal Man, who finished second to Pictor in the Chesapeake, came in on the same train as Pictor.

Red Dock Out of Derby.

Putting in their appearance with Pictor and Royal Man were two other Derby candidates, Sky Dog and Gallant Dream, from the Harry M. Warner stables. The arrival of the Warner eligibles was somewhat of a surprise.

Four other eastern Derby possibilities were eliminated as a result of the Wood Memorial. Mrs. Payne Whitney's Red Dock, second in the Wood, was held out of the Derby, as were C. V. Whitney's Flight Command and Carrier Pigeon. John Partridge's Devil's Crag, third in the Wood, wound up with a cut leg which filled, keeping him out of the Derby.

Dit was sent against the advice of Trainer Max Hirsch. Dit also is entered in the Preakness at Pimlico May 11 and Hirsch thought three hard races in as many weeks, with two long trips in between, would be too hard on the colt.

One of the significant things about the victories of Bimelech, Pictor, and Dit is the fact that nearly every front rank Derby contender was competing in one of the three events—and in every case the winner mastered his field in convincing fashion. The Dixiana farm's Sirocco and Charles S. Howard's Mioland were absent from the above mentioned stakes, but they were about the only exceptions.

Sirocco Wins Following.

This, of course, doesn't mean that the Derby shapes up strictly as a test of speed among the winners of the Blue Grass, Chesapeake, and Wood. There are many who believe that Sirocco may beat both Pictor and Dit. Others think that Joseph E. Widener's Roman, who ran so gamely in finishing second to Bimelech in the Blue Grass, might also be better than the easterners.

There's one thing about this Derby, however — the difference of opinion seems confined to speculation about who will finish second. There will be many very surprised people at Churchill Downs next Saturday if Bimelech fails to win.

When Pictor won the mile and a sixteenth Chesapeake in muddy going he conquered Royal Man, Andy K., Fenelon, General Manager, and Maestro Sascha. At the finish he was two lengths ahead of Royal Man, and none of the others was within five lengths of the latter.

Bimelech Scared 'Em Out.

When Dit won the mile and a sixteenth Wood Memorial on a fast track, he outran Red Dock, Devil's Crag, Snow Ridge, Andy K., Carrier Pigeon, Tola Rose, Jacomar, General Manager, Flight Command, Ballast Relief and Robert E. Lee.

In the course of a very light campaign last year, Dit showed signs of class. He won a maiden race and two allowance events. A second place in his first start and a second to his stablemate Roman Flag, in the Breeders' Futurity, completed his record for 1939. Before winning the Wood Memorial, he scored in an allowance event, making his total four victories and two seconds in six starts.

THE GUMPS—JUST A WEED IN THE GARDEN OF LOVE

THINGS HAVE BRIGHTENED A BIT AROUND MY HOUSE, BIM-BABY RECEIVED A POEM BY MAIL FROM HER ROMEO—
OH, FINE! DID HE ASK PERMISSION TO CALL ON HER?
NO—HE DIDN'T EVEN SIGN THE POEM, AND YET SHE SEEMS AS HAPPY AS A LARK—
POOR CHILD—THANKFUL FOR A SMALL FAVOR—
SOME PEOPLE'S LIVES ARE AS FULL OF EXPERIENCE AS A GREENHOUSE IS OF FLOWERS, WHILE OTHERS, LIKE DEAR BABY, MUST BE CONTENT WITH THE PERFUME OF A STRAY DAISY—THAT BOZO'S NO DAISY! HE'S JUST A POISON IVY VINE GROWING IN HER GARDEN OF LOVE—AND WOULD I LIKE TO UPROOT HIM!

THREE CARDINAL HOME RUNS END CUB STREAK AT 4

Gutteridge's 3 Run Blow Knocks Out Lee.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

St. Louis, Mo., April 28.—Mr. William Lee, usually a mound stalwart, was just another fellow today in the eyes of the St. Louis Cardinals. They recaptured some of their missing Gas House Gang spirit and battered Big William to triumph over the Cubs in the second of the series, 7 to 5, before 9,691, who didn't appear at all displeased over the happenings. The result put a check rein on the Chicagoans after they had galloped gaily thru four straight victories.

Lee's chief trouble revealed itself in the form of the home run ball, an item that twice forced him to relinquish the lead. On successive pitches in the fourth, with the Cubs ahead by 3 to 1, Joe Medwick and Johnny Mize boosted the ball out of the park for two-thirds of a three run splurge.

Lee Loses Lead Second Time.

The Cubs put Lee back in the game by 5 to 4 in the fifth, but in the home portion of the same inning, there was another homer. Don Gutteridge slapped one into the seats with two mates on base and the wallop not only sent Lee reeling out of the picture, but also nailed down the game.

The Cubs had a fair amount of fun with their bats as long as Bill [Fiddler] McGee was pitching. Two doubles by Hank Leiber and one by Bill Nicholson, along with a few other things, such as a single by Phil Cavarretta, brewed three runs for the Chicagoans in the first three innings. Nicholson came thru again in the fifth, this time with a single, which was coupled with a hit by Stan Hack and a pair of passes, two runs scoring. But this blast routed McGee and from then to the finish the Cubs suffered extensively. They couldn't make an impression on Clyde [Lefty] Shoun, their one time associate.

Olsen Does a Good Job.

When Gutteridge's homer forced Lee to curl up with his second defeat in four starts, the vacancy was filled by Vern Olsen, the southpaw rookie. His work was almost as spectacular as Shoun's.

Olsen halted the fifth inning disturbance into which he was ordered before an out was recorded and sailed thru the last three sessions on an allowance of two hits. One of these was Medwick's double and his third

Tales Off a Texas Tee

Disqualification in Texas Amateur Tourney Still Puzzles Nelson

[This is the second of a series of articles by Byron Nelson, present national open golf champion and holder of the Vardon trophy for competitive excellence. He also won the 1939 western open championship and was runnerup for the national professional title after a 37 hole final.]

BY BYRON NELSON.

A NUMBER of the members at the Glen Garden club, where I caddied, became interested in my game as it improved, and I finally was given a junior membership in the club. It was shortly after this that I entered the Fort Worth city amateur tournament. I won the medal, but the committee disqualified me for further play, on the grounds that I was a caddie. This was, and still is, a mystery to me, because the officials knew that I was a caddie at the time they accepted my $5 entry fee.

The state of Texas was jampacked with great golfers then, and many of the fellows from down our way who are up on top in golf now were just beginning to make good then. Ben Hogan was one, Ralph Guldahl another, and the Mangrum brothers, Ray and Lloyd, still others. And Gus Moreland was beginning to play the golf that led him to the western amateur championship and a spot on the Walker cup team.

I did not finish high school, but went to work for the Fort Worth and Denver railroad, where I was an office boy, and later a file clerk, in the auditing department. I was playing as much golf as I could, but the only real opportunity I had to practice was after work. I was thru at 5 o'clock, and every night would hop on the Polytechnic trolley, transfer to a bus, and go out to Glen Garden.

Acted as Own Caddie in Chasing His Iron Shots.

The trip used to take about 35 minutes each night, and I'd spend between two and three hours working out. I didn't have the money to hire a caddie to chase the balls, so I had to do it myself. I'd take 20 balls and concentrate on the shorter irons. Probably the reason why I worked mostly on irons was that it would have been too much of a job to chase wood shots.

Ted Longworth had left Glen Garden for the pro job in Texarkana. He was succeeded by Dick Grout, who did a lot to help me with my game.

Byron Nelson, national open champion, shows the reverse side of his overlapping grip. The grip should always be secure, but never tight or rigid.

Nelson gives a closeup of his grip as it looks to galleries. Note the grip is perpendicular to the shaft, and that the right hand provides a foundation.

Dick and Bobby Cruickshank, with whom I played in the pro-amateur preceding the 1930 Texas open, both

Stockholders Vote Today to Sell Arlington

John D. Allen, vice president of the Brinks Express company, and his associates in the purchase of the Arlington Park Jockey club will be handed the keys to the big racing plant this afternoon following a meeting of directors and stockholders at 33 North La Salle street. The $1,600,000 deal will be completed without any opposition from the stockholders, to whom the sale was recommended by the board of directors on April 15.

The present board, which took over the track 11 years ago at a cost of $2,400,000, will be represented at the meeting by President Otto Lehmann and Leonard S. Florsheim, treasurer. Other Chicago sportsmen financially interested in the plant, who will be unable to attend include John D. Hertz, Charles McCulloch, Warren Wright, Stanley Field, James Simpson Jr., John R. Thompson Jr., Laurance Armour, and Vincent Bendix.

No Change in Schedule.

In addition to Allen, the new directors of the track, which will open on June 24, will be Ben Lindheimer, managing director of the Washington Park Jockey club; Joseph J. Rice, grain broker; Eugene Murphy, an attorney; John G. McCarthy, president of the Board of Trade; Modie J. Spiegel Sr., Ralph Atlass, director of radio stations WJJD and WIND, and J. O. Stoll, president of J. O. Stoll company, magazine distributors. Members of the syndicate have capital of $800,000. They will form a corporation upon obtaining control of the plant.

Allen will serve as president of the track. Rice has been named treasurer and Murphy secretary. There will be no change in the schedule of Arlington's rich stakes, which were erranged by the present board. The $10,000 Stars and Stripes handicap will be run on July 4; the $10,000 Lassie Stakes on July 13; the $30,000 added Classic on July 20, and the $20,000 Arlington Futurity on July 27.

Deadline Is May 10.

The meeting, which will get under way at 3:30 o'clock, will conclude all details for the sale with the exception of legal procedures which will be cleared by May 10, the deadline set for the transfer. The new group said it would uphold the traditional Arlington high standards in stakes and overnight purses to attract the outstanding thorobreds on the American turf.

BROWNS POUND 3 PITCHERS FOR 17 HITS; WIN, 11-8

Clift and Judnich Get Homers.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

The White Sox are en route to the Atlantic seaboard this morning without the distinction of having won a game, not even an exhibition match, in Comiskey park in 1940. The latest instalment of Sox futility came yesterday when the fellows were vanquished again by the St. Louis Browns, 11 to 8. It was the second time this year last season's tailenders have been able to run up 11 runs on the Sox defense.

Ted Lyons, who beat the Browns in St. Louis for one of the two victories the Sox have accomplished in the American league this year, tried briefly to duplicate. Before the Sox had sent a fourth batsman to the plate, the Browns were ahead, 5 to 0, and when Ted went away after the Brownie fourth, the Sox were behind, 7 to 1. Bill Dietrich succeeded Lyons and Clint Brown succeeded Dietrich. The trio was maltreated for 17 hits, ranging up to a homer by Walter Judnich off Lyons and one by Harlond Clift off Brown.

Departed Harris Is Victor.

Yesterday's loss was the seventh in nine games for the Sox. Excepting pitchers, the same eight men have started each of the nine engagements, indicating that Manager Jim Dykes thinks he has a better front line than the league standings indicate. At any rate, the Sox are a better team on the road than at home, their home percentage being .000 for five games, while the showing abroad has been .500 in four games. So maybe the impending invasion of the east won't be so brutal, after all.

O, yes, some of the details of the Browns' third 1940 victory over the Sox: Lyons contributed much to his own embarrassment in the first inning. He walked Judnich with one out and Judnich scored on George McQuinn's double to right. Rip Radcliff bounced to Lyons, who makes an error every three or four years, and Ted flipped the ball high over Joe Kuhel's head, McQuinn scoring and Radcliff reaching second. That was all the scoring in the first inning.

Judnich Belts One.

After two were out in the second inning, Harris singled and stopped at third on the first of Alan Strange's doubles. Judnich then batted his second homer of the series high into the upper deck of the right field stand, scoring Harris and Strange.

Harris and Strange again scored off Lyons in the fourth. Strange drove in Harris with his second double, stole third, and scored on a wild pitch.

The Sox were trailing, 8 to 2, going into the sixth, and after two were out they made five unearned runs and had the tying run on third when the Browns halted things. The Browns contributed their fourth and fifth errors to make possible the Sox scoring in the sixth.

With the ratio reduced to 8 to 7, the Browns got busy and knocked out Dietrich in the seventh. Three singles and a walk, good for two runs, brought Brown on the scene.

In the home half of the seventh the Sox made their second earned run of the afternoon. Luke Appling tripled and scored on a fly by Taft Wright.

Encouraged by great weather, and little else, most of a gathering of 8,500 stuck the whole 2 hours and 38 minutes to wade thru the spectacle.

LANDER MAKES FRESH START IN MARIGOLD RING

Boxes Silva Tonight in 1st 1940 Appearance.

Eddie Lander, west side lightweight, tonight will attempt to score his first victory of 1940 in a 10 round bout against Joey Silva of Los Angeles in Marigold Gardens, Broadway and Grace street. Shortly after he lost a split decision to Pete Lello in the Coliseum on Dec. 27, Lander spent a long vacation in California.

Eddie Lander.

In his first start after returning, Eddie lost a disputed decision in 10 rounds to Frankie [Kid] Covelli April 8. It was the lad's sixth setback in 25 starts. Of the others he scored 16 triumphs and three draw decisions.

Silva Makes Chicago Debut.

Silva, who is making his first Chicago appearance, is an aggressive, two-fisted fighter who should extend his 20 year old opponent. Joey's best achievements are victories over Jimmy Lancaster in Hagerstown, Md., June 21 and Pete Galiano in Washington, D. C., Feb. 9, of last year. He also defeated Norment Quarles in Philadelphia two years ago.

A five round semi-final on the card brings together Joey Spiegel, Milwaukee welterweight, and Ralph Guajardo. In other matches Johnny Pleasant, last year's Golden Gloves lightweight champion, is paired with Billy Borne of Granite City, Ill.; Frank Greene, south side heavyweight, with Tommy Johnson, and Paul Frazier, also a Golden Gloves alumnus, with Mike Chrismas.

Danno O'Mahoney will wrestle Charley [Gorilla] Grubmyer in a heavyweight match heading the wrestling program in White City, 63d street and South Park avenue, this evening. Bert Rubi and Seeli Samara will be principals in a secondary feature. Additional encounters involve Angelo Leone and Walter Palmer, Bill Canny and Juan Humberto, Al Williams and Farmer Mack.

Milt Aron, Chicago welterweight, who lost a close 10 round fight to Cal Cagni in Philadelphia March 25, will receive an opportunity for revenge in a return contest in the same city tonight. Promoter Herman Taylor has arranged a supporting card which includes matches between Al Gainor, New Haven, Conn., light heavyweight, and Henry Taylor; Andre Jessurun, New York welterweight, and Sammy Luftspring, and Tony Dupre, Hartford, Conn., featherweight, and Tommy Forte.

Benny Puchalski, who won the 1939 Golden Gloves novice middleweight championship, will turn professional in a four round contest against Carl Schumacher of Milwaukee in White City Friday. He will box as Benny Rooster. Marty Simmons, Saginaw, Mich., light heavyweight, is in town for a 10 round headliner on the program against Nate Bolden.

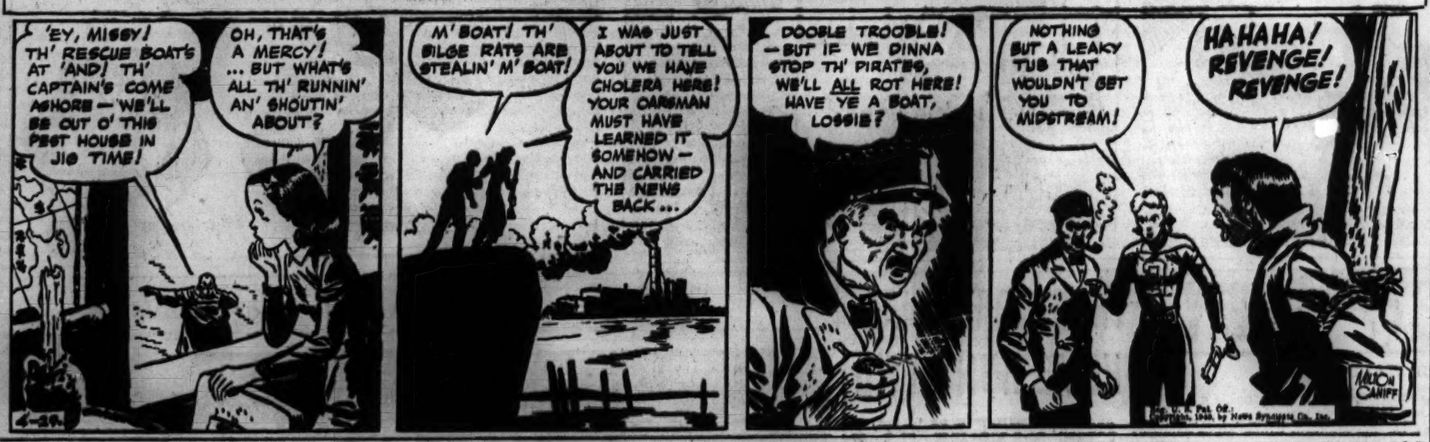
TERRY AND THE PIRATES—SENSE OF HUMOR



12 Day Meet Opens Today at Pimlico Track

Baltimore, Md., April 28 (AP).—Maryland's spring racing season enters its last lap tomorrow with the opening of Pimlico's 12-day meeting which will be climaxed with the golden jubilee running of the $50,000 added Preakness stakes May 11.

The stake-a-day policy inaugurated a few seasons ago by Alfred G. Vanderbilt, president of the Maryland Jockey club, will be the order again this year. A total of $107,500 will be distributed for the 12 stake races at this meeting.

Spring Handicap Heads Program.

Featuring the opening day program will be the $2,500 added Baltimore Spring handicap, a six furlong sprint for three year olds and up. Also on the program are the $2,000 added Pimlico spring maiden steeplechase and a $1,500 added race for three year old fillies.

Nine good sprinters were named for the Baltimore Spring handicap, sixth event on the eight race card. The steeplechase drew fifteen jumpers and the filly race a field of ten.

Topping the field in the spring handicap was the A. C. C. stable's Sun Egret, winner of the Harford handicap on opening day at Havre de Grace. Sun Egret was assigned top weight of 126 pounds.

Faces Strong Competition.

Named to oppose him were such capable sprinters as Airflame, Drudgery, and Speed to Spare, all recent winners. Completing the field were Ariel Toy, Slow Motion, Battle Jack, Lady Maryland and Redlin.

The more important stakes to be decided at Pimlico, in addition to the Preakness are the $2,500 added Rennert handicap, which has drawn several Preakness candidates, the $10,000 added Pimlico Oaks for three year old fillies, the $5,000 added Jennings handicap, the $2,500 Survivor stakes, the $20,000 added Dixie handicap and the $5,000 added Pimlico nursery.

Drake, Penn Performances End in a Draw

New York, April 28 (AP).—Track followers who fancy the Penn relays or the Drake relays had little to choose between the two when the returns were in last night. The two outstanding intercollegiate track meets of the outdoor season, one held in Philadelphia, the other in Des Moines, ended with neither able to file a claim for superiority in 1940. So the argument of which meet draws the strongest field is still a lively—and unsettled one.

There were four top relay performances at each meet. They were even in the field events and in the comparable running and hurdling races Drake pulled slightly ahead.

Here's a comparison of the winning performances at the Penn and Drake meets:

RELAY RACES.

Two miles—7:48.4, Maryland [P.]; 7:50.1, Michigan [D.].

Sprint medley—3:27.7, Princeton [P.]; 3:25.1, Indiana [D.].

Distance medley—10:12.8, Maryland [P.]; 10:12.6, Indiana [D.].

INDIVIDUAL EVENTS.

100 yards—9.8, Ellerbe, Tuskegee [P.]; 9.9, Ewell, Penn State [D.].

Two miles—9:25.9, Fehr, Michigan State [P.]; 9:22, Schwartzkopf, Michigan [D.].

Broad jump—25¾, Blount Dartmouth [P.]; 24.1¾, Brown, Louisiana State [D.].

Pole vault—14.2¾, Ross, Army [P.]; 14¾, Bryan, Texas [D].

Discus throw—154.6¼, Blozis, Georgetown [P.]; 150.70, Hughes, Texas [D.].

Kansas relays' winners outdid the best of these performances only in the sprint relay and the high jump, where Don Boydston of the Oklahoma Aggies leaped 6 feet 6 inches. But several others did well enough to be near the top in any all-star meet.

MAROONS AT SEA! STUDENTS OPEN YACHT PROGRAM

The University of Chicago doesn't propose to be caught napping by other members of the Western conference in yachting. The Yacht club, composed of students on the Midway, and which was chartered last February, has started its spring activity in nearby Lake Michigan.

Dr. Arthur H. Compton, faculty sponsor, is enthusiastic over the sport. "A yacht in every puddle and a yachtsman in every classroom," is the motto projected by the club. Commodore John T. Emerson, law school student, says the thrill in "coming about" with the deck at right angles is the cheapest thrill in the outdoor recreation catalog.

Michigan has taken up seamanship of this type and it is being considered at Northwestern, Minnesota, and other institutions. The Maroon athletic department is coöperating with the Yacht club, which has a Class B Columbia Yacht club type dinghy scheduled for launching this week.

International Hockey Season to Open Oct. 30

New York, April 28 (AP).—Officials of the International Hockey league agreed today on a season running from Oct. 30 to March 16 and re-elected Maurice Podoloff of New Haven, Conn., and John Chick of Windsor, Ont., president and vice president, respectively. Officials said Buffalo probably would be a member, altho not yet admitted officially. There is doubt, however, whether Syracuse will continue.

Broadway Pays Tribute to Jacobs at Funeral Rites

New York, April 28 (AP).—Funeral services for Joe Jacobs, fight manager, were held today in a midtown memorial chapel packed to overflowing by Broadway characters.

Virtually all the town's fight managers, sports writers, city and state political figures, fighters, actors and gamblers, paid what Rabbi Leo Ginsburg said was a more eloquent tribute to the little man than he could pay in words.

Pallbearers were Tony Galento, guided by Jacobs from the fistic scrap heap to the position of challenger for the heavyweight title; Harry Mendel, six day bike race promoter; Max Baer, one time heavyweight champion; Jimmy Braddock, another former titleholder; Gen. John J. Phelan, chairman of the New York state boxing commission, and Jimmy Johnston, fight promoter. Burial was in the family plot in a Long Island cemetery.

Jacobs died Wednesday in a doctor's office of a heart attack.

RECORD ENTRIES IN PROSPECT FOR ELMHURST MEET

A record breaking field of entries is in prospect for the eighth annual Elmhurst Intercollegiate invitational track meet, Coach O. M. Langhorst of Elmhurst college, who is director of the event, said yesterday. Seventy-odd midwest colleges have been invited to the meet which will be held in Elmhurst May 11.

Red-haired Max Lenover of Loyola, who as a freshman last year set records in the mile and half mile, is among the early entrants. Despite his brilliant 1939 performance, indications are that he will have a fight to steal the show this year. Bill Terwilliger, De Kalb sprinter, and Boli Elson of Loyola both threaten to crack the seven year old 100 yard dash record of 9.9 seconds. North Central's relay team is out to beat its record in last year's meet. Illinois Normal's Jimmy Hardgrove, who has made several bids for dash records, will be back for his last chance at a new mark.

Competition is expected to be stiff for the three team trophies. Northern Illinois Teachers, North Central, Loyola, and Milwaukee Teachers are determined to make strong showings. Another strong squad will be participating if Iowa Teachers elects to make the trip to Elmhurst. The Iowans lost the trophies by a single place last year.

BEST ATHLETE TO BE NAMED AT BELOIT RELAYS

Beloit, Wis., April 28 [Special].—Because Beloit relays officials believe individual stars at most relays meets do not receive enough recognition, a committee has been chosen to pick the outstanding athlete participating in the relays on Friday. The athlete so designated will receive a special award.

With 330 athletes from 30 small colleges jo pick from, the committee is slated to have quite a task on its hands. Winner of the special mile race is conceded to have a good chance of taking the award. The best possibilities in this event are Gilbert Dodds, Ashland [Ohio] college distance runner; Virgil Grace, understudy to Yankton's great Ralph Halla, Bob Hartman, Beloit's Midwest conference and state champion miler, and Dayton Kooper of Wheaton college.

Sheboygan Yacht Club Awarded Lake Regatta

Sheboygan, Wis., April 28 [Special].—The Sheboygan Yacht club will be host to the Lake Michigan Yachting association here July 4 to 7 for the organization's annual regatta. Sheboygan was selected at a spring meeting of the association. Approximately 30 clubs have been invited. Three classifications will participate—the snipe class, power boats, and large sail boats.

New York, April 28 (AP).—The Brooklyn Dodgers burned the New York Giants to a 5 to 3 crisp today before 51,659 fans who packed the Polo Grounds. Brooklyn's eighth straight victory was a bitter dose for the Giants, whose batting order was shaken up before the game.

Dolph Camilli.

Dolph Camilli's home run in the ninth inning, scoring Cookie Lavagetto who had walked, decided the game. Pete Coscarart of the Dodgers hit a homer behind Dixie Walker's single in the sixth. Mel Ott of the Giants hit his second homer of the season in the fifth.

Whitlow Wyatt, winning his second victory of the season, gave up ten hits to the Giants, but had great support. Score:

Boston, Mass., April 28 (AP).—The Boston Bees broke a six game losing streak today and scored their first triumph of the season, defeating the Philadelphia Phillies, 3 to 2, behind virtually airtight pitching by Joe (Lefty) Sullivan. In the seventh Sullivan's own wildness and his bobble on an easy infield roller set the stage for a two run Texas leaguer by Pinch Hitter Emmett Mueller.

INDIANS WIN IN 10TH.

Detroit, Mich., April 28 (AP).—Hal Trosky's 10th inning homer with Ben Chapman on base gave the Cleveland Indians an 11 to 9 victory over the Detroit Tigers today. The losers staged a six run uprising in the ninth to tie the score and used 17 players in a futile effort to win. Trosky's drive, fifth homer of the game, came with two out. Score:

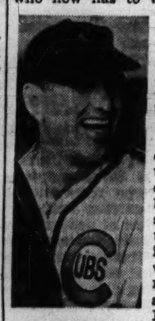
Dean Starts Again Today, if Cubs Play

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

St. Louis, Mo., April 28.—Diz Dean, who now has to work for a living, will make his third start tomorrow in the series final with the Cardinals. The Cubs will be opposed by Mort Cooper.



Diz Dean.

The Cardinals' officials, who love their double headers, and you can't blame 'em, will scan the skies in the morning and if there is a cloud within sight they might cancel the afternoon's show. In anticipation of such a move the Cubs have made preparations to take an afternoon train to Chicago.

The use of catchers Clyde McCullough and Bob Collins as pinch hitters in the ninth indicated that Hartnett might be undecided as to which of the pair he'll release. McCullough fanned, batting for Olsen, and Collins, batting for Hack, drew a pass.

Manager Gabby Hartnett made his box score debut for the season. He named himself to bat for Bill Nicholson in the eighth and popped to Stu Martin. Rip Russell batted for Phil Cavarretta in the same inning and fouled to Don Padgett.

hit, which opened the eighth. But the next two Cards couldn't get the ball past the infield and the third, Terry Moore, fanned.

The Cubs went hitless in the first inning but got down to business in the second by recording a pair of doubles against McGee. Leiber led off with a two base clout that almost cleared the left field bleacher wall, and scored a moment later on Nicholson's two base shot off the nearby right field screen. But there was no help for Nicholson. Cavarretta was tossed out, Al Todd popped out, Bobby Mattick was purposely passed, and Lee fanned. The Cards tied it in their half by adopting the same tactics. Medwick doubled and strolled home on Don Padgett's two bagger.

Leiber Gets Another Double.

Leiber was back for more bat swinging in the fourth and led off with his second two bagger—another drive to left. This tossed such a scare into McGee that he unintentionally walked Nicholson. Cavarretta whacked a single into center to move Leiber across the plate. Todd put a crimp in the rally by bouncing to Martin Marion for a double play, Nicholson going to third. McGee received orders to walk Mattick and his first throw turned into a wild pitch, Nicholson scoring. Mattick popped to Marion to end the inning.

The Cubs' two run lead started to melt after the Cardinals' first man, Enos Slaughter, was disposed of in the home half of the fourth. Medwick knocked Lee's second pitch into the left field bleachers. Mize stepped up, but unlike Medwick, didn't ignore the first pitch. He boomed it onto the pavilion roof in right center well beyond the 374 foot sign. The next happening was a double past third by Padgett. He went to third on Lee's balk and scored while Billy Herman was throwing out Moore.

Nicholson Drives Two Across.

Hack set the Cubs' fifth in action with a single off Mize's glove and was promoted to second on a wild pitch. Herman walked and the two runners advanced on Galan's out. Leiber was given a more or less intentional pass, filling the bases. Nicholson did a partial cleanup job by singling to right center, Hack and Herman scoring to put the Cubs ahead by 5 to 4. This is where McGee got his orders to quit. Shoun took over the mound task and quickly ended the splurge on Cavarretta's fly to Medwick.

Shoun led off in the Cards' fifth with a single to right, and there was frantic activity in the Cubs' pull pen. Stu Martin also singled to right. Lee's first pitch to Gutteridge looked so tempting that he swung mightily and gave it a ride into the left field bleachers. Olsen was called in and Slaughter singled, but a double play on Medwick's grounder and Mize's tap to Herman restored order.

The Cubs put only three men on base in their four and one-third innings against Shoun, two in the ninth. Pinch Hitter Bob Collins walked, and Herman singled to left, but there were already two gone and the game ended on Augie Galan's fly to Mize.

Rigney to Hurl Opener of Boston Series Tomorrow

When the White Sox resume action tomorrow, if what they have been doing can be called action, they will find themselves pitted against the ambitious Boston Red Sox in Fenway park, Boston. John D. Rigney, twice a loser in this infant season, is scheduled to pitch the opener of the three game series against Joe Cronin's boys.

The Sox have to face the Yankees in the Yankee stadium next Friday and Saturday, unless the weather man intervenes. After that things shouldn't be so tough, for the Sox are slated for three in Philadelphia and a pair in Washington.

Vernon Kennedy, scheduled to pitch yesterday for the Browns, came up with a sore finger. The Sox were sympathetic as well as disappointed.

Manager Jimmy Dykes did not accompany his stalwarts to Boston. He went to his home in Philadelphia and will rejoin his disillusioned protégés tomorrow morning.

Manager Dykes announced after the game that when his cellar boys open in Boston tomorrow Taft Wright, who is batting .444, will be fourth in the batting order instead of Julius Solters, .171. The two newcomers will trade places in the first change in the Sox battle front since the season opened on April 16.

PAPER COMPANY STOCKS RISE AS RESULT OF WAR

European Supplies Are Shut Off.

Europe's war has resulted in substantial gains in market prices of common stocks of companies manufacturing newsprint and pulp. This was shown yesterday in a study of the market activities of shares of a number of leading paper companies.

Before the Germans invaded Poland paper company stocks were selling at comparatively low levels. After the Hitler blitzkrieg paper shares rose rapidly. Later in the fall prices leveled off.

With the invasion of Norway in April, paper company shares again advanced as the war shut off newsprint and pulp supplies from that nation. Norway had been one of the world's leading suppliers of newsprint and pulp, especially to England and Europe.

Uncertain About Future.

Altho the time since the Norwegian market was shut off has been too short to affect newsprint and pulp supplies in this country, paper dealers said yesterday that uncertainty exists as to the future. American and Canadian newsprint and pulp companies will have to supply a large part of the world's market that was formerly in the hands of Norway. In this connection it is held likely that American and Canadian mills will largely export paper instead of the pulp from which the paper is made in order to conserve space in ships.

Indicating the increased interest in paper company shares, the stock of the International Paper and Power company, world's largest paper company, was the most active of any of the shares listed on the New York Stock exchange last week. The closing price on Saturday was 20⅝, only ⅛ [or 12½ cents] below the 1940 peak of 20¾. The low price for this stock in 1939 was 6⅝ and on Aug. 15, just before the start of the war, it sold at 7¼. Two weeks after the war started the stock sold at 12⅝.

Then Price Doubles.

In March, 1940, before Norway was invaded, International Paper's stock sold at a low for the year, 10¾. Since the Germans landed at Oslo its price has nearly doubled.

Paper making subsidiaries of International Paper have an annual capacity of about 2,400,000 tons. Head offices are in Boston.

Abitibi Power and Paper company's shares—a low priced stock quoted on the Toronto Stock exchange—currently is selling at more than four times its low of ½ [50 cents a share, Canadian] for 1939. In May, 1939, the stock sold at 50 cents a share and after the war started it sold at 3⅝ in September. In February of this year it had dropped back to about 1¼ and in April advanced to 2½, with yesterday's close at 2¼.

This company has eight newsprint mills and a pulp mill, all in Canada, and has its headquarters in Toronto.

Great Northern Paper Gains.

Shares of the Great Northern Paper company, Millinocket, Me., one of the most prosperous of the companies, were selling as low as 33 in April, 1939, but by November they were selling at 45. The low this year before the Norwegian invasion was 40, compared with yesterday's close of 48½. Shares are listed on the New York Curb.

Common stock of the Consolidated Paper Corporation, Ltd., Montreal, another large producer, sold at a high of 9 in September, 1939, but dropped back in November to 2⅝. In December it advanced to 7¼. The range this year has been 6½ to 8½. The stock is listed on the Montreal Curb.

	Sat. Close.	—1940— High.	Low.	—1939— High.	Low.

Skelly Oil Company's Net Earnings Are Much Higher

Skelly Oil company and subsidiaries announced March quarter net income rose to $773,281 from $239,080 in the corresponding 1939 period. Per share earnings on common stock, after preferred dividends, rose to 68 cents from 14 cents a year ago.

Foreign Grain Competing for U. S. Markets

Large offerings of Canadian cash oats, bran, and other wheat feeds in New England at prices well below those asked for American grain are reported to have driven the domestic products out of the market in that territory on a large scale.

Boston cash grain handlers in reports to Chicago interests say that Canadian cash oats are being offered 1 to 4 cents a bushel below American, and that the imported grain is of superior quality. One firm offered Canadian oats testing 42 to 44 pounds per bushel late last week at 51⅛ to 53½ cents, duty paid, while American oats, testing 36 to 40 pounds per bushel, were quoted at 54½ to 56¼ cents.

Foreign Oats at Gulf.

Argentine oats are being offered in the south for shipment from New Orleans, where the imported grain is quoted at 48½ cents, or about the same price as asked for oats of comparable quality in Chicago.

Canadian, Argentine, Brazilian, and Chilean bran is reported offered at Boston as low as $25.25 a ton, or as much as $5 less than is asked for American. Brazilian cottonseed meal is also quoted at a substantial discount. Argentine bran can be purchased for shipment as far ahead as next September. Other imported feeds being offered include South American sunflower seed meal and Canadian distillers dried grain.

As a result of the severe competition with Canadian oats in the east the price of cash oats in Chicago last week declined more than 1½ cents a bushel relative to May futures. No. 2 white oats, which were quoted 2¼ to 3 cents a bushel over the future a week ago, sold 1 to 1¼ cents above on Saturday.

Week's Prices Decline.

Liquidation of loan wheat by farmers and more favorable weather conditions in the winter wheat belt resulted in a sharp decline in Chicago prices last week. May wheat, which sold at $1.13 on April 22, the highest price since September, 1937, dropped more than 5 cents from the top.

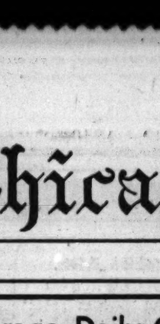
Little Business Fights to End Restrictions

Unless governmental restrictions on business are lifted and the tax burden decreased, the average small business man will be unable to carry on. This is the opinion of De Witt M. Emery, Akron, O., publisher and president of the National Small Business Men's association. He is attending an executive session of the association here.



De Witt M. Emery.

"The small business man," Emery said, "is beginning at last to wake up to the fact that it is absolutely necessary for him, if he's going to continue in business, to take more active interest in government. In fact, many small business men are now willing to admit that if they had not been asleep at the switch for several years they could have offered more effective opposition to much of the burdensome and troublesome legislation they now have to contend with."

A Fight Is Promised.

J. Raymond Tiffany of Hoboken, N. J., general counsel for the association, expressed similar views. He said he believed the small business man "would no longer take continued governmental interference without a fight."

"Small business is beginning to feel its power," Tiffany said. "That power, when fully awakened, is going to demand the right to continue the operation of business, and its effect upon the well-being and happiness of every individual in this nation, without haphazard and stifling laws, confiscatory taxation, or throttling of free enterprise."

Chicagoan Opens Office for Drive.

The association has announced the election of Donald Despain of Chicago, authority on industrial relations, as executive vice president. He was elected in New York City at a meeting of the national board of trustees.

Despain has set up headquarters at 100 West Monroe street for a campaign to mobilize small business men to combat governmental interference. The association also combats political waste and inefficiency and poor administration of municipal, state, and federal affairs.

1,250,000 WORKERS LEAVE WPA IN LAST 12 MONTHS

Washington, D. C., April 28 (AP).—More than 1,250,000 workers have left the WPA rolls voluntarily during the last 12 months, presumably to take private employment, it was disclosed today.

Col. F. C. Harrington, commissioner of works projects, made public the figures in connection with President Roosevelt's proclamation of the first seven days in May as National Employment week. He said 100,000 a month were leaving WPA at present, but that many were forced to return to it.

INVESTORS SYNDICATE.

I am interested in buying a savings contract from Investors Syndicate. Can I consider such a contract part of my insurance program? J. H.

Answer: Investors Syndicate [Minneapolis, Minn.], sells investment contracts mainly on the instalment basis and also a prepaid form.

The contracts mature after 15 years. Behind each prepaid contract the company agrees to maintain at least 100 per cent in securities and behind the surrender value of each instalment contract, 105 per cent.

The two types of contracts written by Investors Syndicate are:

1. The coupon certificates are sold outright in $100, $500, and $1,000 units and bear interest of 3 per cent payable semiannually. The purchaser has the option of reselling his certificate to the company, but may be required to give 90 days' notice before withdrawal.

2. The instalment investment contracts are written in maturity face values of from $1,250 to $100,000 and provide a return of 3 per cent if held to maturity. Premiums on the $2,500 unit are $130 a year for 15 years which may be paid in a lump sum, or in semiannual, quarterly, or monthly instalments at slight additional cost. Contracts have cash surrender value only after 12 months. In the event of disability or death of the holder before 60 years of age, the contracts can be liquidated at the full amount paid in plus 3 per cent compound interest.

The company's investment portfolio at the end of 1939 showed a greater preponderance of real estate loans than that of the average well managed insurance firm. Mortgages yield higher returns but reduce the liquidity of the portfolio.

Total resources were $144,275,944 and included securities valued at $35,105,596; FHA insured mortgages, $62,775,015; other first mortgages, $37,198,220; cash, $5,058,113, and real estate, $4,450,842. Surrender value of contracts outstanding at the end of 1939 was $99,672,841.

Investment contracts should not be considered substitutes for life insurance because they do not provide for face value payments at death. Before purchasing a contract, the investor should determine whether he will be able to pay the premiums for 15 years and whether its provisions, after thoro reading, meet his individual needs. If he has no assurance that he can carry the contract to maturity, then such a savings plan is not suitable because the contract can be cashed in only at a loss during its early years.

[A general description of savings contracts will be sent to investors desiring further information on the subject.]

MORE AMERICAN SECURITIES SOLD BY FOREIGNERS

January Net Volume Is 4½ Millions.

BY JOHN FISHER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 28.—Reflecting wartime conditions, English and Canadian holdings of American securities were reduced further in January, the treasury reported today. The result was that net sales of American securities by foreigners totaled $4,479,000 for the month.

The treasury also disclosed that the 2-billion dollar exchange stabilization fund operated by the treasury increased its holdings of government bonds by $7,282,000 during the last six months of 1939, showing the support which the fund gave the bond market during a severe slump caused by the outbreak of war last fall.

The fund held $2,282,000 of government issues at the close of the year and showed a profit of $18,750,112 since its creation in 1934 out of "profit" derived from devaluation of the dollar. The fund made a "profit" of $2,784,257 for the last six months of 1939, most of it from gold bullion and handling charges on gold.

High Mark Set in October.

The liquidation figure on foreign-held securities compared with a low during the war months of $1,087,000 in December and a high liquidation of $49,698,000 last October.

Gross purchases of American securities by foreigners in January amounted to $45,628,000 and gross sales were $50,107,000, the difference representing the net sales for the month.

The British holdings are under supervision of governmental control and are being liquidated to provide the empire with American dollars with which to make wartime purchases in the United States. English and Canadian investors reduced their holdings $12,365,000 and $3,270,000, respectively, in January, compared with reductions of $10,189,000 and $3,338,000 in the preceding month.

Other Belligerents' Figures.

Of other belligerents, the treasury report showed that the French had net purchases of $567,000 in American securities, and German investors had net sales of $127,000. Italian investors had net purchases of $245,000.

Switzerland and the Netherlands continued to be the heavy buyers of American securities during the month. Switzerland made net purchases of $4,484,000 compared with $8,386,000 in December, and the Netherlands showed net purchases of $1,614,000 against $1,550,000.

Asiatic investors reversed their position in January with net purchases of $1,677,000 of American securities. In December, net sales amounted to $2,235,000.

The total net capital movement between the United States and foreign countries showed an inflow of $37,595,000 in January compared with an inflow of $5,046,000 in December, 1939, reflecting the use of the United States by foreigners as a haven for assets threatened by the war, or for payment of wartime purchases in this country.

Short Term Balances Rise.

Foreign short-term balances increased from $2,948,035,000 on Jan 3 to $2,994,739,000 on Jan. 31, and were $89,372,000 higher than on Aug. 30, 1939, just before the European war began.

British short-term balances declined $43,766,000 to $404,451,000 in January and since August, 1939, have fallen $190,046,000. French funds rose to $290,591,000 in the month, but for the five months ended Jan. 31 were off $25,262,000.

Belgium's short-term balance at the close of January totaled $166,215,000; Denmark, $28,703,000; Finland, $23,822,000; Norway, $66,986,000, and Sweden, $162,385,000. All showed increases.

United States balances abroad increased from $508,702,000 on Jan. 3 to $533,043,000 on Jan. 31. Balances in $533,043,000 on Jan. 31.

Steel Makers Net 140 Million; Price Policy May Aid Business

New York, April 28 (AP).—The steel industry, which had a 1938 loss of $14,506,000, came back last year with earnings of $140,394,000 after all charges, the American Iron and Steel institute reported today. The figures were based on the operating results of companies accounting for more than 90 per cent of the industry's total output.

On "an average investment of $4,180,600,000 in 1939 the steel companies earned 4.2 per cent," said the institute.

EXPECT STEEL GAIN.

Prospects for sustained or slightly expanded steel operations have been enhanced by the action of producers in rescinding $4 a ton price cuts effective May 1, the magazine Steel reported yesterday. However, some of the stimulation may be at the expense of business which might normally be placed in July and August, the survey said.

Most changes in steel district operations were upward last week, but a drop of 4½ points to 57 per cent of plant capacity at Chicago held the national average steady at 61½ per cent, the magazine said. Pittsburgh's operations were maintained at 55 per cent.

Foreign Business Active.

Altho the loss of Scandinavian business is retarding export trade, foreign business remains active, the survey said. March shipments abroad set a new peak at 457,052 gross tons, highest since the last world war. The total was 436,585 tons in February and 162,098 in March, 1939.

"First quarter deliveries of 1,289,701 tons, valued at $98,735,419, were almost three times as large as the 431,663 tons moved in the corresponding 1939 period and exceeded shipments for the full year 1936," the magazine reported. "In 1917, the industry's most active export year, the foreign movement averaged 1,737,000 tons per quarter.

He also announced that the national controller of the currency had approved a change in the bank's name. The bank will move to the Field building Sept. 1. It is now at 228 North La Salle street. The institution will be known as the La Salle National bank after May 1.

Phillips said the directors have approved preliminary plans drawn by Shaw, Naess & Murphy, architects, for the new quarters.

Work of unloading the New York News, which arrived immediately behind the Outarde, was started yesterday.

Two other Tribune ships, the motorships Chicago Tribune and Franquelin, were en route to Chicago yesterday. The Tribune was expected to dock at midnight last night. The Franquelin is due in at noon today. The Shelter Bay, Thorold, and Heron Bay, the other three vessels, will arrive during the week.

MARCH INVENTORIES OF MANUFACTURERS ARE LITTLE CHANGED

New York, April 28 (AP).—Manufacturers' inventories were little changed in March and the recent declining trend of new orders showed signs of reversal, the National Industrial conference board reported today.

Value of inventories, according to reports made to the conference board by manufacturers, was 1 per cent less than at the end of February, but 17 per cent higher than at the close of March, 1939.

"Absence of further important accumulation since the end of last January," said the survey, "indicates that the inventory situation has been brought under control. This has been accomplished more quickly than in 1937, and before stocks had been built up to the 1937 high level."

Value of new business booked in March, based on the conference board's seasonally adjusted index, was only 2 per cent less than in February, compared with a drop of about 10 per cent from January to February, and stood 8 per cent above the level for March, 1939.

INCOME PAYMENT TO INDIVIDUALS RISES 5 PER CENT

Washington, D. C., April 28 [Special].—Income payments to individuals in the United States during the first quarter of 1940 totaled $17,570,000,000, an increase of 5 per cent over the total for the same period of 1939, the department of commerce announced today.

[The payments include wages and salaries received by employés, dividends and interest received by investors, rents and royalties, relief payments, etc.]

Income payments during March totaled $5,936,000,000, a 4 per cent increase over March, 1939. The March rise over the February total of $5,567,000,000 was entirely seasonal, the department said, and reflected the rise in dividend and interest disbursements from $455,000,000 in February to $827,000,000 in March.

Wages and salaries received by employés during the first quarter aggregated $11,143,000,000, an increase of $500,000,000 over the first three months of 1939. Employés' income during March was $3,729,000,000, compared with $3,691,000,000 in February.

Marshall Field & Co. Doubles Earnings.

General Motors corporation yesterday reported consolidated net earnings, including equities in the earnings of subsidiaries not consolidated, in the March quarter were $67,028,461, or $1.50 a common share, compared wth $53,177,928, or $1.18 per share, in the 1939 quarter.

Alfred P. Sloan Jr., chairman, disclosed to stockholders that the improvement in business that began about the middle of last year and which favorably affected the fourth quarter of that year, has been sufficiently maintained to cause a substantial increase in the corporation's business in the first quarter this year over the same quarter last year.

Profit About Doubled.

Pronounced improvement in earnings of Marshall Field & Co. for the quarter and 12 months ended March 31 were announced by the company in a statement accompanying dividend checks sent to stockholders. F. D. Corley, president, signed the statement.

Profit for the March quarter this year, after federal income taxes, was $854,405, nearly double the $428,184 earned in the first three months of 1939. Per share earnings in the respective quarters were 32 cents and 10 cents.

Nets 5 Million in 12 Months.

In the 12 months the company's net income rose to $5,062,779, equal to $2.14 a common share, from $3,538,607, or $1.36 a share, in the preceding 12 months.

Corley said sales and rental income for the quarter climbed 11.9 per cent to $20,202,550, from $18,049,598 in the 1939 period. Sales and rental income in the 12 months, $88,926,873, was 8.1 per cent larger than the $82,298,433 in the preceding 12 months.
